Prohibition Flying.
Outstripping the Rockets.
New Power Will Come.
Meet The Aboona.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HENRY FORD said we must have prohibition because flying is here and air pilots must be sober.

This column suggested that air pilots are sober in Europe without prohibition.

NOW prohibition itself confirms Mr. Ford's statement concerning the importance of sobriety in flying.

While "stunting" a few feet above the ground, Wilmer Stultz, brilliant aviator who piloted Miss Earhart across the ocean, killed himself and passengers.

IT IS officially reported, following examination by a chemist for the district attorney, that Stultz was "very drunk" when he crashed.

IT IS now solemnly proposed to "dry up the speakeasies around the airfields."

Not a bad idea, except that YOU CAN'T close the speakeasies. And those speakeasies unfortunately sell the most deadly bootleg whisky.

FREDERICK SUTTER, an invalid, and 79 years old less one day, talked it over with his wife, 65 years old, on the Fourth. While the firecrackers were exploding, Mr. and Mrs. Sutter, with the aid of gas, went higher and farther than any skyrocket ever flew.

Their nephew found them side by side, with their arms around one another.

THE Greeks, and other ancients would have approved that, believing that life is given us to keep or cast away.

Even in our Christian day, no one will blame too harshly the old couple for deciding to sleep longer than usual.

WHEN this was written yesterday, Mitchell and Newcomb were about to break the world's endurance record, with the aid of re-fueling.

Any good aeroplane could easily fly around the earth without stopping, if it could carry enough fuel for the trip.

THAT will seem strange to our descendants, who will produce a fuel to carry even today's imperfect planes around the world 50 times.

WHEN ocean steamships, with coal for power, were first suggested, engineers said:

"Even if it could work, it couldn't possibly carry enough coal for an ocean trip."

One of the Wright brothers said truly that he could fly around the earth on a barn door if he had power enough.

CHEMISTRY will supply a new power, perhaps, by breaking down the atom, stripping the electrons from the nucleus, that will make today's gas engine seem as primitive as a Japanese servant pulling his master's jinricksha.

READ some day, in that same "astronomy and cosmogony" by Jeans, his hypothesis as to the source of the sun's power, emitted ceaselessly through billions of years.

THE Aboona of Abyssinia has been elected and inaugurated, with solemn Ethiopian ceremony.

That is mentioned only because the word "aboona" is such a pleasing word that it seems to describe so well the patriarchal religious ruler of 3,000,000 Ethiopians.

The new aboona, as usual, is an Egyptian. Abyssinia thinks he ought to be an Abyssinian, and that Abyssinian bishops should be appointed under him.

These complications, fortunately, do not interest us, although the World Court and League of Nations would probably hand us the entire problem, aboona and all, if we were foolish enough to "go in."

MR. LAMONT, of Morgan & Co., able citizen and brilliant financier, emphasizes the importance of the bank of international acceptances, suggested by the reparations experts, in Paris.

Mr. Lamont thinks the bank would have great and important world power and influence.

THE average American does not share the opinion that this country should make itself a part of that bank, appoint directors on its board and allow it to use our federal reserve as part of its convenient machinery.

KINDNESS of heart would veto the federal reserve idea.

If that magnificent institution makes Americans pay 12, 15 and 20 per cent interest on money, what would it do to the poor unhappy nations of Europe?

STEEL TRADE PROSPERS IN JUNE

Usual Summer Letup Fails To Materialize; Retail Volume Shows Increase

Another large increase in Pittsburgh's payroll was scored for the month of June, workers receiving $38,303,372 as against $34,459,000 in the same month in 1928.

Managing Director J. C. Nevin, of the Pittsburgh branch of the Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank, said that payrolls for Pittsburgh and adjacent territory not only are increasing, but are showing record proportions over an extended period.

INCREASE OVER 1928

The payroll for May was $39,360,000. He declared that, considering the fact there were five Sundays in June and one less working day than in the month of May, that the June payroll is really an increase over May and more than a 10 percent increase over the payroll of June of last year.

The fact that payrolls continue to show an increase is being reflected in the city's business. The retail trade for May showed an increase of 4.4 per cent and is 1.4 per cent ahead for the year to May 1. The retail trade for June is expected to show a good increase.

STEEL TRADE GOOD

While a few lines of business are off, yet in the industrial sections labor is reported well employed and more particularly in the steel industry. Ordinarily Mr. Nevin pointed out that June should show a let down, because of it being a summer month, but there was apparently no let down the last month.

The July payrolls are expected to be much larger than the payrolls of last July, owing to the capacity at which industry is operating at the present time.

Bricklayer Finds Fortune in Ruins

LLANES, Spain, July 6.—(AP.)—Friends of a bricklayer have had a right royal time with banquets and drinks galore, all paid for with gold. The police thought the bricklayer must be a robber, but it turned out that in tearing down a house he had found an old box containing 60,000 gold pesetas about 200 years old.

RECORD BROKEN BY CLEVELAND FLIERS

Boy Killed as 75,000 Rush Plane; Pilots, Exhausted, Land After 174 Hours

CLEVELAND, July 6.—(AP.)—Holders of a new world's record for endurance flights, 174 hours and 59 seconds, Pilots Roy L. Mitchell and Byron K. Newcomb today rested their wearied bodies after remaining in the air from a week ago Friday afternoon until 12:39:50 this morning, when they brought their plane to earth at Cleveland airport.

They exceeded by one hour, 28 minutes and 58 seconds the old mark set recently in Fort Worth, Tex., by Reginald Robbins and James Kelley, who remained aloft 172 hours 32 minutes and 1 second.

FIELD OVERRUN

Weariness brought the airmen to a landing amid the riotous acclaim of 75,000 persons, one of whom was killed, after a flight which became more hazardous and difficult as the days aloft cut down their physical endurance. During the rush to the fliers, the field was overrun and Steve Kusko, 16, was electrocuted as he climbed to a vantage point atop an electric interurban car.

The spectacle of thousands spending the night in the open was presented when the crowd found the worst traffic jam of the city's history blocking egress from the field. Motorists spent hours near the airport, hopelessly tangled in traffic snarls, unable to thread a way through the maze of automobiles, and frequently mired in the mud. Traffic lanes were demoralized. Crowding, pushing and jockeying for progress by inches, motorists were caught in a blockade lasting all night.

FIGHT THROUGH STORM

The climax of the attempt came but a few hours before it ended, and the two men said it nearly killed them. They survived a severe electrical storm which damaged their refueling plane in a forced landing and stopped all other air traffic to fight on for the record, attained 12 hours later.

Exhausted, the airmen immediately were taken under guard to a

Anzac Fliers Reach Persia From India

BUNDER ABBAS, Persia, July 6.—(AP.)—Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and three companions arrived here at noon today from Karachi, British India, in their airplane, the Southern Cross. The distance was about 700 miles.

NEGRO, WOMAN, SLUG CASHIER, ROB BANK

International News Service.

DAUPHIN, Pa., July 6.—Acting with ruthless efficiency that stamped them as professionals, two bandits, a Negro man and woman confederate, today held up and robbed the Dauphin National Bank and escaped with $2,000 in currency after beating the bank's cashier, Harold Cobaugh, about the head.

Cobaugh, who was knocked unconscious from the blow, recovered soon after the men left the bank, and seizing his revolver, started in pursuit of their car, firing as he ran.

STATRT PURSUIT

The sound of Cobaugh's shots aroused the community and a car was summoned to pursue the fleeing trio. It is believed, police said, that the robbers' car turned from the main highway at Heckton and headed toward the mountains between this town and Harrisburg.

ABANDON CAR

Police said they believed the robbers' car had developed a flat tire near the Harrisburg Country Club and had been abandoned, the trio either taking another car or continuing their flight afoot. Witnesses to the departure of the trio said that two of the young men were white and that the third was a Negro.

POLICE OFFICER SUICIDE

Patrick Barrett, 40, a policeman reporting at the Squirrel Hill station, alleged by police to have shot himself at his home, 7351 Hamilton avenue, last night, died in Columbia Hospital shortly after 4 a. m. today. He leaves a widow and three children.

Mrs. Barrett told police that shortly after 9 o'clock last night she heard a shot from the upstairs of her home, and going to a bedroom found her husband lying across the bed with blood streaming from a wound in his left breast. Nearby lay a revolver. At the hospital it was found that the bullet penetrated near the heart and came out of the left side, fracturing the left arm.

Barrett, who had been on the police department 10 years, was on vacation. Mrs. Barrett said he had been despondent during the past few days.

Man Killed in Fall From Hotel Window

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 6.—(AP.)—Sgt. Patrick Seibolt, attached to the United States Medical Corps at Denver, Col., was fatally injured last night when he walked through a low window in a hotel and plunged to the street below. Seibolt suffered a fractured skull and died at the Warne Hospital.

Cards found among his possessions indicated that his home was at 515 East Liberty street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

There no such address in Pittsburgh as that given in the Pottsville dispatch and the name of "Patrick Seibolt" does not appear in any directory here.

MRS. VELMA MILLER FEE

Mrs. Fee, held in the shooting of her husband, Charles, school teacher, has exonerated Walter Conklin, garageman arrested with her, and says she shot her husband because she wanted to "be rid" of him, according to District Attorney Burchinal.

STRIKERS RIOT; BURN 4 CARS

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 6.—(AP.)—Three street cars were burned at the Canal street barn early today in addition to one destroyed at the foot of Canal street yesterday. Other cars sent out on the lines were practically demolished by rocks before the City Council instructed that all attempts at operating cars be halted during the carmen's strike.

Police, riot guns, tear bombs and high pressure streams of water were used to quell disturbances and interrupt the almost continuous stoning of railway premises by union sympathizers in the crowd of several thousand. Police warned the union men that they would take their lives in their hands if they sought to force entrance into the barns.

Sylvan Thibodeaux, union motorman, died from a bullet wound through the head received from a volley from inside of one of the street cars, and Joseph Molinerio, 60-year-old car washer, died from a bullet wound through the neck. Received in the riots of Thursday night, William T. Foret, union conductor, was in the hospital for treatment of a bullet wound through the shoulder.

Weather Holds Plane At Hudson Bay Post

OTTAWA, Ont., July 6.—(AP.)—Radio messages to the Department of Marine and Fisheries indicated that the Chicago-Berlin plane, Untin Bowler, was weather-bound today at Great Whale, a Hudson Bay trading post. Great Whale is about 250 miles north of Rupert House, where the plane spent Thursday night.

WIFE ADMITS ATTACK TO RID SELF OF MATE

Garage Owner Exonerated as Woman Confesses; Denies Causing Death of Child

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 6.—Walter Conklin, Houston garage proprietor, released on $2,500 bail following admission by Mrs. Velma Miller Fee that she shot her husband, Charles, 40, Washington County school teacher, as he lay in bed Wednesday morning, was exonerated of complicity in the alleged attempted murder in a statement by the woman to District Attorney Warren S. Burchinal, the latter announced.

Conklin, a friend of the Fee family for more than two years, had been held on a technical charge of accessory to felonious assault and battery with intent to kill.

HUSBAND NEAR DEATH

In her statement, District Attorney Burchinal said, Mrs. Fee refuted her first version of the shooting and subsequent stories which implicated Conklin. At the outset, Mrs. Fee told authorities that a Negro burglar had shot her husband when he refused to accede to the intruder's demands for money. Later, according to authorities, she admitted the shooting, but blamed Conklin, who, she claimed, planned the shooting and exerted an influence over her.

Late yesterday Mrs. Fee retracted these accusations and assumed full responsibility for the shooting, authorities said, declaring she desired to "be rid" of her husband.

The husband, a war veteran, had been in ill health for some time. He was shot lying in bed, the bullet penetrating his back and following a course through his lungs, lodging in the bed mattress beneath. He is in a critical condition in the hospital here.

CALM DURING QUIZ

Mrs. Fee, mother of three children, one of whom was drowned under mysterious circumstances two years ago, has remained calm throughout th investigation. Her first explanation of the shooting in which she described how a bandit first threatened her and then shot her husband when they refused to

KOLP TO OPPOSE PIRATES TODAY

Ray Kolp, Cincinnati pitcher who was reported punched by Hack Wilson in the baseball scrap at Chicago, will appear in person and without marks, on Fogarty Knoll this afternoon, as the Pirates and Reds play a single game. Steve Swetonic will oppose Kolp. Ray denies that Wilson hit him.

The Redland flinger trimmed the Pirates one week ago today in a slab duel that also featured Swetonic. Steve will leave no stone unturned to reverse the decision this afternoon.

The Pirates had a narrow margin over the Cubs on first place as they moved into action. The Bruins are opposing the Braves today.

Hughey Critz, clever captain of the Reds is out of the game for an indefinite period as a result of a collision with Riggs Stephenson in the Chicago series.

The Pirates will leave for Brooklyn tonight where Sunday they will begin their second invasion of the East.

Fliers' Food, Hope Low as SOS Calls Fail

This is the third chapter of one of the most dramatic tales of the air and sea ever told. It is by Maj. Ramon Franco, commander of the Spanish government expedition which started from Spain for America aboard the Dornier-Wahl flying boat Numancia on June 21, only to meet with disaster near the Azores.

By MAJ. RAMON FRANCO,
Commander of the Spanish Seaplane Numancia.

MADRID, July 6.—As we were very near the Azores, we supposed we would be sought by searching parties around the islands ,but the strong contrary north winds which prevailed when we were about 100 nautical miles from the islands made even this hope rather vague.

We had supper from the remnants of our afternoon meal, having still the untouched emergency supply we carried with us.

It is now dawn on the twenty-third. Everything on board is just the same. We managed to arrange our radio receiver in the morning and this afternoon we are able to do just a little working with our transmitter, but we got very little range. We hope that by transmitting during the night, we will be able to enlarge our reach and summon aid.

We have a thermos bottle with cold coffee, and four tins of condensed milk, each tin containing about four litres. With this food, we have our breakfast, which we heat over the spirit stove that we carried on board.

Tobacco Supply Exhausted.

The wind diminished, and the battering seas let up a bit.

Our tobacco supply was gone, but I remember then that in one of the pockets of my dungarees, I have six thirty-cent cigars from the Canary Islands, and these are very good, indeed.

My dungarees have been used as a pillow by Gallarza; therefore the cigars were all broken. Nevertheless, we smoked one a day, passing it around among the four of us, the same way as the Moors smoke their Keif pipes.

This smoking time was the best part of the day, and we were even happy then, although we were sometimes worried about the anxious moments which our families were going through, believing us eaten by some shark.

In the morning of the twenty-third, we were visited by a sea bird, a little larger than a swallow, but still very much like one. It flew very well, and often came to the water, which made us jealous. This bird made us think land was near, but when at mid-day we checked our position, we found ourselves very near the place at which we had landed and where we took off again on the previous day—more than 100 miles from Fayal, and out of the ordinary track of ships, still without any possibility of our feeble radio being heard.

Water All Gone—Consternation.

On the same morning, our water supply gave out. With all kinds of visible consternation among us, we decided to use the water from the radiator. We prepared a filter with the gasoline funnel and cotton, and upon opening the water-cock, the water appears to be very clean and quite palatable. This day—the twenty-third, of all days—appeared to be a very lucky one despite our superstition that the number 23 means "Skiddoo!"

Through our efforts with the improvised lifeboat—rain barrel, and the draining of the radiators, we now have 130 litres of fine water. Our radio is working, and the wind is from the northwest. Thus we are not being driven much away from the archipelago, but toward the eastern part of the group—the islands of Sao Miguel and Santa Maria.

We began to imagine our stay at sea was to be a long one, and decided the food we have taken for eight days had to be rationed out in order to last us 15 or 20 days. It is an easy matter disposing of water, which always diminishes that feeling of hunger and is somewhat nutritive.

Ship Crew Saves 9 Lives, Rescues Cat Mascot

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—There are cats and cats, but to the wholly plebeian Olaf, mascot of the liner Sud Americano, belongs the distinction of having had all nine of his lives saved at once, so to speak.

The Sud Americano, on her maide voyage, was 800 miles out from New York and plowing her way through a high sea when the lookout yelled:

"Cat overboard!"

"It's Olaf!" quoth the captain.

He was right. Although the ship was making 17 knots, he ordered her hove to. A lifeboat was lowered away with Chief Officer S. Anderson and six oarsmen aboard. Through high waves they cruised about until Olaf, swimming for dear life, was hauled aboard.

POINCARE FIGHTS AGAINST DEBT RESERVATIONS

GOVERNMENT FEARS U. S. ATTITUDE

France Knows Tieup With Young Plan Will Endanger Entire Financial Situation

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT.
International News Service.

PARIS, July 6.—Premier Poincare and his government colleagues intend to battle for their war debt ratification views on the floor of the Chamber of Deputies, it was indicated this afternoon.

Premier Poincare is opposed to the strong reservations proposed by the finance committee and the foreign affairs committee of the Chamber of Deputies, believing that they will prevent the United States from accepting any war debt accord which make French payments to the United States conditional upon German reparation payments to France.

RESERVATIONS OPPOSED

"The government unanimously maintains its views upon war debt ratification. The government considers the text of the reservations voted by the commissions (finance and foreign affairs) be unacceptable."

A bill for more than $400,000,000 owing to the United States for war supplies falls due on August 1. However, if the Chamber ratifies the Mellon-Berenger war debt agreement before that time in a manner acceptable to America, this bill will not have to be paid until later.

CRISIS AVERTED

For a time it looked as though the reservations issue would precipitate a cabinet crisis leading to the resignation of Premier Poincare. Such a crisis was averted when the chamber voted to postpone interpellations of the government, showing that the Poincare group was still maintaining a majority.

FRANCE WARNED

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The United States has notified France that any reservations appended to the ratification of her debt to this country will nullify the Mellon-Berenger agreement.

This was learned from highest official sources yesterday following receipt of cabled dispatches that the French Chamber was proposing ratification contingent upon certain reservations.

The movement to make French war payments to the United States depend upon German reparations payments to France has received the confirmation of the finance and foreign affairs committees.

POLITE BUT FIRM

Secretary Stimson couched the position of this government in such terms that French susceptibilities were in no way offended. Nevertheless, he pointed out that previous communications between the two governments on the subpect of war debts had already anticipated the matter of French reservations to ratification.

The United States declines to accept the provisions of the Young plan as binding for American international accords, and any French reservation invoking the Young plan will not be taken into account as justifying France's non-payment of her engagements with this government. If France ratifies the Mellon-Berenger agreement, she will be expected to acquit her interest payments even if Germany suspends reparations payments.

RATIFY OR PAY

If the French Chamber does not ratify the Mellon-Berenger agreement, she will be asked to pay on August 1 the $407,000,000 for the war supplies which falls due on that date. In addition, it will be necessary for France to begin negotiations for funding anew the French war debt to the United States. This is fraught with great concern for France, because the principle of American settlement of all war debts has been on the "capacity to pay" basis. This means that French payments would be gauged on the financial conditions of the France of 1929, not the France of 1925.

Gets 30 Days for Policeman Attack

James Reddick, 35, of 2915 Carson street, arrested by Patrolman Tynon at Carson and So. Twenty-ninth streets, Thursday, was committed to the workhouse for 30 days by Magistrate George England in South Side Police Court, yesterday, after it was testified by the officer that the defendant attacked him with his service mace when he was placing him under arrest for a minor offence. Reddick was later charged with being a suspicious person. The officer suffered slight bruises on the head.

FLIGHT RECORD BROKEN

hotel, to sleep throughout the day if they desire.

"We broke the record. That's enough. All we want now is sleep," Newcomb said.

CROWDS JAM ROADS

High lights of the feat followed rapidly last night and early today as the record was reached, a new mark was set and the landing made.

Roads were jammed for miles, and the airport was crowded with spectators when the record was equalled shortly before midnight. The crowd increased as the Stinson-Detroiter monoplane, City of Cleveland, rode through the darkness, concealed in the murky atmosphere high above the airport.

The waiting crowd watched anxiously as the next hour passed, and joined in a terrific outburst as the record was set at 12:10:52. Rockets and flares were released in salute to the airmen, a display of fireworks added to the brilliance of lights at the field.

A little later the cruising lights of the ship appeared as the pilots dropped from the altitude of 3,000 feet which they had held early in the night. Twinkling against the darkness the lights swung about the airport, straightened out to the East and then climbed again.

RESCUED FROM MOB

Thinking that the flight was to continue, the crowd tried to disperse but few had left their places at 12:37 when a red flare, the signal of a landing, was dropped from the plane.

Less than 10 minutes later the wheels touched earth. Then the crowd cheered. Police were helpless. As the pilots swung the ship around hundreds crowded the craft, hanging to the wings and tail as it was taxied to the hangar of the Stewart Aircrafe Corporation, backers of the flight.

Mitchell and Newcomb rose smiling from their seats and stepped out. Again the mob fought to get near the fliers. They were hurried into the company's offices inside the hangar and many of those unable to follow fell upon the plane tearing at it with their hands as they sought souvenirs. It was not seriously damaged, however.

Once inside the office the men said they were tired out, that they had broken the record and that they saw no reason for flying longer against the weariness which tortured them. They praised the performance of their engine and plane, and declared that their motor would have functioned indefinitely.

RECORD SPURS PAIR

CULVER CITY, Cal., July 6.—(INS.)—Bent on bettering the new Newcomb-Mitchell endurance flight mark, Pilots L. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhart had passed the 94½-hour mark in the air today.

Over a radio set on their biplane Angeleno the Californians learned of the new record set in Cleveland and dropped a note asking that their congratulations be telegraphed to the Ohio airmen.

In another message Mendell and Reinhart stated their motor was working better than ever and was consuming less gasoline.

Small Boat En Route Over Ocean Sighted

NAHANT, Mass., July 6.—(AP.)—The United States coast guard radio station here received a wireless report from the coast guard cutter Antietam saying that David Turner and his 16-foot tender, bound for Europe, were sighted 30 miles east of Cape Ann.

CHIEFS SILENT ON NEW DRY KILLINGS

Official Reports on Slaying Of Two Men in Oklahoma Awaited in Washington

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Prohibition Bureau officials are awaiting receipt of official reports of the killing of James Harris and the fatal wounding of Oscar Lowry, his brother-in-law, in a dry raid on Harris' farm near Tecumseh, Okla., Thursday.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, in general charge of prohibition enforcement, and Prohibition Commissioner Doran, directly in charge, last night withheld comment pending receipt of official versions of the raid, reported to have been led by W. W. Thomason, a Federal prohibition officer, with three local officers co-operating. The only information they had last night was that contained in press reports.

GUN BAN RECALLED

These reports, Lowman stated, would be made direct to Doran, and would not reach his office until after they had gone through the regular channels in Doran's bureau. Doran left Washington for New York late yesterday. At that time he had had no official word from Oklahoma.

It was recalled today that following the recent killing of Henry Virkula at International Falls, Minn., prohibition officials here made public rigid instructions to prohibition officers to resort to the use of firearms only where necessary in self-defense to protect their own lives and specifically not to shoot promiscuously or to prevent the escape of a suspected violator.

Prohibition and customs officials also are awaiting official reports of the shooting of two alleged rum runners in a spectacular chase by coast guardsmen in the Detroit River sector.

HEARING TUESDAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 6.—(INS.)—State and federal authorities today were investigating the slaying of two men in a prohibition raid near Tecumseh, a village 50 miles east of here.

James Harris, a farmer, whose place was being raided, was shot and instantly killed Thursday, and Oscar Lowry, a neighbor, who was at the Harris farm, died late yesterday from a pistol shot suffered during the raid.

Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday of next week in the cases of Jeff D. Harris, Tom Little and John D. Williams against whom charges of murder were filed by the attorney of Pottawatomie County.

W. W. Thomason, federal prohibition enforcement officer of long experience, had not appeared at the county attorney's office, but was expected at any time. Thomason was with the other three men when the raid was made on the Harris home and is also faced with a first degree murder charge.

MAN CLEARED IN FEE CASE

comply with the robber's demands for money was riddled early in the investigation.

Bullet holes in the walls of a stairway and in a buffet which Mrs. Fee maintained were fired at her by the burglar, were found to have been fired from downstairs instead of at the head of the stairs as the wife insisted. A pistol, said to have been the one used in the shooting, was recovered and detectives say they learned that it was th same one Mrs. Fee had purchased last Tuesday in a local hardware store.

Mrs. Fee denied allegations that she had been in any way responsible for a 5-year-old son's death in a cistern at their home two years ago.

District Attorney Burchinal said he intended to investigate the child's death, but said he believed the allegations were groundless.

INVESTIGATE CHILD DEATH

"So far, we have nothing with which to connect Mrs. Fee with the child's death," he said, "but we intend investigating."

"With Mrs. Fee's statement we have no reason to hold Conklin," Burchinal said, "and we have released him on bail. The accessory charge against him still holds, but later developments in the case seem to be in his favor and we have no desire to hold him in jail unnecessarily."

Burchinal revealed that Conklin during the course of the investigation had admitted being friendly with Mrs. Fee.

The wife is being held without bail on a technical charge of felonious assault and battery.

KU KLUX QUITS WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP.)—The Washington Post today says "the Ku Klux Klan has abandoned Washington as a national headquarters and is now back in Atlanta, Ga., the place of its birth."

Two reasons are given for the transfer. One official is quoted as explaining that the national headquarters was moved to Washington because this was believed to be the best place to direct its campaign against the presidential candidacy of Alfred E. Smith.

"Well, the campaign is over now," he is quoted as saying. "Will we move back again? That may depend on who the candidates are."

2 NEW BUILDINGS

The other reason ascribed is that "the klan has just erected two new buildings in Atlanta, one a factory where the regalia is turned out, and the other an administrative building for the officials and clerks of the organization."

Klan officials who have been stationed here included H. J. Ramsey, imperial secretary; the editor of the Courier, whose identity is kept secret, and the imperial auditor, together with about 30 employes.

"Imperial Wizard Hiram Wesley Evans, however, will remain in Washington," the Post continues, "maintaining his home at 2500 Massachusetts avenue and his office on the sixth floor of the Southern Building. The legal office of the klan also will remain here.

"As a matter of fact, in view of what Wizard Evans once told reporters, it may not be entirely correct to say that the national headquarters has moved back to Atlanta, even though klan officials themselves say so.

EVANS QUOTED

"At the time of Evans' remark, there was talk of the klan moving its headquarters from Atlanta to Washington. The wizard was asked about the report.

" 'The headquarters of the klan,' he said, 'is wherevar I am.' "

The officials and employes who have been transferred back to Atlanta occupied the Dahlgren mansion at 1325 Massachusetts avenue, Northwest.

"This," the paper recalls, "had once been used by devout Catholics, the family of Armiral Dahlgren, and still was adorned with pictures and statues of saints when the klan moved in. Across the street from the mansion is the headquarters of the National catholic welfare council."

20 ARRESTED IN OPIUM RAIDS

White Girls Among Prisoners Taken as Officers Smash Dens in Boston Chinatown

BOSTON, July 6.—(INS.)—Boston's Chinatown was the scene of wild confusion early today as a score of federal narcotic agents, aided by the Boston police narcotic squad, raided six alleged opium joints, seizing large quantities of opium and making 12 arrests.

Narcotic raiders were armed with sledge hammers as well as search warrants and the entire Chinatown district for a time was a bedlam of confusion as doors were being broken down and partitions smashed in. Streets of the district were filled with excited Chinese.

The narcotic raiders, both federal and city, came into Chinatown in automobiles from federal headquarters. The places searched were raided simultaneously.

Those arrested were charged with possession of narcotic drugs or with being present where narcotic drugs were found. They were held for arraignment in Municipal Court.

Two white girls were among those taken, but they were later released.

BLAME LOOTING ON EMPLOYES

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP.)—Looting of the Sibley warehouse of $2,000,000 of prewar whisky may be traced to warehouse employes in conspiracy with bootleggers, government officials said.

The officials who asked that their names be withheld, declared Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowley's inquiry had failed to involve prohibition agents, inspectors or other government employes.

The inquiry, under way since last fall, has shown that 482 barrels and 1,955 cases of whisky were tampered with and replaced with colored water.

King George and Queen Mary Wed 36 Years

LONDON, July 6.—(AP.)—Today King George and Queen Mary received felicitations on the thirty-sixth anniversary of their marriage, tomorrow both will join with Britain's millions in a thanksgiving service for his recovery from his long recent serious illness.

The royalties, in simple morning dress, will go by open carriage tomorrow to Westminster Abbey where a special thanksgiving service—postponed once before when his majesty suffered a relapse—has been arranged.

Aside from a few reserved seats for the royal family, members of the diplomatic corps and others, the church will be open to the public. Not more than a few hundred will be able to find admission even then, a fact which has led the King to ask all worship with him at their own churches. The ceremonial will be enacted throughout the empire.

Entering the Abbey at the great west door their majesties will be received by the clergy, headed by the Dean of Westminster and the Archbishop of Canterbury. A procession will then be formed, passing up the nave to the seats fronting the altar.

The choir will sing as the procession moves to assigned places, after which the congregation will join in singing the hundredth psalm, followed by the first verse of the National Anthem. Part of the service will be from that used on the occasion of the recovery of Kink George III, in 1789, another part that used in thanksgiving by King Edward VII, when he was Prince of Wales.

PITTSBURGH'S CIVILIAN SOLDIERS REACH MT. GRETNA

107TH FIELD ARTILLERY IN CAMP

National Guardsmen Ready For Two Weeks' Intensive Drill of 28th Division

By FRANK SHENKEL
Staff Correspondent.

MT. GRETNA, Pa., July 6.—Tired, but in the best of spirits, members of the One-hundred and Seventh Field Artillery Regiment, under the command of Col. Eric Fisher Wood, Pittsburgh, arrived in camp today from their home station at Pittsburgh.

Ready to begin their annual two-weeks' summer tour of field duty and instruction, the citizen soldiers from the western part of the state detrained at Colebrook Railroad Station at the sound of strains of the bugles. The artillerymen reassembled and, led by the regimental band, followed by Col. Wood and his staff the men marched to the military reservation which will be their home for the next two weeks.

Immediately on arriving at the camp area the soldiers fell out and went to quarters. After straightening out their military and personal equipment, the men lost no time in pitching into the duties before them.

GET HOT MEAL

Capt. H. W. Higby, Service battery, who has been in camp for the past four days with his command, had a hot cooked meal for the hungry and tired artillerymen. Capt. Higby did excellent work since coming here, and when the main body of troops arrived had every piece of canvas ready for the men. The Service battery was complimented by Col. Wood for the efficient manner in which they did their work.

Maj. Gen. William G. Price, commander of the Twenty-eighth division, of which the Pittsburgh regiment is a part, personally visited the camp of the Pittsburghers and complimented the artillerymen for the splendid appearance they made while marching from the railroad station to the reservation. "A wonderful body of men," was the compliment paid the Pittsburgh colonel.

Tomorrow will be more or less a holiday for the artillerymen. Other than policing camp and attending to minor details, the men will be on their own for the most of the day. Two beautiful parks are within a few minutes walk from the military reservation. Several lakes fed by mountain water are also within striking distance, and as a large number of the Pittsburgh regiment are making their first trip to camp, they are sure to take advantage of the opportunity and visit the many points of interest.

IN TWO TRAINS

The Pittsburgh artillerymen came here in two sections. The first section left Pittsburgh Friday night. This train brought Col. Wood, his staff, the medical detachment and two batteries. The other section was made up of troops from the central and eastern part of the state. All the men were in good health.

Col. Wood, months ago saw to it that Pullman coaches were to be supplied the men. This was a ten strike on the part of the colonel as the men had an opportunity to at least get a few hours sleep while en route.

Camp, insofar as learning the rudiments of modern warfare is concerned, will be officially opened Monday morning. The official opening was set for today, but Gen. Price, at the last minute, decided to hold the ceremony Independence Day.

The camp this year will be named Camp Thompson in memory of Captain Orville Ross Thompson, Commander of Company M, One Hundred Eleventh infantry regiment, who was killed at Fisme, France, August 13, 1918.

CAMP CHATTER

Corp. Walter Wilde, in private life a guard for a Pittsburgh Express Company, thought he had it tough protecting the old long green from bandits. He came here with the advance detail four days ago and from the moment he arrived he has been swinging a mallet driving tent poles until, according to his own admission, he sees pegs, canvas and guy ropes in his sleep.

Keen rivalry exists between Sergeant Whitney Heymen and Vincent Rogers in the ability of pitching tents. Both are members of Service Battery. The first day, Heymen led with 14 tents. He lost his prestage the following day when Rogers topped him with 16.

In civies, Private Clarence Hostler is a Red Grange back on the sidewalks of Pittsburgh. He totes ice for a living. "I thought I knew all about delivering ice, but when I came here this man's army showed me more about how to toss ice than all the ice men in the village of smoke," said Clarence.

Private Rhinehold Sauerwilch's pride has been injured. Back in his home town, the artilleryman is a cabinet maker, and he is a good one, too. But up here where sawing planks and driving stakes means more than the building of a masterpiece is not to the liking of Rhine. "I'm afraid that some of my friends might learn what I am doing and my reputation will be shot." Rhine confided to one of his pals.

More than 200 firemen were expected to take part in a parade of the Allegheny County Firemen's Association in Sewickley at 3 p. m. today. A water battle tonight will bring to a close the fifteenth annual convention of the association, which has been in session all week.

A memorial for members was held in St. Stephen's parish house last night. Speakers were the Rev. H. A. Welday, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church; Burgess O. S. Richardson, of Sewickley; Alex Andre, Etna fire chief, and A. Lecke, of Stowe Township, secretary of the association.

Divorced Husband Accused of Perjury

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP.)—Mrs. Marion Taylor Hollander, a descendant of President Zachary Taylor, and daughter of the late William Henry Taylor, a wealthy New York banker, appeared in Superior Court to aid in prosecuting her divorced husband, George Hollander, of Chicago, once the family chauffeur, on a charge of perjury. Hollander obtained a divorce last November by default after alleging misconduct on the part of his wife with one Otto Lang.

Mrs. Hollander's marriage to the family chauffeur in 1920 caused a stir in Washington society circles and resulted in her father disowning her.

U. S. BUILDING PLANS EXPAND

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP.)—President Hoover plans to ask Congress for an additional $2,500,000 annually for 10 years in connection with the program of government building construction in Washington.

The President has conferred with Secretary Mellon and it has been determined that the present contemplated expenditure of $50,000,000, to be spread over a ten year period, will prove insufficient to carry out the work of adequately housing the various government departments.

The administration is particularly anxious to have some definite arrangement made for housing the departments of Justice and Labor and for storing government archives. These are not included in the present program, excepting so far as sites for the buildings are concerned.

FLEXIBLE DUTY FOR SUGAR

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP.)—Chairman Smoot, of the Senate Finance Committee, has completed his tentative draft of a sliding scale sugar tariff proposal as a substitute for the bitterly contested rate increase proposed in the House bill.

Beyond disclosing that it provides for lower rates than the House bill contemplates and that he expects it to find favor with President Hoover, the Utah senator, leading proponent of sugar protection, has withheld the details. He is not expected to make it public until the committee resumes its work next week on the tariff bill.

The sugar schedule, in which the House raised the general rate to three cents a pound and the preferential Cuban rate to 2.40 cents, is the most vigorously contested section of the bill, with indications that it will occasion more debate than any other during the long contest in prospect in the Senate.

Furthermore, it is the only schedule which has brought a public statement from the White House, an expression by President Hoover of his hope that both producer and consumer will be protected. That statement mentioned the sliding scale idea but did not commit the President to its support.

SPEED PLANS FOR FEDERAL DOPE FARMS

U. S. Prepares to Care for Drug Addicts Now Held In Penal Institutions

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Working on instructions from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to speed the project, the supervising architect of the government has started drawing plans for two Federal narcotic farms authorized by Congress.

Secretary Mellon wants the preliminary arrangements completed by December so Congress can appropriate the money for construction work.

Officials in charge of the project are contemplating institutions with a capacity of 1,000 inmates each. The farms are designed to rehabilitate Federal prisoners who are addicted to narcotic drugs.

While definite sites have not been selected, it is expected that one farm will be located in West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee or Georgia, and the other in Texas, Colorado, Kansas, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Missouri or Arkansas. A national survey has shown that these areas are best suited because of climate and accessibility to the chief centers of addiction.

1,000-ACRE FARMS

The general plans started yesterday anticipate that the farms will be not less than 1,000 acres in size and will contain shop and agricultural facilities which will make them as nearly self-sustaining as possible. The original cost may be $10,000,000.

Within a few days a sub-committee composed of representatives of the Treasury, War and Justice departments will be named to handle all the details of the work. The committee will co-operate with the supervising architect.

SPEED URGED

"It is important that the project be launched as expeditiously as possible," declared Representative Porter (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, who introduced the bill. "Our Federal prisons are greatly overcrowded. The farms not only will relieve prison congestion, a problem which is becoming graver all the time, but will promote a needed humanitarian service by providing means to free unfortunate addicts of the curse of drugs.

"Without these facilities the addicts will continue to be the slaves of unscrupulous peddlers."

BRIBES CHARGED IN LEGISLATURE

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 6.—(AP.)—Oklahoma's famed impeaching Legislature adjourned a special session last night in a turmoil over charges of corruption against unnamed members.

Joe Sherman, Republican, of Major County, charged just before adjournment that several members of the House had received various sums of money for support of bills permitting dog and horse racing, and in connection with a bill which would put money lenders under state supervision. None of the measures became laws.

Sherman refused to tell the House the names of the accused members, although he was ordered by a majority to do so. Speaker James C. Nance said he was powerless to compel Sherman to comply with the voted order. Sherman offered to lay his purported information before an investigating committee, but the Senate already had adjourned and the House was powerless to act. It was then voted to place the charges in the hands of George Callihan, County Attorney of Oklahoma County.

HOOVER THREAT BRINGS ARREST

SEATTLE, Wash., July 6.—(AP.)—Charged with felony in "making threats against the President," M. Uchimiyama, 70-year old Japanese chemist, was held over for subsequent Federal action by United States Commissioner A. C. Bowman.

Uchimiyama is alleged to have written threatening letters to the last three presidents and to the Emperor of Japan. The only letter mentioned in the complaint sworn to before the Commissioner was the following:

"Mr. Hoover, the President of the United States, Mr. President:

"We will send you a short writing again. We wish you to come to the Pacific coast in this summer and at that time we will take your life. With shot. Because for the sake of world peace to kill reason. Not show this note, you guess, please.

"We have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant, membership M. Orient Club."

U. S. District Attorney Paul D. Coles said Uchimiyama might be deported after being brought to trial on the felony charge. In Japan, if convicted, he would be executed, as death is the only penalty there for threats against the Emperor.

FIGHT OPENS TO REDUCE TAXES

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Strong forces already are at work to bring about tax reduction in the next session of Congress, with a present surplus of $185,000,000 in the treasury and the prospect of continued prosperity, it was disclosed here today.

Although President Hoover has merely said that tax reduction is a possibility, independent advocates of tax reduction rather than speedier retirement of the public debt have begun their campaign to secure reductions denied in the tax slash bill of 1928.

EARNINGS TAX CUT

The chief proposals for tax reduction now being made are:

Further cut from 12 to 10 per cent in corporation income tax, favored by Representative Hawley (Rep.), of Oregon, chairman of House Ways and Means Committee.

Revision of earned income provisions designed to cut tax of salaried workers and professional classes, backed by independent forces.

Raising of exemption to incomes of $5,000 annually, strongly supported by some Democratic workers and business women's organizations.

Repeal of estate tax, sponsored by American Taxpayers' League.

THEATER MEN ACTIVE

Along with these proposals legitimate theater interests are prepared to urge the entire elimination of the admissions tax. Although the exemption was raised from 75 cents to $3 tickets in the last revenue act, producers are on record with the declaration that absolute freedom from such taxes is necessary to help save the drama from extinction.

Other proposals include revision of the individual income brackets to lower the surtaxes on incomes of $18,000 to $70,000 a year. This proposal of the Treasury was accepted by the Senate in the last bill, but rejected by the House.

Business interests are expected to make a drive for a further cut in the corporation income tax on the ground that corporations are the heaviest taxed groups. In the last tax bill fight the United Chamber of Commerce urged a cut from 13½ to 10 per cent, the House fixed the tax at 11½ per cent and in the end the reduction was made to 12 per cent. A 2 per cent cut would amount to more than approximately $180,000,000 a year.

TREASURY OPPOSED

The Treasury has consistently opposed further efforts to raise the exemption to the $5,000 class, pointing out that the tax base has already been so narrowed that only 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 individuals report taxable income. Business and professional classes are insistent upon a demand for a more favorable tax, holding that they are much heavier taxed than property.

Although the House Ways and Means Committee investigated the possibility of drastic changes in the earned income provisions in 1928, it failed to draft relief for these classes.

The tobacco business now is admittedly the heaviest taxed business under the federal system, the tobacco taxes yielding over $400,000,000 annually. From 17 to 40 cents out of every dollar spent on cigarets represents tax. Congress, however, has paid little heed to the plea of tobacco interests for reductions.

While Capitol politicians usually want tax reduction to come just before a presidential campaign, it is pointed out that the Democrats are planning an unusually hard fight in the congressional elections next year. A tax reduction bill, it is held, might offset the gain the Democrats hope to make by attacking the administration's tariff and farm policies.

LOYALTY TO LAW THEME FOR CHURCH UNION MEET

PASTORS JOIN AT CALL OF PRESIDENT

Dr. Milliron to Be Speaker At Community Services In Carnegie Music Hall

President Hoover's request that the churches of the United States offer their support in law observance has been favorably received and many Pittsburgh congregations will observe Sunday as Loyalty Day.

Sermons and songs dealing with law-observance and patriotism have been prepared by pastors and choir leaders of those churches which will participate in the President's movement.

The Rev. Dr. Norman C. Milliron, pastor of the First Evangelical Church, will touch on the subject of loyalty to our country and laws when he preaches tomorrow evening at the community service in Carnegie Music Hall. "Loyalty to Our Convictions" will be Dr. Millirons' theme. Churches of the East End are participating in these services, held every Sunday evening.

"The Pupit and the Flag," another patriotic sermon dealing with the same subject, will be delivered Sunday morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church. Dr. Ewers is returning from a two weeks' sojourn in New York, where he has been attending lectures, in order that he might participate in the movement.

The Rev. J. W. Watson, pastor of the Concord Presbyterian Church, will preach on "Loyalty to Country and Christ" at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

"Perennial Loyalties—Three Portraits" will be the topic of the Rev. Ralph Waldo Lloyd's 11 a. m. sermon in the Edgewood Presbyterian Church.

YOUTH, 19, KILLS GIRL AND SELF

KEWANEE, Mo., July 6.—(AP)—Letters revealing marriage plans for last June 20, and her father's objections were offered at an inquest held yesterday by Coroner P. H. Chiles into the fatal shooting of Miss Irma Hendershott, pretty 16-year-old high school student, by Honas Mayberry, 19, of Hammon, Ind. The youth turned the weapon on himself before the girl's father could send a charge from a shotgun into his body.

Mayberry went to the Hendershott home a week ago, the coroner said, and asked her father, William Hendershott, to permit their marriage. The youth left after Hendershott objected.

He went to the home again Thursday and was standing in the back yard talking to Miss Hendershott when he drew a revolver, fired four shots into her body, reloaded the weapon, fired at her again and then turned the pistol on himself. He fell to the ground, and Hendershott, who had rushed to the house on hearing the shots, sent a shotgun charge into the fallen youth.

The coroner's verdict held Mayberry killed the girl and died of self-inflicted wounds "and from shotgun wounds inflicted by William Hendershott in self defense."

FORFEITS BOND FLEEING WIFE

Verne Mitchell, alleged owner of the "Senoac Club," on the Allegheny River at Edgewater, raided by Oakmont police early Thursday, was in the Parnassus jail today facing a non-support charge made against him by his wife. He was arrested last night when he appeared at the Oakmont Police Court to face charges resulting from the raid upon his club.

According to Mrs. Mitchell her husband deserted her several years ago. When she appeared in front of the police court last night, accompanied by two constables who held a warrant for his arrest, Mitchell ran away, thus forfeiting his bond of $100 put up at the time his club was raided, according to Oakmont police.

Fliers Recount How Food, Hope Shrink As SOS Is Unheeded

We discussed the matter of radio signals once more. If we transmit the call G Q (general attention), somebody would listen in. Besides, the continual working of different stations would not allow our feeble signals to be heard.

Why not send the classical S O S signal, we asked ourselves? Then all the steamers would repeat the signals and all the world would hear us, and know our position and come to our rescue. But we thought it unwarrantable to use the S O S without being in real danger, and until we actually sent this call, it ceased to worry us.

Decide to Ask Aid

Asking for help without being actually in danger is not punishable by law, but our conscience refuses to do this. We then decided the following: Send an S O S, giving our situation, and asking for gasolien to enable us to take off and arrive at the Azores in order to continue our voyage, stating our seaplane is still in very good condition.

Moments of great emotion followed. The radio working power in our aerial is eight amperes, more than we expect. We send out our signal. Gallarza is the sender and I take charge of the receiver, which I have on the deck to work more freely. Gallarza sends the message in Spanish:

"S O S, S O S, S O S, S O S. Numanicia esta 100 millas sudoeste de Fayal. Necesitance 600 litres de cumbustibiles."

He repeated this in English:

"S O S, S O S, S O S, S O S. The Numancia is 100 miles southwest of Fayal. We require 600 litres of gasoline."

We await an answer. Nobody repeats our S O S. We have not been heard.

Picks Up Message.

I pick up part of a message transmitted by the British merchantman Greldon, which mentions the noise of an aeroplane, and gives the position of the noise to the east of Santa Maria island, and on almost the same latitude Gallarza had indicated in our SOS.

We are now confused, but the result is that nobody has picked up our signals. We repeat the message, with the same result—or rather, lack of it. Our apparatus has less range than a "moesin de Almusdano" (Moor that sings in the tower of the mosques.)

Meanwhile, we heard a hundred stations and ships communicating ordinary commercial air messages with a senorous rythm, all completely indifferent to those four souls which are at the mercy of the wind and the waves.

If, by chance, I am again given permission to make any sort of flight, I will carry a radio strong enough to be envied by even the ships—that's on my word of honor.

On that same morning, we counted out our food supply, and rationed it for 20 days.

Our fish cakes have suffered so much that they are almost inedible, even for the very hungry man. We threw them to the fishes, except for a few pieces which are still good. We never touch them. Our food supply consisted of:

Twenty-four eggs, hard boiled and in their natural state; 500 grams of ham; 700 grams of sausage; 1 small cold tongue; 24 bananas (much spoiled); 4 pounds of chocolate, and coffee supplies for 2 days; 3½ tins of condensed milk; 2 tins of fruit jam; 100 grams of cheese; 5 litres of medicinal concentrated food called Ceregumii, (a fine thing to be taken with water); 5 tins of English water-buscuits (our daily bread.)

Distribute Food.

With this supply we made the following distribution: breakfast; coffee or chocolate, with milk or water, for 15 days (very small breakfasts, indeed) and three biscuits per each. One heavy course in each meal consisting of one egg, or one small piece of sausage, tongue or ham; dessert in each meal being a small piece of cheese, chocolate, banana or a bit of jam, and four or six biscuits per meal.

What we ate every day was less than the usual piece of cold meat they give with a Vermouth in the Madrid coffee houses.

We also had one and a half bottles of white wine; a half bottle of brandy and one of rum and one of champagne—we had intended to uncork the champagne under the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor.

Our first meal of the twenty-third of June arrived at the regular time, and distributing the egg and banana, we realized this was our principal course, and we all engaged in protests—feeling so entitled, as our hunger was really strong.

When night came, we distributed the slice of sausage and an almost transparent slice of cheese. We had started on our economic regime—except that every now and then Ruiz de Alda begged another biscuit.

With the second meal, we had a drop of wine, and when this gave out, we had brandy or rum. If the night were cold, the one on watch was given an extra drop or two. We kept the champagne in case one of us fell ill.

All Kept Well.

In this regime of economy the fatter persons had the advantage of using their own fat in case the food gave out, whereas the thin, who had no fat, suffered the more from under-nutrition. The fat persons were Ruiz de Alda and myself. Gallarza is neither fat nor thin while the mechanic, Madariaga, could not be considered too thin, either.

We all kept very well with the exception of Madariaga, who on the twenty-eight, was feeling the effects severely, and could scarcely get up. Surely, had we been many days without help, we would have had to double his rations, since he had been injured when the tools fell on him just before we took off from Spain.

As the gasoline for the radio generator was getting lower, on the twenty-fourth, we decided to do without a hot breakfast so as not to use the fuel in the spirit stove. From this day on, we anxiously saw our supply getting lower and lower. On the twenty-fourth, our coffee gave out; on the twenty-seventh, the milk, cheese and bananas. On the twenty-eighth, the eggs were finished, and on the twenty-ninth, we had ham left for only another day. The brandy and wine were finished and the rum that was left was negligible.

On the night of the twenty-third the wind shifted to the west and at dawn on the twenty-fourth, the wind shifted to the southwest, which was very favorable, for if it kept up for a few days, it would take us to Sao Miguel or Santa Maria.

In order to lighten the airplane, we decided to lift up the anchor, but it would have been better had this not been done, since the seaplane got abeam of the waves and we were in an awkward position.

We had to drop anchor again and be happy with the small speed. Two sharks passed quite near the seaplane and seemed to invite us down into the depths of the ocean with their triangular fins—but we had promised our loved ones not to be eaten by sharks.

Plane Rides Storm.

A southwest wind came up strongly, and the sky was gray with the waves springing up like mountains. Our seaplane surmounts them all, then falls down later in the troughs, and the consequent bumps of the seaplane on the sea carry with them an ominous and depressing sound.

On the night of the twenty-fourth—the feast of St. John—it rained very heavily. To stick to the wheel of our seaplane was difficult. By very enforced maneuvering, we managed to keep the plane facing into the sea and wind to avoid capsizing.

Every half hour, Gallarza and I were relieved, so that we could place ourselves for a time under cover from the rain and sea, which wet us continually, with sweeping waves and gigantic drops socking us on the head and trickling through our clothes to the very bottom of our trousers.

I thought when I left Los Alcazares that summer had come and that rough weather was not to be expected, but to all appearances, it was January out there.

Two big fishes pass very near us at dawn, throwing up long mocking spouts of water, as if to herald the dawn with news of our predicament. Since the previous evening, the rain has not stopped.

If the night of St. John was bad, the twenty-fifth was no more agreeable to us.

Soon after dawn, the horizon began to clear, and the force of the wind, increasing and shifting to northwest, was carrying us south, which didn't make much of a hit with us, as there were no steamer lanes toward the region where we were bound. The force of the wind made the waves play about with the seaplane very dangerously, and during all this day, we could not leave the controls one single moment. That night we had again sent out our S O S without any results.

We drifted aimlessly, molested by the sea and wind. We feared......

GEYSER KILLS EDITOR

LIVINGSTON, Mont., July 6. — (AP.)—George Landroy, editor of Le Matin, an Antwerp, Belgium, newspaper, died last night at Mammoth Hospital, Yellowstone National Park, from burns suffered from boiling water from Castle geyser.

Landroy was a member of a party of European editors who were touring America as guests of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The accident occurred Wednesday evening. He was waiting for the giant geyser to play near the Old Faithful Inn and went to look at its indicator to see whether the flow was about to start. In doing so he had to pass close to Castle geyser. The latter spouted suddenly and covered him with boiling water before he got out of the spray.

Members of the party, instead of going to Cody, returned to Mammoth to pay a last tribute to their dead colleague.

BRANDS YOUNG PLAN SLAVERY

BERLIN, July 6.—(AP.)—With an editorial introduction declaring "The Young Plan Must Not Become a Reality," the newspaper Der Tag, Nationalist organ, today issued a special four-page supplement comprising a detailed condemnation of the Young plan by an economist named Dr. Paul Bang.

Headlines on the article stretched across the pages and described the Young plan as "no release from the Dawes plan, but slavery for generations."

The editorial asserts that "all circles, young and old, must resort to any means to prevent the insanity of fatally overburdening our nation and the intention of certain elements to pledge the German word for an agreement which cannot be fulfilled."

Dr. Bang's article concludes with a statement that "the refusal of the Paris plan means opening the way to freedom."

WOMEN CALLED IN NEW QUIZ OVER VARE

Senate Sub-committee Opens Hearings Monday, but No Summons Sent Judge Gray

Judge James H. Gray, leading figure in the Homestead election fraud trials which led to the continuation of the Senate investigation of alleged irregularities during the Vare-Wilson fight of 1926, has not been subpenaed for the hearings, which resume here Monday, he said last night.

Three others involved in the case have been served with Senate subpenas by Deputy United States Marshal John Lowers. Two of them were women who, after being sentenced to jail by Judge Gray, won paroles by confessions purporting to reveal alleged frauds in the 1926 senatorial fight.

The women served with the subpenas, sent late yesterday to Marshal James C. McGregor by Senator C. W. Waterman, heading the subcommittee investigating the Vare-Wilson contest, were Mrs. Marie Etherington and Mrs. May Forgast, both of 533 Fourth avenue, Homestead.

WOMEN TOLD "ALL"

Both women, after pleading guilty to making false returns while members of the election board in the Second district, Second ward, Homestead, were sentenced by Judge Gray on May 29, to 30 days in jail and a parole for three years and eight months. Two days later, according to the Judge, they told "all." The next day they were paroled, with Mrs. Suson Uhrin and Mrs. Jeanette Samuels, two other women involved in the case.

The third subpena was served on Joseph Frank, Homestead, implicated in the women's confessions.

The paroles were granted by Judge Gray after the four women had told their stories to him in the presence of Assistant District Attorneys, Andrew T. Park and Roy T. Clunk, after they had spent the night in jail. John Forgast, husband of Mrs. Forgast, was sentenced to the workhouse for four months in the same case and Michael Gretz, clerk of the election board, was paroled for two years.

The Waterman committee will start its hearings Monday morning in room 805, City-County building. It is its second appearance in Pittsburgh, although a number of sessions have been held in Washington. The contest investigation now three years old is nearing completion.

FURNISHED TESTIMONY

Judge Gray said, last night, that after he had paroled the Homestead women he had received a request from a Senator to send all possible information. After an unavoidable delay, he said, he had forwarded copies of the testimony and depositions, in spite of which he was charged with ignoring the request of the Senator.

The contest began in 1926. After winning the $3,000,000 primary that year, in which George Wharton Pepper and Gifford Pinchot finished second and third, Senator William S. Vare, Philadelphia, was opposed in the general election by William B. Wilson, Democrat. The official count gave Vare 822,187 and Wilson 615,550 on the Democratic and 33,130 on the Labor ticket, a majority for the Philadelphia Senator of 173,500.

GOLDEN DENIED CITIZENSHIP; 19 PARDONED

State Board Refuses Fire Captain's Plea Following Serving of One-Year Term

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 6.—The State Pardon Board, meeting in Harrisburg, has denied restoration of citizenship to Charles F. Golden, Pittsburgh fire captain, who served a one-year term in jail in connection with election frauds on the North Side. He was convicted of fraud in the Sixteenth District of the Twenty-second Ward at the primary of 1926, and on February 24, 1928, was sentenced. The board turned a deaf ear to the plea of his counsel that he acted on "orders of the Republican bosses of Allegheny County."

Of the 19 persons pardoned by Governor Fisher on recommendation of the board, seven had been convicted of murder. Two of them at one time faced the death penalty, their sentences later being commuted to life imprisonment. They were Salvatore Cardomone, of Allegheny County, and Michael Dennery, of Clearfield County. Cardomone was sentenced to die in 1918, his sentence being communted several months later. Dennery was convicted in 1917, and his application for commutation being granted about a year later.

OTHER PARDONS

Others from Western Pennsylvania granted pardons were Wade Hickey, Beaver County, breaking and entering; Marion Hunter, Cambria County, second degree murder; Carl Miller, Erie County, statutory charge, and Robert Lilley, Fayette County, assault and battery.

The board refused pardons to Ludwig C. Tross, Johnstown, delinquent tax collector of Cambria County, and held under advisement the petition of Dr. Victor Thomas, Butler physician, sentenced in 1928 on a charge of performing a criminal operation. Tross was sentenced for defalcations amounting to $36,000.

Other petitions from this district refused were Shaw Nicholson, Allegheny County, burglary; John Lighthill, Allegheny, second degree murder; Harold Gatchell, Armstrong County, statutory charge; Joseph Brophy, Beaver County, breaking and entering; Elmer Harper, Beaver, breaking and entering, and Henry Harper, Beaver, breaking and entering.

SERMONETTE

"A WORTHY CALLING"

By REV. J. W. HAWLEY, First Methodist Protestant Church, Aiken Avenue and Howe Street, East End

THE church is one of the agencies through which the purposes of God are wrought out in human society. Its chief ministry is to declare the gospel through which moral and spiritual values are strengthened and broken lives are made whole. That man needs to be saved is self-evident. Without Christ the conscience becomes as tough as a camel's feet, modesty, the fairest flower of life, withers and sickens and dies, restraint decays like a rotting rope, the calm poise of spiritual power gives way to fretful anxiety which gnaws the soul. The deceiving shrines and shams of the world may divert our minds for a moment, but they offer no cure for our restless spirits, while a slimy stream of evil influences pour into our sluggish souls, producing a stench of decaying morals, and, at last, the once gay and vigorous youth becomes a broken, gap-toothed old hag or bum, lean as death. The pleasures of sin are gone but haunting memories and torturing consequences remain forever. If you can sit down before a problem like that as placid as a lump of putty, feeling absolutely no personal responsibility, while fashion and passion lash the souls of men up and down the dirty alleys of sin; if you can remain a nominal church member, irregular in attendance, indifferent in interest, undependable in service, then you have placed no true value upon a human soul. To you a man is little more than a lump of mud that will die and rot like a sheep. My friends, to be perfectly candid, it does look as though some of us by our indifference are making an abominable mockery out of our pretended consecration to the service of God. Our sympathies are benumbed by worldliness. We can take the morning paper, which is a veritable cup of horrors, and its dark record taken from the lives of men do not haunt the day with the mingled wails of the orphans and the damned. There is no possibility of a Christian becoming fruitful until he is baptized with the spirit of suffering compassion. Tearless hearts cannot be heralds of Christ's love. We must bleed if we would be ministers of the saving blood. It cost God much to provide salvation for mankind, but he did it, and just as one touch of his hand can make a lily bloom on a stagnant pool so one touch of his love can grow a white soul in a wicked and sordid world, but God is helpless without you, for "we are laborers together with God." "Ye are my witnesses," saith the Lord. If we fail Him, then, by our very neglect, we haul down the colors which our Lord with bloody hands nailed to the masthead. The church needs YOU, your talents and influence, that its worthy work may be accomplished and the Lord's death may not be in vain. You need the church, its ministry and its opportunities for service, if your life is to be as worthy and useful as it ought to be.

Nancy Realizes She Loves Roger as She Prepares To Leave Camp

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Hollenbeck, though young and beautiful, is poor. Her mother, of a socially accepted family, married a poor man. She warns Nancy against this "mistake." Nancy, becoming cynical, gives up handsome Mat Tully and begins an affair with Jack Beamer, married to wealth. He plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a trip to Yellowstone, Nancy meets Roger Decatur, a ranger, who falls in love with her. Nancy tells him she will only marry for wealth. She prepares to leave the mountain camp and rejoin her Aunt Ellie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIII.

NANCY did all her packing in a few, wide sweeps, tumbling shoes, dirty riding skirts and creased crepe de chines into bags with an abandon that soothed her. Nearly everything was ruined anyway. She had walked on rocky roads with frail kid slippers, sat on damp, grassy banks in delicate silks, snagged all her chiffon stockings with regal indifference. All to impress Roger Decatur.

"Well, I succeeded, anyway!" she reflected with a certain mournful happiness, stuffing the wreck of the blue organdie into a chink beside a muddy riding boot. "He's in love with me if anyone ever was. And I'm in love with him. Might as well admit it. One more romantic it-might-have-been to cheer me up when I'm an old lady waiting for the butler to bring me my tea. Which is a whole lot better than making your own tea!"

That butler idea helped. This time next year she wouldn't be salvaging old clothes. She would leave them for the maid with a nice little apology about the mud. "This little dress is a sight . . . still it was awfully expensive and it will be sweet when it is freshened again. . . . I wonder if you'd care to bother? It should just fit you—" Nancy had long since decided not to be patronizing with servants, like mamma and Mrs. Craig, nor snippy like Aunt Ellie. She would be chummy like Gil Neal's mother, who was so important socially that she could afford to ask about the waiter's wife, and cuddle the washlady's baby . . .

She even whistled, almost contentedly, while she got into her traveling dress, biscuit colored crepe de chine that wouldn't show the dust, and pulled the wide brown straw hat over her russet waves. But her knees felt weak again when she thought of trying to explain to Roger. Roger wouldn't understand.

She found him by the deserted corral, his long, graceful body propped against a fence post, blond, uncovered head shining in the sun. The last mule train was just disappearing around the bend.

He was unashamedly relieved to see her. "I didn't know what to think when you didn't show up. I was afraid you were mad—"

His bright blue eyes rested on her with love and longing. "Now that you're here," he said, "nothing matters —not even missing our ride."

Nancy squirmed. It was going to be even harder than she had thought. "Oh, no . . . why should I be angry?" she murmured, avoiding his eyes.

"But no ride today! You're all dressed up! Well, I tell you what. I'll get my car and we'll have a picnic. Maybe I'll do a little fishing—"

"I couldn't, Roger, not today. I wouldn't have time. I just have a few minutes . . . This is good-by." She tried to say it lightly. "I've ditched the Porters too much so they're ditching me. I'm going back to Yosemite on the morning stage!"

"You—what?"

"I'm going back to Aunt Ellie at the Awahnee. What else can I do? The Porters won't take me on with them —I angled for an invitation hard enough. Oh, Roger, isn't it beastly? When we were having such a perfect time— Swear for me, won't you?"

He said slowly, "You wouldn't go back now if you cared for me as I do for you. You know I can't — my job—"

"I can't help it."

"You promised—"

"No I didn't—not really. I meant I'd go on with the Porters because they were going, but don't you see that I can't now? It's because I spent every minute here with you that I'm not invited to go on. Good heavens, didn't I move heaven and earth to even get to Tuolumne Meadows in the first place? I can't keep up this mad tearing all over after you. You'll have to get another girl—"

Still he leaned against the fence, pulling at a piece of leather in his hands. His arrogant shoulders were drooping. The light had gone out of his bright blue eyes.

Quite suddenly Nancy knew she couldn't bear the thought of another girl for him. "Help me, help me!" she prayed to the God she bothered so seldom. "Help me now—keep me from crying all over him!"

She beat her hands together weakly. "Couldn't we—couldn't we go somewhere—and talk?"

He looked at her lizard skin pumps. "Spoil your shoes."

"Well, then—in your car. I have more than two hours, and I'm all packed—can't we have those last two hours, Roger?"

"If you like."

Methodically he pulled the canvas that served for garage off his battered roadster. Fished a large, not over-clean rag out of the back and dusted the seat. "Not any too de luxe, Nancy. Sure you won't spoil your dress?"

"It doesn't matter."

She climbed in, and he started the motor. Expertly he backed the little car out of its parking place between two trees, turned into the road, drove fast as chuck-holes would permit, past swampy meadows yellow with cream cups, over small streams, around fallen timber.

"This isn't a very good road, but it's kind of pretty." His one contribution to conversation.

Nancy had nothing to say, either. She sat bolt upright, a fixed smile curving her red lips, eyes straight ahead.

The family would have known that something was happening to Nancy. Something new and strange, and a little frightening. Her velvety brown eyes, sweet and shallow, had turned dark and faintly startled. Here in the mountains, with the wind whipping her soft hair into tumbled ringlets, and without her accustomed careful make-up, she was younger, more appealing. Her pose was shattered. She wasn't sure of herself any more.

"I shouldn't have come," she was thinking. "It will only make it harder . . . I shouldn't even have said good-bye. . . . I have the rottenest luck, always liking the wrong people. . . . This is worse than any of them . . . a ranger . . . If I didn't feel so terrible I could laugh . . . losing my head over a ranger, and Jack Beamer counting the minutes until I get back . . . it's so hard . . . I'm such a fool . . ."

He stopped the car in a sandy gully that sloped down to the river.

"Do you want to get out?"

She looked down at the lizard skin pumps. Her last decent shoes. How the family would gasp over all the ruined clothes. "Yes—let's." Why think of shoes when you're tasting your last hour of madness, going back in a few short moments to sanity, and a common sense marriage?

Gallantly she stepped into the soft sand, climbed over a boulder, slid down a rocky path.

"Wait—I'll help you!"

So, independent to the last, she increased her pace, slithered over some long, lush grass, and sat with more emphasis than she had intended on a grassy shelf, just out of the spray from a miniature Vernal Falls.

Gravely he dropped down beside her, his brown, slender hand covering one of hers.

"See, there are violets here—little teeny tiny white ones, in the grass!" she cried, just to be saying something.

He looked at her, long and intently, so that her color rose, and she looked away, pretending to watch the falls.

"Help me! Help me!" she formed the words silently, moving her lips, but even as she prayed she knew she was beyond help. Roger Decatur's arms were closing around her. His mouth was on hers.

"I do love you!" she whispered. "I do—I do!" And clung to him, sobbing as she hadn't cried since she was a child. Nancy, who had long since decided love was just one of Mother Nature's tricks, and nothing was worth crying over, anyway.

For years to come the faint woody smell of fresh violets was to fill her with exquisite torture . . . longing . . . regret. . . .

Blue Blood Love

By Leonora McNeilly

Daily Short Story

"DAD says we must forget each other, Jack!"

"Forget you! I've a darn poor forgettery where you're concerned, Ann. But what's all the fuss about? Am I not good enough for your father?" he jocularly asked.

"You are the son of Mr. Judson Riley, aristocrat—and I—" Ann Brown unconsciously tilted her chin—"I am the daughter of Conductor Brown—"

"And a Bachelor of Arts this spring," he added. "And the only girl in the world who has the power to make me forget everyone and everything—even to my manners," he laughed as his arms closed about her.

She shook her head. "It won't do, Jack! I love you! But Dad is as proud as Lucifer. He says unless your father consents to our marriage, neither will he. And that unless we can meet on an equal footing, I must not see you again. So this is 'goodbye.'"

"The deuce it is——"

A footstep—Ann hurried him out. Blowing him a kiss, she softly closed the door and flew upstairs to hide the smarting tears.

Jack glanced up at the door which seemed to him to symbolize so well the barrier that had arisen between them. But telling himself that all would be well when his father arrived in town in the morning, he turned towards the college where he was a resident student.

Judson Riley's blue blood was the only legacy which his forbears had bequeathed him; consequently, in order to retrieve the family fortunes and send Jack to college, he not only worked on a 24-hour shift but moved to the country in order to reduce expenses to a modicum.

This morning as he waited the incoming train a successful man of the world as indeed he appeared to be.

The train swished in. Riley swung aboard. He passed through the coach looking furtively for a discarded newspaper which he found crumpled in a vacated seat. He dropped down, and was soon buried in its contents, oblivious alike to the conductor's searching gaze as he presently halted beside him, and to his receding footsteps as he passed on without his fare. And this was by no means an unusual occurrence. It is true, when Riley first began to ignore the legitimate demands of the railroad for transportation charges, he would occasionally fumble in his pocket for loose change, but now for the past two months he had treated the matter with peculiar sang froid.

Conductor Brown was genuinely sorry for Riley. "Poor beggar!" he would say to himself, "it takes a lot to send his son to college and make both ends meet. And the Lord only knows I never would have been on this railroad close on to 30 years now if it hadn't been for Riley's father giving me a 'character' when nobody else would. I don't forget that: 'Like father, like son,' folks said when my father went 'down' for a theft he never committed—just to save old Joe Dent's skin—and when they found out he was innocent, it was too late."

And so Conductor Brown struggled daily to pay off his eternal debt of gratitude.

It was late afternoon when Jack Riley sat in his father's office, discussing his proposed marriage to Ann Brown. To Riley, Ann was just Ann Brown. The name conveyed nothing. As a matter of fact he was as much in the dark regarding her relationship to Conductor Brown as Brown had been as to the relationship existing between Ann and Jack right up to the previous day, when Ann had approached her father, with the result already noted. And besides, he was not interested. He had other plans for Jack.

"You must marry money, my boy," he said at length.

"I'll be brief, sir," said the plain clothesman. "A correspondent who travels down on the same train as yourself every morning, reports that Conductor Brown has been guilty of fraud. He has, in fact, been allowing a passenger to travel time after time, without fare. We knew something was afoot. For every month, as regular as clockwork, along comes an envelope marked 'conscience money.' Brown's a valued man, sir. We hesitate to believe anything to his discredit. Our correspondent said you would be able to throw some light on the subject." He bent a searching look upon Riley. "We've written Brown to appear before us," he went on, "and as a matter of fact told him we would call on you as a witness. Do you know anything of any irregularity, sir?"

Judson Riley rose abruptly, moving his pens and pencils about like pawns on a chess board. "I'm unusually busy now. Drop in tomorrow at this hour. I may have something to tell you."

Standing outside the door, Jack heard every word. As he stepped inside, Riley was drawing on his coat. "I'm rushing out to get a bite to eat—have to go over to Conductor Brown's—He's got into some sort of mess." He hurried out, calling to Jack that he would take the late train home.

Jack walked back to the college very much perturbed. Conductor Brown. How terrible Ann would feel. He must see her. On the pretense of handing his father an important letter for his mother, he arrived at the Browns at the moment his father was being admitted.

Judson Riley took the letter. "Brown wants to see me privately," he said, turning away.

"Not at all—come right in," interrupted Brown. "I'd like to explain that the railroad has no kick coming against your father. You see, it's been pretty tough putting you through college. So I gave your father a little lift—paid his railway fare—just a loan," he said casually. "But I'll explain at the investigation that the money I sent in, marked 'Conscience money,' squared him for the whole month. See here!" he showed Jack a detailed statement of the whole transaction which he had faithfully kept against the day of possible inquiry.

Judson Riley dropped into a chair and buried his face in his hands. Jack stared. Then he spoke. "You said, sir," addressing Brown, "that Ann and I could never marry unless we could be considered equals—that we were too blue blooded. But the boot is on the other foot now, sir."

"Come, father," he said kindly. He placed an arm around the slumping shoulders.

But Judson Riley was on his feet. In the twinkling of an eye he had grasped the situation.

"I suppose you are thinking, 'Like father, like son,'" he said, addressing Ann who had crept into the room. "But Jack is not like me—he is your father's equal—for he is white all through. He is—" His voice broke.

"I know what he is," Ann broke in softly. She moved swiftly to Jack's side. "He is the only man in the world for me."

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

By HELEN ROWLAND

God's Gift to Woman

VERILY, my Daughter, God's greatest gift to woman is her IMAGINATION!

For, thereby, doth she glorify and sanctify that mundane emotion which men call "love," and thus make the world safe for Romance.

* * *

Behold, when a man gazeth at a woman, he seeth only that which meeteth his eyes. But when a woman looketh at her lover, she seeth a vision of nobility, strength and spirituality, such as never inhabited a dinner coat or wore a pair of plus fours.

HELEN ROWLAND

Go to. A woman in love perceiveth a brilliant intellect behind a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles, and glittering wit in a ready tongue and a line of canned jokes.

Through the rose-colored glasses of her imagination a few sparse locks scattered across her Beloved's forehead are as Hyperion's curls, and a pair of padded shoulders appear as symbols of masculine strength and beauty.

Yea, the mingled scent of hair-tonic, shaving cream and tobacco is as incense in her nostrils when she layeth her cheek upon a serge coat-lapel.

Thus doth a woman exalt her lover and make of him a Prince Charming while the spell of love is upon her. And, woe unto him who would tear the veil from her eyes and rob her of her illusions!

* * *

For, if she could not glorify him, how then could any woman lose her heart and head over the prosaic creature with the convict hair-cut, the casual caress and the robust appetite whom she calleth her "Beloved?"

Verily, verily, a woman's love is not blind! Nay, it is astigmatic, myopic and slightly cock-eyed! But, it SEETH many things.

It gildeth and magnifyeth all a man's charms, and endoweth him with all those virtues which he doth not possess.

It transformeth the half-portion into a sheik, the dimwit into a highbrow, the scapegrace into an injured saint, and the weakling into a he-man.

* * *

Thus doth the woman-charmer, who deceiveth women, continue to "get by" and to be forgiven. But, he that UNdeceiveth a woman receiveth no mercy! For, a woman will not forgive him who awaketh her from her dream!

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

A Very Interesting Conversation is Heard in Dickey's Office.

THE offices of the art magazine in which Dicky and Edith Fairfax are partners have spread out since Dicky took over the venture. A well-appointed reception room is at the front, while the private offices of Edith and Dicky are at the rear, with desks of a clerical force between. On the floor above are a photographic studio and rooms for the staff artists. The whole interior was much different than when I had last seen it upon the day when I had found Dicky heartbrokenly confiding to Edith his terrible suspicion that I was trying to poison him.

The remembrance of that day came over me vividly as I stepped into the reception room. So vivid was the momory that, for a second or two, my dry, constricted throat refused me speech. I was relieved, indeed to hear Lillian's voice.

"Are Mr. Graham and Miss Fairfax here?" she asked.

The girl she addressed, a trim efficient young person, sitting at a desk marked "Information," looked at us attentively as she rose. I had the feeling that in the second she had classified and indexed us.

"They are in the studio just at present," she said, "and they are extremely busy. But they will be down shortly. This is Mrs. Graham, is it not?"

She looked at me, and I nodded, forcing a smile in lieu of the words I could not Utter. But I wondered how she knew.

"If you'll come back with me," she said, "into Mr. Graham's office, it will be pleasanter for you. As soon as they are through in the studio I'll let them know you are here. I'd rather not disturb them now unless it is very important that you should see them."

"Nothing important about it," Harry Underwood rumbled. "We'll just wait until they come down. You don't even need to tell them we're here. We'll just say 'Surprise, surprise.'"

The girl's composure was proof against his nonsense, but I caught an appreciative twinkle in her eyes as she answered the sally demurely.

"I may not see them before you do," she said, "for the stairway is at the side of their offices, and they may go there before coming out here."

"Well! we'll make a stab at introducing ourselves," Mr. Underwood gibed, and then she ushered us into one of the two offices at the rear.

It was unmistakably Dicky's room, piled high with manuscripts and drawings, and a motley disorder of pamphlets, magazines and books. But his desk was comparatively clear and upon it—I felt my pulses leap up at the sight—was the framed picture of Junior and me which Dicky had had taken several years before.

Why I should have expected the picture to be gone, I do not know but the surprise and pleasure of seeing it sent a queer little glow over me which lasted until we heard Edith Fairfax's voice in tremulous excited expostulation outside in the corridor.

"Oh, Dicky! these are too much! I can't take them from you."

"Of course you can," my husband's voice said in friendly, affectionate gibing.

"It isn't as if they were réal, you know. And they make you look like a million dollars."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Honeymoon

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

We're taking a two week's honeymoon trip, and is it proper for us to send cards to friends at this time?

2. If so, I have many friends through my work in the office, who have never met my husband-to-be. Some of them do not even know his name. How should the card be signed?

3. When dining at a hotel, restaurant, or any other public place, who gives the order?

MARY.

YES, if you wish.

2. The correct signature of a married woman makes this quite clear. You will use your first name, the last name of your maiden name, and the last name of your husband. Like this:

Very sincerely yours,
Mary Olympia Husbandname
(Mrs. George Husbandname)

3. The woman tells the man, her host, what her order is, and he gives both orders to the waiter.

Dignity and Good Form

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

In calling my husband's office and asking to speak with him should I ask to "speak with John," or should I ask to speak with Mr. Brown?" He is called John by all the men in the office and I am acquainted with all of them.

2. A friend of ours living in our town just passed away. My husband and I sent a floral offering and attended the funeral. A few days after the funeral I called at their home to offer our sympathy. Should we have called at their home before the funeral and offered our sympathy?

3. When one is having friends for dinner, and has no help, what should be done about the dishes? Should the hostess wash the dishes while the guests are still there, or should she just close the dining room, making some excuse, and wait until the guests have departed? Should a guest ever say anything like this: "Let us wash the dishes so I can help" or "Wash your dishes so I can help you" or any similar saying?

A HOUSEWIFE.

DIGNITY and good form demand that you ask to speak to "Mr. Brown."

2. If you knew these people very well you might have called before the funeral to offer your sympathy and to see if there were any way in which you could be of service. But, unless you do know them exceptionally well, this is not done. You probably did just the right thing and the appropriate thing.

3. It is much better form, and more comfortable for all concerned, for the hostess to be most casual about the dishes indeed to give the impression that there just isn't such a thing as dishwashing. She should reduce the minutes between the leaving of the table and her rejoining her guests to the lowest common denominator; make them as few as possible. She should show no fusiness, no worry about the dishwashing, no agitation about how they are to be done. Only in this calm way will she enjoy her guests or have her guests enjoy her.

A guest, if she sees that the servantless hostess is going to be agitated about washing the dishes, naturally graciously offers to help the hostess in washing the dishes. But if the hostess is as casual as I urge her to be, and hope that she will be, the guests takes her cue from the "carefully careless" attitude of the hostess and doesn't insist.

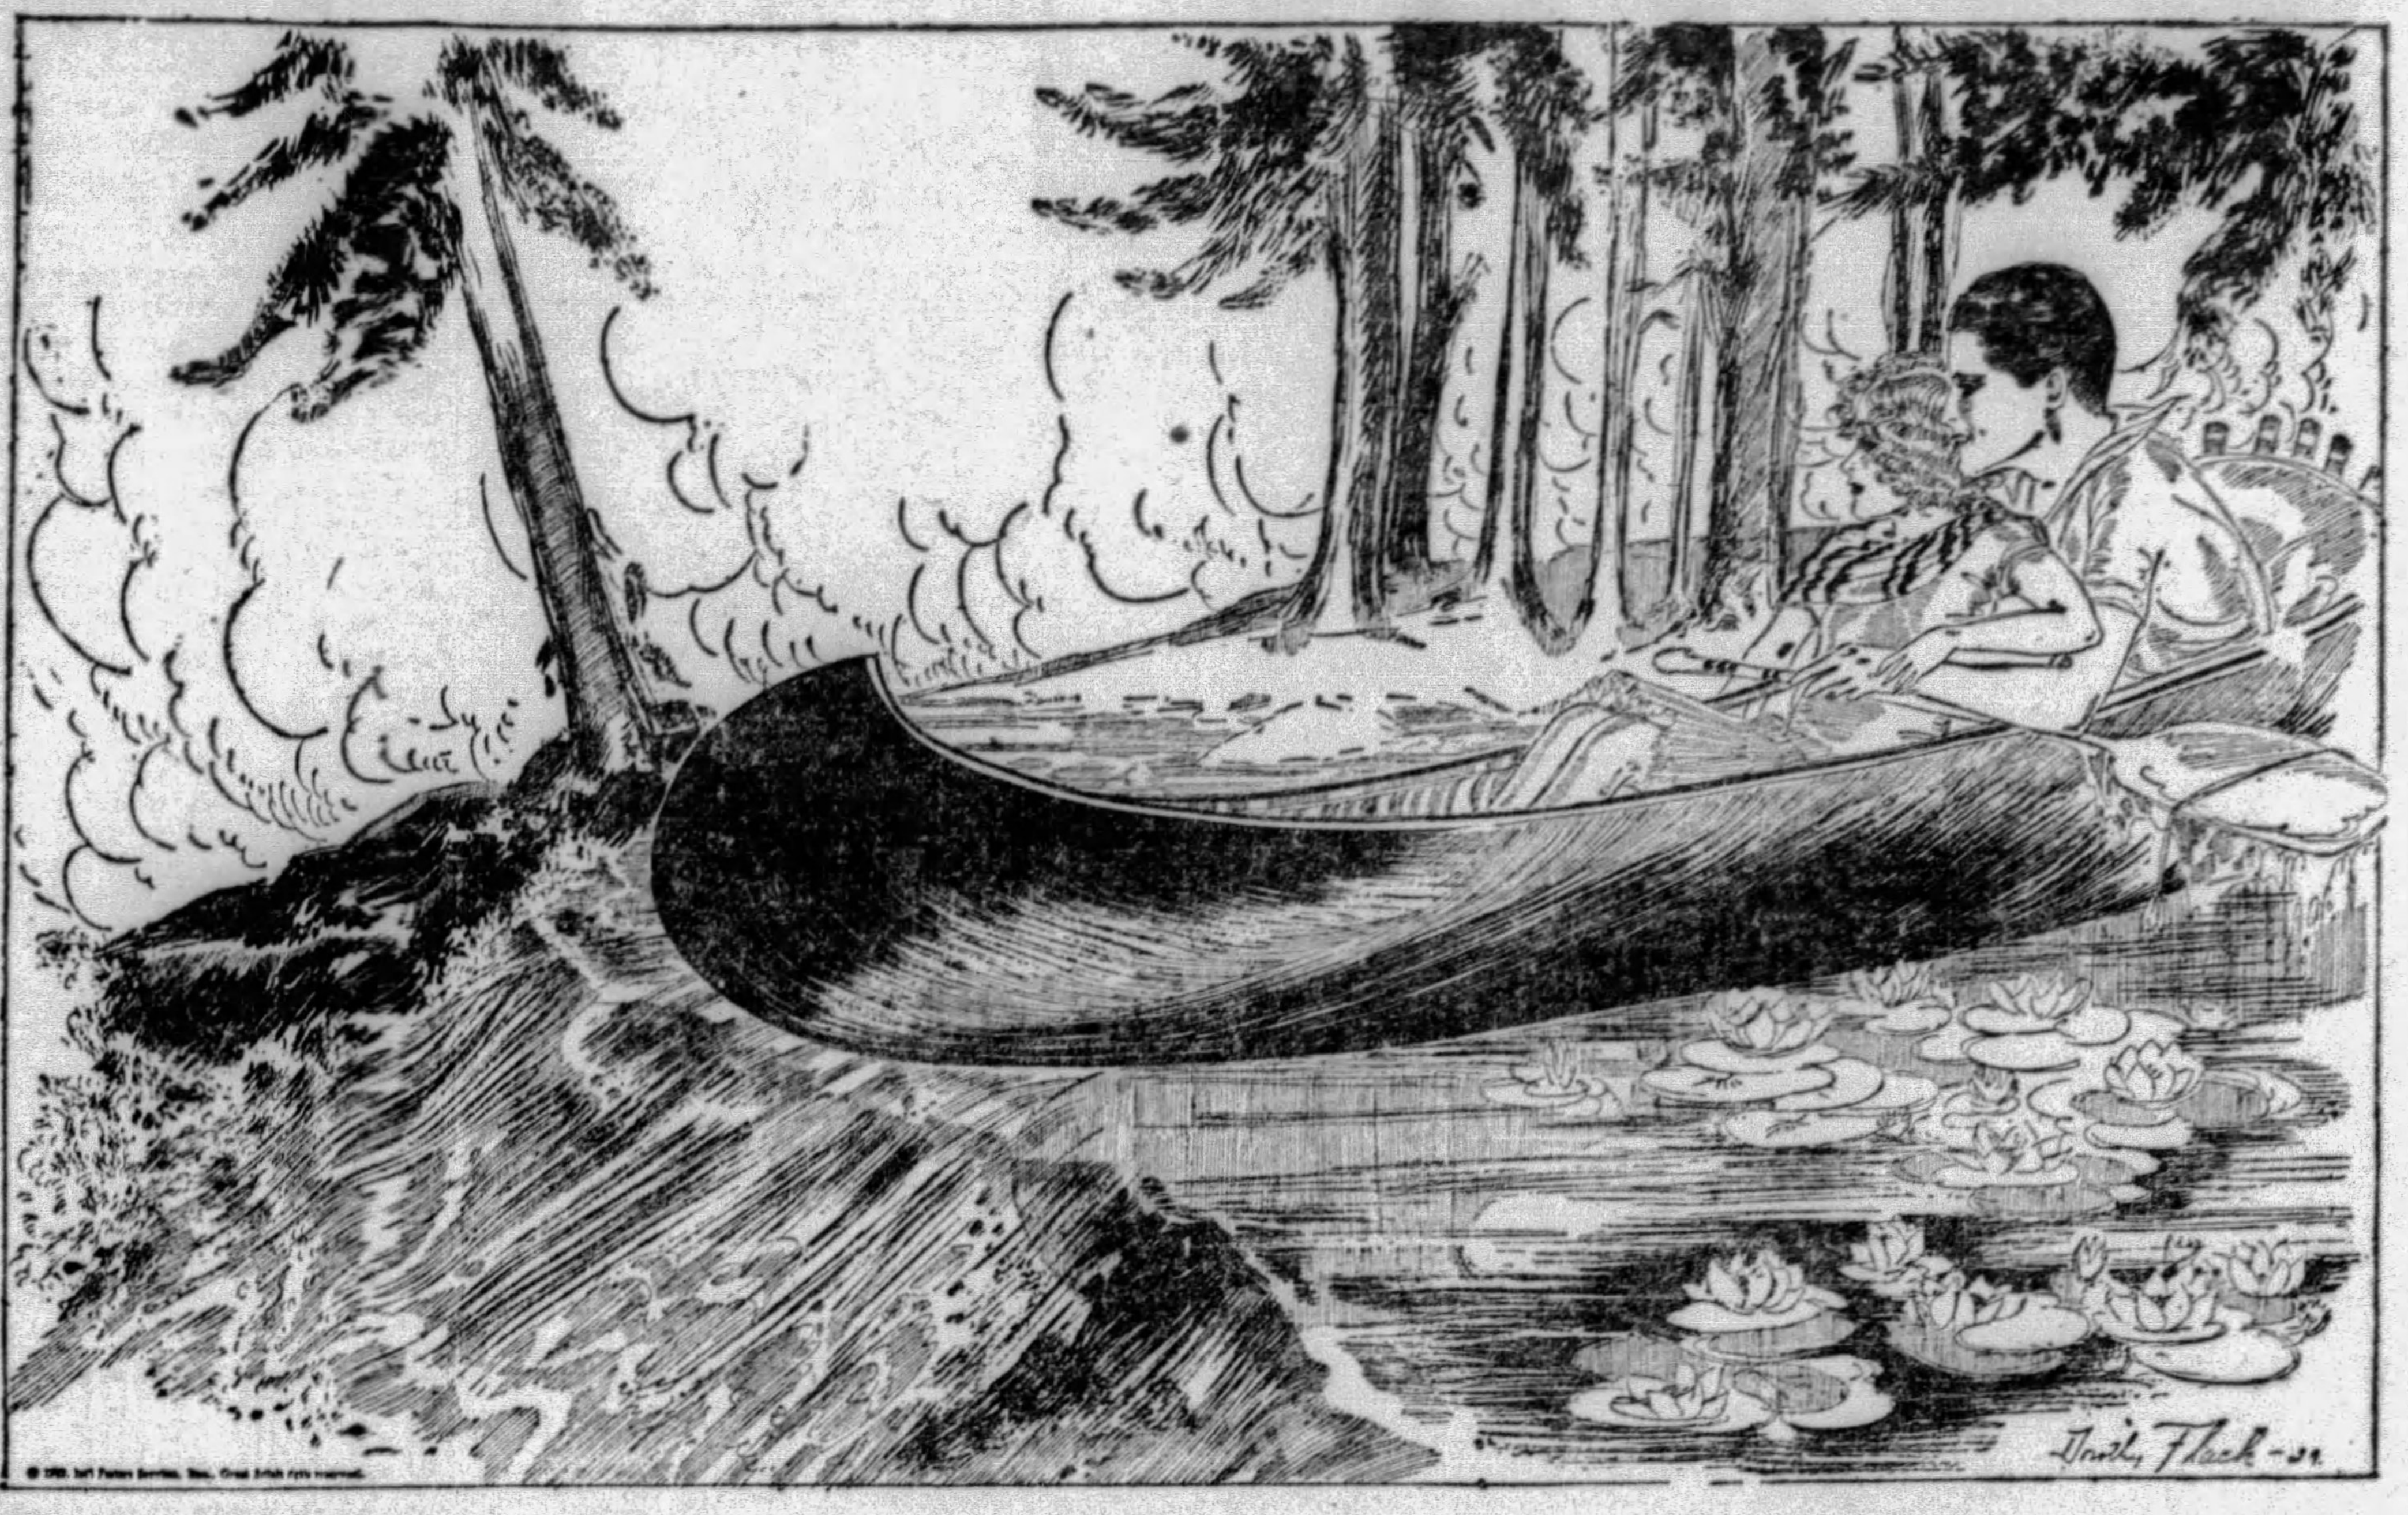
DRIFTING!

Drawn by Dorothy Flack



IT'S a wonderful thing just to drift along and not worry about anything under the sun. But, then, it's dangerous! Just like being in a canoe and not heeding the danger signs that tell of the rapids right ahead. And the canoe drifts along and not until it actually touches the swirling waters do its occupants note their danger. Then they are panic-stricken and frightened and strive their utmost to avert the imminent destruction of their craft and to save themselves.

And so it is with life. We usually drift through things without heeding the outcome. The frail craft of Love floats blissfully along by itself until it reaches a certain point. Then, if we are not careful to guide it into the proper channels, it rushes headlong over the falls of misunderstanding and bitterness and Love is gone forever.

So watch the love craft. See that it is steered and guided with tolerance and understanding and mutual belief each in the other. Don't let the stowaway Jealousy find a place in your love craft, for then it surely will go on the rocks and destroy all the loveliness and beauty which you have so carefully builded.

Love—true love—guides and is in turn guided. So if you both earnestly and faithfully keep your craft in the center of the stream you will have nothing to fear. For then you will heed the danger signals and carefully avert them.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Psychology of a Sun-Tanned Skin

IT used to be that sunburned girls were seen only in the summer time. Now these moderns are sunburned the year round!

Sunburn as it comes from the rays of the sun is painful. It may even result in scars. The sun's rays have certain chemical rays of an irritating and scaring nature.

DR. COPELAND

The texture of people's skin differs. Some have very thin, sensitive skins. These are the ones who suffer most from sunburn. Others have coarser skins, which tan but do not burn.

The mode of the moment is the sunburned skin. All women are anxious to have this healthy outdoor appearance. I am in full accord with this idea.

If you cannot take time to go outdoors and enjoy the sunshine which gives you that healthy look, then some of these health aids are all right. When you glance in the mirror and see yourself white, pale faced, you look glum. If your color is good you respond to your appearance and feel better.

Beauty aids, whether they be sun-tan powder, a bit of color or other accessory, add much to your peace of mind. There are wonderful lamps which apply controlled light to the skin and tan it.

You should take excellent care of the skin, no matter what your natural color may be. Find the soap that agrees with you and then wash the skin thoroughly with plenty of soap and water. If the skin is dry you may need cold cream or some other lotion.

Old age shows first in the changed appearance of the skin. If you would have eternal youth guard the beauty which lies in the well-cared for skin.

Good looks are more than a matter of mere appearance. There can be no question there is a psychology in it. If you look good to yourself, that adds to your self-esteem and self-assurance. We do not go far without these qualities.

It is not for beauty I would have you strive. It is for your happiness and peace of mind that I advise care of the skin.

To be told every day that you do not look well will undermine your resistance. It will make you doubtful of yourself. For this reason make the very best you can of your skin and good looks.

Household Hints

Use a little turpentine when cleaning a dirty sink. It will remove all grease, and the smell evaporates quickly.

If irons become rusty or very dirty they can be cleaned by rubbing with a halved potato which has been dipped in dry powdered bathbrick.

If you do not want to make starch when washing tablecloths and traycloths, add a tablespoon of methylated spirit to the last rinsing water. This will stiffen them and they will be easy to iron afterwards.

Horoscopes

Sunday, July 7

SUNDAY'S horoscope favors social, cultural and spiritual activities, but is not especially propitious for other interests. The day should be held sacred to these avocations and pursuits if some sinister developments are to be avoided.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of social and cultural rather than business activities. There may be some plans or ventures in connection with corporations, combines, secret orders or in diplomacy, but it would be well to safeguard against duplicity.

A child born on this day may have many excellent traits and talents, but may succeed best through strategy and diplomacy.

The seventh day this the jubilee of man.—Byron.

Monday, July 8

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for unusual upheaval of far-reaching and radical nature. There will probably be a complete uprooting of environment, with keen enterprise and initiative entering into the engaging transactions. It is possible that change of employment may also be involved, but, barring some slight delays and with care in making contracts, all should flourish and be gratifying.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of important change, possibly involving change of environment and travel. Employment is likewise attended by change, but with precaution in signing papers and with some small delays or disappointments, the year should bring signal advantages and satisfaction.

A child born on this day may be clever, original, enterprising and inventive, fond of research and travel. It should reach a conspicuously successful place in life.

Genius is its own reward, for a man's best qualities must necessarily benefit himself.—Schopenhauer.

Watch Hill Colony to Aid Women's Industrial Exchange Sale

IT'S not hard to get accustomed to thinking that the folks who have summer homes at the shore or in the mountains do nothing but play all during the warm weather. We hear so much about the fun they are having that we forget, occasionally, that some members of our social group carry their charitable obligations with them to their "dilatory domiciles," to quote the Social Register.

At Watch Hill, for instance, members of the summer colony are planning to go to "The Cedars," the home of the Harry Darlingtons, on Tuesday and Wednesday to patronize the sale of the women's Industrial Exchange of Pittsburgh. This sale has been held every summer for the last few years at Watch Hill and the colonists have found it an excellent way to solve their gift problems.

Summer residents of Watch Hill are well represented on the board of management of the exchange, you know, Mrs. William C. Robinson being chairman; Mrs. Darlington, in charge of the hand work, and Mrs. W. B. Trainer, of the edible department. Mrs. Richard Beatty Mellon, Mrs. W. S. Moorhead, Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe and Mrs. A. Rex Flinn are other colonists who are board members, too.

Assisting Mrs. Darlington with the sale are a number of women from other cities, including Mrs. Samuel G. Rea, Mrs. Walter Hope, Mrs. Thomas Thatcher, Mrs. Means Spencer, Mrs. Grayson M. P. Murphey, Mrs. Ridley Watts and Mrs. John H. Rhodes, all of New York; Mrs. Louise DeKoven Phelps and Mrs. George Nichols, of Chicago; Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, of St. Louis; Mrs. Carlton Betts, of Short Hills, N. THE pattern of the coming season is taking form quite rapidly, isn't it? One of the latest dates I've heard about is for the popular Pittsburgh Club event, the Friday night dinner dance. I'm not sure that there will be more of these parties later in the season, but the first one is scheduled for December 13.

ONE of the many parties given for the Marchese and the Marchesa Dusmet de Smours, of Rome, Italy, who are visiting the marchesa's mother, Mrs. James B. Oliver, of Shields, will be held tonight. Jenkins, of Louisville, Ky., was gowned in orchid chiffon with a chiffon hat to match and carried a shower of orchids and lilies of the valley. Her matron of honor, Mrs. C. W. Dingman, of Thornburg, appeared in jade green chiffon with a horsehair braid hat to match, and she carried sweetheart roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Norine Summerfield, of Huntington, W. Va., and Mrs. F. M. Bur', of Canton, O., wore rose beige chiffon with hats of blue horsehair braid, and their flowers were pink roses and blue delphinium. T. A. Creekmore, of Tulsa, was the best man and the ushers included P. M. Dennison, Frank A. Weiss, Dr. W. A. Latimore and J. P. Gardner, all of this city. 'PORTIA' BOWS TO COURT WILL Miss Esther I. Katten, Pittsburgh attorney, has turned over Ruth Kaufman, 5, to her father, Lewis Kaufman, Logan street, and has no fear of being disbarred, because of her having ignored a Superior Court writ of supersedeas.

"I was not threatened with disbarment," said Miss Katten on her return today from Philadelphia, where she went in connection with a contempt of court proceeding instituted against Mrs. Kaufman, of Gearing street, for failing to give up the child to the father.

"I told the court I had advised the mother not to give up the child and thought it legal and moral, owing to the mother's condition. A physician had warned me that to take the child away might kill the mother. However, I told the court that if it desired, I stood ready to turn the child over. One of the judges remarked that this had been indicated two months ago and that if I did not give her up by tomorrow, an order for disbarment could be issued. Naturally I answered I did not wish to face disbarment and directed the mother to give up the child and the father now has it."

Miss Katten said the lower court had given the mother the custody of the child. The father appealed to the Superior Court. This stayed the action of the lower court, pending decision on the appeal. The case will be argued in Philadelphia September 30.

$5,000 GRANT LOST BY WIFE

Mrs. Marguerite Berardino, of the East End, was deprived of a cash allowance of $5,000 from her husband, Michael Berardino, wealthy New Kensington banker, granted for her support in desertion and non-support court, under an opinion by Justice W. H. Keller of the Superior Court, recorded here.

A monthly allowance of $300 for her support was approved by the decision. The opinion held that the allowance granted was contrary to custom.

The opinion stated that Mrs. Berardino had just grounds for leaving her husband.

In another opinion Sydney L. Stark, of the East End, lost his appeal to the Superior Court from an allowance of $8 a week to his wife, Mrs. Margaret Stark, of Wilkinsburg, for the maintenance of their four-year-old son, Robert. He contended that his wife deserted him and that he was able and willing to provide a home for the son.

The Starks parted about two years ago and Mrs. Stark took the boy with her to Uniontown. Stark enlisted the assistance of a detective and brought the boy back to his home.

On a writ of habeas corpus, Mrs. Stark regained custody of the child and later procured the allowance of $8 weekly.

HEAVY SELLING BRINGS SLUMP IN STOCKS

General Electric, Public Service and Radio Hit; Allied Chemical Mounts

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—The stock market opened irregularly lower today, with the gain of $227,000,000 in brokers' loans tending to swell the normal volume of week-end selling.

General Electric slumped 3 points, and Radio, Public Service of New Jersey and Missouri Pacific sagged from 1 to 1¼ points. Allied Chemical, however, moved up a fraction to a new peak at 334, and American Power and Light sold 1⅝ points higher.

While Wall Street was not surprised at the large gain in Federal Reserve brokers' loans, which was indicated by the record total of Stock Exchange member loans announced for the end of June, it appeared to have had a sobering effect upon speculative sentiment, already somewhat apprehensive over the technical position of the market after its sustained rise.

Although traders have generally assumed that the Federal Reserve has adopted a hands-off policy, for the time being at least, the Federal Reserve condition statements disclosed that the system was again tightening credit by lightening its holdings of acceptances and government securities.

Auburn Auto and National Biscuit, which had sharp advances yesterday, fell back 5 and 3 points respectively. United States Steel opened with a block of 6,000 shares, off about a point, and quickly extended its loss to 1½. American Water Works, Westinghouse Electric and National Cash Register lost from 2 to 2½ points, and DuPont, Simmons, Anaconda, Columbia Gas, Radio, Keith Albee, Timken Roller Bearing and Underwood Elliott Fisher sagged a point and more.

Allied Chemical, however, extended its gain to a full point in a few sales, and Granby Copper and Warren Bros. moved up a point each.

BAR MILL DEAL UNDER WAY

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., July 6.—(AP.)—Merger of the steel bar mills of the East is under way, it was learned here today following conferences held over the holiday by bankers and officials of several of the interested concerns. A definite announcement, it was indicated, will not be forthcoming for some time, but officials hope to have the consolidation completed by September 1.

Plants reported to be interested in the proposed combine are the Danville Structural Steel Company, of which Chares M. Schwab is the owner; the Sweet Steel Company, of Williamsport; Franklin Steel Company, of Franklin, Pa.; Buffalo Steel Company, of Buffalo, N. Y., and two other plants, one in Syracuse, N. Y., and one in New England.

Charles H. Williams, of the Bankers Trust Company of New York, spent the Fourth of July here in conferences and returned to New York today. Officials of the Danville and Williamsport plants met Williams, and Schwab, it was said, participated in the conference by long distance telephone.

The steel bar industry is one of the few large industries of the country operating as a large number of independent units rather than as a large combine. The proposed merged company is expected to have a capitalization of $20,000,000 or more.

July Bond Redemptions.

Aggregate of bond redemptions in July continues at the low rate set in the beginning of this year and is fully $230,000,000 below the high record of July a year ago. There were 93 corporate calls this July against 150 last July. Corporation bonds and notes called for payment in advance of maturity in July, 1929, total $56,430,850, compared with $36,241,990 during June and with the high record of $288,354,040 in July, 1928. Of the current total $44,660,700 was called in full and $11,770,150 was called in part, generally to satisfy sinking fund requirements. The combined total of $473,581,660 for the first seven months of this year takes fifth place in point of magnitude, falling below the record of $1,409,513,890 for the corresponding period of 1928, and the next high marks of $852,483,930 in 1927, $522,817,150 in 1923 and $478,248,920 in the seven months of 1925.

Machinery Exports.

In the first quarter of this year exports of American machinery increased 37 per cent. This is constructive news as machinery means greater production and increased employment. The increase shows that foreign countries are coming back industrially, and this in turn means greater buying power for surplus American goods. American exports for the fiscal year ended June 30 are estimated at $5,400,000,000, the largest since 1920. Over the next 10 years this figure should rise rapidly with the aggressive campaigns for business abroad which are being carried on now by the big industries of the United States. The automobile, telephone, cable and airplane will be big factors in making foreign countries prosperous, just as they have been in making the United States prosperous.

Brookmire Economic Service, Inc., has just expanded its activities to include Canada, and will cover Canadian securities and markets, as well as business trends, in the future.

RAILS SLOW FOR WEEK

NEW YORK, July 6.—The railway equipment market was quiet during the week, with few sales and inquiries reported. Business in the freight car division featured the dull market, orders for 400 cars and inquiries for an additional 250 being reported by Railway Age. The United Fruit Company is seeking bids for 50 banana cars.

Passenger car orders for the week included those of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee for 25 interurban motor passenger cars from the Standard Steel Car Company. The Norfolk and Western is arranging to build 10 all-steel box express cars at its Roanoke shops.

The Delaware and Hudson has placed an order with the American Locomotive Company for one cross-compound, superheated, high-pressure 2-8-0 type locomotive and the Standard Oil Company of Indiana has ordered one six-wheel switching engine from the same builder. Baldwin Locomotive works received an order for one six-wheel switching engine from Illinois Northern.

Chicago Has Record Pig Iron Shipments

CLEVELAND, July 6.—The Daily Metal Trade says: "Preliminary figures on the movement of pig iron in the Chicago district during the six months just ended show the highest total ever shipped in a similar half-year period. Some estimates are that first half shipments in the district were 10 to 15 per cent ahead of last year and in excess of shipments in 1920 and 1926 by a slightly smaller margin. Stocks are generally low."

Profit-Taking Appears in Blaw Knox; Fuel Issues Hold to Narrow Range

Trading was active during the short week-end session on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, with most issues holding close to the price levels of the previous close.

A little profit-taking made its appearance in Blaw Knox, but the selling was well absorbed and the stock suffered only a minor decline. In yesterday's market scarcity of Blaw Knox made itself felt and there was a sharp upturn in the stock when buying orders for a few hundred shares caused a sudden advance to a level 4 points above the price at which it had left off the previous session. Expectations of a favorable earnings showing for the half year and reports of steady expansion of European business of the company were factors bearing on the rise. The selling today was attributed to the desire of professionals to accept profits on stock bought several points lower. The uncertainty in other markets, arising out of the heavy increase in brokers' loans, also influenced the situation here.

The fuel stocks showed very few changes from Friday's last prices. Western Public Service continued to lead in this division, but it failed to move far from the 34-level at which it closed last night. Lone Star new held on an almost even level with Western Public, giving rise to gossip concerning the possibility of both of these issues entering a combine later at equal exchange terms.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was quiet, but friends of the stock maintain their confident attitude, insisting that the issue will go forward when certain negotiations, now under way, are completed. United Engineering was strong, showing a large fractional gain, but the stock was quiet and only a few shares changed hands.

Bopp to Organize New Steel Company

A. J. Bopp, district sales manager of the Weirton Steel Company at Detroit, has resigned effective August 1. Mr. Bopp is a former Pittsburgher, being born on the North Side. He started in the steel business in 1904 with the West Leechburg Steel Company, and in 1915, when the Weirton Steel Company built its cold rolled strip steel mill at Weirton, he became associated with that company in the sales department.

After an extended vacation, Mr. Bopp will organize the Bopp Steel Corporation in Detroit, to manufacture cold rolled strip steel. The site of the plant has been acquired at Tireman avenue and Pennsylvania Railroad, Detroit, and the plant will be in operation in April, 1930.

Legge, Ex-Farm Boy, Unusual; Speculation Warming Up.

By B. C. FORBES

ALEXANDER H. LEGEE, the ex-farm boy President Hoover has been fortunate in persuading to become chairman (for one year) of the Federal Farm Board, ranks among the ablest of America's corporation heads. He is an unusual type.

He has a horror of the limelight. He will talk, but not for quotation. Born on a farm and engaged in farm work until 24, he has retained his individuality. Certain popular phases of city life have no appeal whatsoever to him.

Since he entered the employ of the McCormick Reaper Company nearly 40 years ago, in a humble capacity, he has won his way to the presidency of the International Harvester Company by the extraordinarily diligent exercise of innate ability. He had neither friends nor fortune to boost him. He rose by push, not by pull. Like most country boys, he early learned to look upon hard work as life's normal lot.

This is not the first time he has responded to an appeal to serve his country. He was vice chairman of the War Industries Board during the war and manager of the Allied Purchasing Commission. His rare organizing skill will now be brought into play on a colossal scale. Doubtless it was this phase of the task which appealed most to him.

Incidentally, it says something for the character and the business principles of the head of the "Harvester Trust" that he received the endorsement of 150 farm organizations for his new job. Obviously, our farm population must have felt that he has given them a square deal. President Hoover, our farmers—and even the rest of us—are to be congratulated on this choice.

THOMAS E. WILSON, the Chicago packer, returning this week from a four months' trip to South America, said to me:

"I am tremendously impressed by the progress both Argentine and Brazil are making agriculturally and industrially. They have advanced much more than is generally understood in the United States. And they are headed for even faster progress. Both are great countries, with unquestionably a great future. This country would do well to cultivate the closest possible relations with them so as to build up neutral business relations."

Slow transportation between the United States and South America long has been a drawback. But better ships are now entering the service, and arrangements are being perfected for an excellent air line. Improved communication should do something to direct more South American travel to the United States; heretofore the first-class traveling facilities to Europe have drawn most of the business.

STOCK marketwise the biggest fortunes are being made in utilities, especially companies involved in consolidations. Not a few utility shares have more than doubled in price since the early part of this year.

Stocks in which Sidney Mitchell, of Electric Bond and Share, etc., has been interested have been among the star performers. For example, Mr. Mitchell's pet company, Electric Investors, has advanced from 77 to 217. This was virtually an investment trust organized by Mr. Mitchell before investment trusts came into vogue. Its holdings are mainly utilities, and, naturally, the management have been well posted on all that has been transpiring. Another issue, less well known, Securities Corporation General, has advanced more than $300 a share. Splitups of both stocks should shortly be in order.

The Stone & Webster offering, at par, has already, before actual distribution of the shares, gone up some 20 points, and the insiders declare the stock is worth substantially more. Samuel Insull's offering of 250,000 additional Insull Utilities Investment shares less than two weeks ago promptly shot up 20 per cent in market value.

One word of caution: Don't figure on any gigantic Pacific Coast consolidation embracing, among others, California's two main companies, Pacific Gas and Electric and Southern California Edison. The principal insiders tell me that their attitude is thumbs down.

DISTINCTLY greater public interest is being manifested in the stock market. The buying is more discriminatory than it was during the speculative fever earlier in the year.

The next important group to be taken in hand promises to be the rails. Most good railway stocks are still on a more attractive investment basis than the majority of industrials which have been spectacularly boomed.

Some day the good oil stocks will come into their own. They look the cheapest of all. But just when the real upward movement will set in, nobody can foretell.

MY guess is that, after this month, money rates will become distinctly easier. Unless, of course, the country again goes speculation crazy.

Additional Stock Offering Is Sold

The Central States Electric Corporation has sold to a group headed by Dillon, Read & Co. and including Stone & Webster and Blodgett Incorporated, E. H. Rollins & Sons, Dominick & Dominick and Shields & Co., Incorporated, of an additional $1,550,000 Central States Electric Corporation convertible preferred stock, optional series of 1929. This entire additional amount has been sold.

NORMALCY NEAR IN AVIATION INDUSTRY

United Aircraft Official Sees Business Reaching Normal Output Stage

NEW YORK, July 6.—"Aeroplane production of the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Company, subsidiary of the United Aircraft & Transport Corporation, is at capacity with engine shipments for the past quarter averaging more than 200 monthly," Frederick B. Rentschler, president, said to the Wall Street Journal. "A year ago this time we were shipping an average of between 50 and 60 engines monthly. Last month was a record month with engine shipments numbering 216.

"At present we are not limited in engine production to sales, but as to how willingly we can and will increase the output. We cannot sacrifice a high grade of engine for the sake of increased production. We are trying to raise Pratt & Whitney's output to 250 engines a month. This figure, however, is about the capacity of the present plant. In August, however, we should commence work on the new plant. This plant, when completed, will increase our floor space to 662,000 square feet, as against the floor space of the old plant of 162,000.

"We have not noticed any slowing down in the demand for aircraft. On the contrary, it seems to be increasing. We are beginning to reach a period of normalcy in the industry, where the good, established aviation concerns may expect a continuation of their normal rate of increased business."

PRICE SECONDARY

Questioned regarding aircraft prices and their outlook, Mr. Rentschler stated, "I don't believe the public will buy either planes or engines on prices for some time to come. This period will last until we become standardized and, accordingly, our products are on a more competitive basis. We are making so many improvements in engine and plane designs, and there seems to be so many still to be made, that this period is far away."

Regarding the possibilities of the Diesel engine in airplanes, Mr. Rentschler said: "The Diesels are fundamentally a heavier type of motor than our present internal combustion engines. The tendency in aircraft motors has been to the lower weight per horsepower, and it is hard to believe that we will turn around and go in the other direction. I do not believe the Diesel engine will ever compare in weight per horsepower to the internal combustion type.

"The heavy low-grade fuel oil used on the Diesel also does not seem to me to be practical for airplane use. This is due to the fact that operating in cold weather the oil becomes too thick. On the other hand, if a low grade fuel oil is not used the price goes up. We still believe in the radial type of air-cooled internal combustion engine and will continue to do so until we find better.

"We believe that the field in airplane engines lies in the larger horsepower class and for that reason we have not built motors in the 150 and 200 horsepower class. By concentrating on our two motors the 'Wasp' and the 'Hornet,' we have a much more effective manufacturing situation.

FOREIGN MARKETS

"There is an extremely good outlook for this country's airplanes and engines in foreign fields. During the past 15 months, for instance, the subsidiaries of the United Aircraft and Transport Corporation have exported nearly $2,000,000 of aircraft products. Mr. Mead, our chief engineer, is now in Munich, Germany, at the Bavarian Motor Works, which has the exclusive manufacturing and sales rights to the Pratt & Whitney engines, and production of our motors is now beginning at that plant.

"I am not concerned about the invasion of this country by European aircraft. Up to four years ago we were behind Europe in aircraft design and products, but since then we have gone ahead steadily, so that we now compare more than favorably.

"The Boeing Company is making marked progress in the government and commercial field. The company now has approximately $4,500,000 of unfilled orders on hand, which insures practically capacity production for the remainder of the year.

"The company's Boeing-95 mail plane is now on the commercial markets and in service on practically all of the larger air mail lines. The large tri-motored transport plane has been in service on our Pacific and Western lines for six months now with fine results. We expect to keep this ship in operation on our lines for another six months before putting it on the commercial market.

"Our commercial business is now three times larger than the government business. This should soon be increased to a 4-1 ratio."

Profitable Half for Goodrich Company

AKRON, July 6.—The B. F. Goodrich Company net earnings for the first six months of this year exceeded $5,000,000 after charges and federal taxes, against net profit of $3,513,023 for the full year 1928, and net loss of $1,574,889 in the first half of 1929.

After preferred dividend requirements, balance for the half year just ended is equal to more than $4.50 a share on about 950,000 common shares.

Heavy Building Operations Decline

NEW YORK, July 6.—Projected work in the field of heavy construction operations declined during the past week compared with the same period last year, the value of the proposed jobs totaling $60,100,000, as against $75,500,000 a year ago, the McGraw-Hill Construction Daily reports.

The decline, it was pointed out, reflects lessened activity in large buildings, residential as well as commerical, and in view of the pronounced activity during the first half of the year, it is regarded at present as no more than normal.

Proposed work throughout the country in the past week, by classes, showed the following totals:

Public works, including road construction, $19,000,000.

Commercial buildings, $11,950,000.

Educational buildings, $7,200,000.

Residential buildings (chiefly apartment houses) $6,300,000.

Industrial projects $4,500,000.

Hospitals, $3,300,000.

Unclassified jobs, $7,850,000.

An appropriation of $10,000,000 has been made by Pasadena, Cal., for construction of a dam at Pine Canyon.

The Bridgeport Brass Company, of Bridgeport, Conn., is to spend $1,000,000 on a rolling mill; J. P. Tate and associates have completed plans for a towel factory at High Point, N. C., to cost $1,000,000, while New York City will erect a school building in Brooklyn costing $1,186,000.

REPUBLIC JULY TRADE GOOD

YOUNGSTOWN, July 6.—July business is better than expected with Republic Iron and Steel, advises President E. T. McCleary. Good business may also be expected early in the coming fall, he predicts.

The Republic company is proceeding with improvements at its Trumbull works in Warren, involving conversion of sheet mill units into tin mills and installation of modern heating furnaces.

Plans for new steam electric power plant are nearing completion, and will be approved shortly. The new plant is designed to utilize waste gases from the blast furnaces. Electric drives will be installed for the blooming mills.

American Oil Men Confer in Europe

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—The New York Times says that a committee of American oil executives will go to Europe to confer with European leaders in the industry in an effort to adjust world oil problems, which are assuming such serious proportions as to threaten open conflict.

One member of the committee, R. C. Holmes, president of the Tenas Corporation, already is on his way to Europe. Two others, James A. Moffett, vice president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and George P. Whaley, president of the Vacuum Oil Company, will sail Sunday night on the Aquitania. They will be joined in Europe by other American oil officials. Primarily, the purpose of the trip is to study the question of gasoline export prices and try to reconcile differences that have developed over this question between certain American oil producers and certain European oil interests, chiefly the Royal Dutch Sheel group. The American committee will take up with the leading European oil producers the problem of overproduction.

COTTON MARKET HAS QUIET WEEK

Sales Induced by Crop Estimates Largely Offset By Weevil Damage Fears

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—The cotton market has been comparatively quiet during the past week. Uncertainty as to the showing of the government's estimate of acreage under cultivation as of July 7, which is scheduled for publication on Monday, has probably had a tendency to restrict business.

Aside from that a disposition to sell on comparatively high private end-June crop condition figures has been checked by the fear of serious damage from boll weevil during the growing season.

Declines at the beginning of the week were followed by rallies on pre-holiday covering promoted by reports of towers of rains in the South which some thought likely to intensify the threat of boll weevil damage. The advances were not fully maintained, however, and the market seemed to be rather unsettled toward the end of the week when a good part of the business was supposed to represent evening-up for over the week-end and the approaching government report.

Private crop reports issued during the past few days have shown differences of opinion both as to acreage and condition. Figures on the increase in acreage have ranged from 1.9 to 5.5 per cent and advanced about 3.7 per cent. Figures on the end-June condition have ranged from 69.4 up to about 75 per cent and averaged 71.9 per cent of normal. Private condition reports at this time last year averaged in the neighborhood of 66 per cent, and this year's reports were regarded as indicating a condition equal to or slightly above the 10-year average, or at least this was the comment in some quarters.

BOLL WEEVIL SCARE

Between the higher condition figures and the indicated increase in acreage, sellers have contended that the crop promise at the beginning of July pointed to a fully adequate crop providing there was no unusually favorable weather or serious boll weevil damage during the balance of the season. The possibilities of deterioration, particularly with reference to weevil activities, came in for a great deal of discussion, and were regarded as a sustaining influence in the market. A few additional July notices have been issued, but the interest in that delivery has narrowed down to small proportions, and there have been reiterated rumors of probable shipments out of the local certificated stock this summer.

The unsettled labor situation in Lancashire and continued talk of domestic mill curtailment have attracted some comment, but the attention of the trade has been quite fully monopolized by the weather and crop advices.

RIO GRANDE OIL EXPANDS

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—That Rio Grande's physical condition will be materially bettered at the conclusion of the present expansion program is a foregone conclusion, but this expansion is being accomplished easily out of current earnings after provision for dividend requirements. Net earnings for first quarter were $1,263,325, or $1.05 a share, sufficient to pay entire cash dividend requirements on common amounting to $1. Gross income for the half year should amount to better than $10,500,000, of which a considerable part will be used to defray cost of expansion. The Long Beach terminal, which will be completed shortly, represents an outlay of about $2,000,000, an addition to the Vinvale refinery is now being completed at a cost of $2,500,000, the El Paso refinery has been completely rebuilt and modernized, to which a $1,250,000 lubricating oil division will be added within the current year. Expenditures for acquisition and development of properties in 1928 totaled $3,794,355, and with the ambitious program being carried on this year, as well as plans to enter foreign markets, these expenditures will be much higher this year.

Even allowing for these large expenditures, earnings for 1929 can hardly fall below $4.50 a share, and if the new refineries and terminal are brought into immediate use, may run between $5 and $5.50 a share. At current prices, Rio Grande is paying 6.67 per cent cash dividends on investments, is selling at only 6½ times its earning power, and is paying a stock dividend of 3 per cent annually. Semi-annual cash dividend of $1 will be paid to stock of record July 5.

Officials state that the lawsuit being tried this week does not involve the proven area of Elwood field, and that it has only to do with leases apparently outside of main structure, on which no wells have been drilled, but which are near the thus far unsuccessful Elwood Community No. 1. Rio Grande officials are optimistic over prospects for the outcome of the suit.

OHIO STANDARD SHOWING GAINS

Improved Market Conditions, Expanded Production Help Fix Gas Prices

CLEVELAND, July 6.—Stabilization of the gasoline marketing situation in the state of Ohio has been of pronounced benefit to Standard Oil Company of Ohio. Gasoline tax receipts for the state indicate a marked increase in consumption over last year, and the company has been drawing a good share of the expansion in sales volume.

During the past year Ohio was the scene of severe price-cutting in gasoline. This was due to the fact that the marketing operations of Standard Oil Company of Ohio were confined to the one state, and invading companies could dispose of surplus gasoline on the Ohio market without incurring the danger of retaliative action in their own territories.

As a result the posted prices for gasoline in the state were merely nominal, actual sales being made several cents a gallon lower. In fact, as Standard Oil Company of Ohio state in its 1928 annual report, the actual tank-wagon prices for gasoline which the company had to meet last summer were lower than at any previous time since 1912, except for a period in 1915.

INCREASED OUTPUT

In order to meet this situation the company decided to increase its volume. Production of gasoline by the Standard Oil of Ohio refineries was raised 41 per cent in 1928 over 1927, with plants operating to practically full capacity. The company sold 38 per cent more gasoline last year than in 1927, and in the last six months of 1928 the volume was 78 per cent in excess of that in the same period of the preceding year.

With manufacturing cost reduced throuh larger production, Standard Oil Company of Ohio was in position to meet the competitive tank-wagon quotations, which at certain periods last summer were below the tank-car price. With greatly expended output, in combination with an aggressive advertising policy, the company was able to capture a considerable portion of the larger demand, and the result has been to establish the organization firmly in the topmost position in the Ohio territory and to bring about a greater degree of stabilization in prices.

PRICES HIGHER

Ruling prices for gasoline in Ohio are today 20 cents a gallon in tank wagons and 21 cents at service stations, including the 4-cent state tax. The situation is on a stable basis, with but little commercial discounting by small firms. How far prices have improved may be seen in the fact that posted prices were 17 cents tank wagon and 19 cents at service stations, including the 3-cent tax, a year ago, but actual sales were at prices considerably below these quotations.

In conjunction with its marketing operations the company has expanded the refining capacity of its plant at Cleveland with the addition of new cracking units, so as more adequately to serve the northern marketing territory of Ohio. To overcome the expensive freight haul to the southern part of the state, a refinery at Latonia, Ky., not far from Cincinnati, was purchased and modernized, having capacity of 8,000 barrels of crude oil a day. The latter plant will run on midcontinent crude oil supplied by a 100-mile extension from the main line of Illinois Pipe Line Company.

Recently the company acquired controlling interest in a new company which will take over Caldwell & Taylor, Inc., having about 125 owned, leased or controlled stations for the distribution of gasoline and other products in the state.

NEW MANAGEMENT

An aggressive policy has been adopted by the new management of the company, which is the oldest of the Standard Oil companies, having been organized in 1870. All the board of directors of 1927, who had served for many years, retired last year, and an entirely new directorate, recruited from those in long and outstanding service in the company, has succeeded to control.

Despite narrower profit margins for the company in 1928, its annual report, which was noteworthy in giving the first comprehensive survey of the company's operations, showed net profit of $3,896,548 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equivalent to 7 per cent preferred dividend requirements to $6.08 a share on 560,000 shares of $25 par common stock. In the preceding year net was $2,335,042 or $3.29 a share on the common. Profits thus far this year have been materially greater than in 1928, and a good portion has been allotted to expansion.

The common stock is quoted currently on the New York Curb Exchange at $120 a share. Dividends on the stock are 62½ cents quarterly, or at the annual rate of $2.50.

Southern Pipe Line Payment Expected

OIL CITY, Pa., July 6.—(AP.)—The Southern Pipe Line Company has received $100,000 in cash and a six months' note for the remaining $855,056 from the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company, which recently purchased a part of the Southern's pipe line system. This was made known in a statement issued today by Forest M. Towl, president of Manufacturers' Light and Heat, in New York.

Southern Pipe officers tonight said they expected to be in a position to send stockholders $10 per share on or about December 30. The sale of the lines was approved by the Public Service Commission.

Grain Market's Recovery Powerful Influence in Securities Rally.

WITH wheat extending its recovery, averaging 2 to 2¼ cents a bushel higher, the belief was spreading in financial circles that the remarkable rebound from the May low levels, not alone in that grain, but in corn as well, may be regarded as one of the most powerful influences at work in the speculative market. Wheat is now 26 to 27 cents a bushel up from the lows and corn 16 cents a bushel. The rise is based largely on the expectation. Arising from a summary of private forecasts, that next week's government condition reports will be bullish. Sentiment is helped along also by the change in the Canadian outlook. At the moment it is believed highly improbable that the dominion will produce an average crop this season contrasted with its last record wheat outturn of 508,000,000 bushels.

The money position was not essentially changed except for a further slight shading in time money rates. Demand loans renewed at 7 per cent against Wednesday's closing figure of 6 per cent. Demand, however, was reported exceptionally light, while at the same time the supply of funds was said to be ample for all needs. The acceptance market shows demand for bills holding up in spite of the recent cut of ⅛ of 1 per cent in rates for all maturities, bringing the current basis to levels three-eighths of 1 per cent under the March peak.

NEWS of the taking of another million pounds of gold at London for shipment to New York contributed to the developments tending to stimulate bullish enthusiasm. This brings the total of the metal lost by London to Berlin and New York this week to upward of $17,000,000. Naturally the showing of the Bank of England's condition statement tended to arouse fresh interest in the presence on this side of the Atlantic of Sir Montague Norman head of the institution. Its ratio of reserves is now down to 33.01 per cent, against 44.79 per cent a week ago and the recent high of 58 per cent. It was recalled that just prior to the raising of its rate last February, the ratio had been down to 24.25 per cent.

Strength in Chrysler Motors was ascribed to the operations of a newly formed pool, numbering among its members several prominent individuals who have been active marketwise in the stock on previous occasions. This group, according to current report, is basing its operations on the belief that the second quarter earnings statement due in the next few weeks, will make a much better showing than has been generally anticipated. The company reported net equivalent to $2 a share on the common in the first quarter against $1.57 after preferred dividends but before preferred sinking fund in the same period last year, the preferred having since been retired. In the June quarter last year, net equal to $2.41 a share was reported.

BRISK demand for Fleischmann at new record levels, with several large blocks, one involving 10,000 shares, changing hands on the rise, made that stock one of the outstanding features. Much of the buying was reported coming from floor brokers, who, it was recalled, had been active on the buying side of the rail stocks, among them Wheeling and Lake Erie, for important banking interests several years ago. Standard brands on the curb, representing the new company formed to merge Fleischmann and several other units a few weeks ago, also was active and strong. The rise was generally accepted as probably foreshadowing early announcement of further acquisitions by the new organization.

Steel common finally achieved its objective of 200 on the stock exchange on top of a rise of more than 3 points, but ran into considerable realizing thereafter. The Street had come down prepared for a big opening in the stock on the basis of its performance at London Thursday, while our market was closed. Incidentally much argument was aroused by the contention that the stock sold there as high as $203, it being contended in New York, that the foregoing price was based on a calculation in which the pound sterling was taken roughly as having a $5 value. Figuring the London price on the current basis of sterling exchange, however, it was argued the high price for steel there Thursday was actually 198½ or thereabouts, thus giving the New York market the honor of having first established the stock at that level.

United Carbon Co. Builds New Plants

NEW YORK, July 6.—United Carbon Company has completed a new carbon black plant at Rock Creek, Tex., and commenced construction on two more, to be finished in September. These will bring total capacity to about 110,000,000 pounds a year, comparing with actual production of 60,525,530 pounds in 1928 and estimated output of 97,000,000 for 1929.

Rails, Industrials At New High Levels

NEW YORK, July 6.—Both industrials and rails used in the Dow Jones and Co., stock verages reached new high levels today as shown in the following table—30 active industrials 344.27 up 2.28 points, 20 active railroads 167.42 up 0.42 point.

FINANCE LOOKS TO SOUTH FOR LEADERS

Little Rock, Ark., Becomes Cradle for Industrial Heads; Man-Power Needed

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The forthcoming elevation of Charles S. McCain, president of the National Park Bank, to the presidency of the Chase National Bank, with which his institution will be merged, directs attention to the extent to which Little Rock, Ark., has become a cradle for national business and financial leaders.

In recent years, besides Mr. McCain, at least a score of enterprising young men from Little Rock have been called North to fill responsible executive posts in a wide variety of financial and industrial fields. Among the best known of this group is Samuel Reyburn, president of Lord & Taylor, and of the Associated Dry Goods Company. Until called to his present work, Mr. Reyburn, at the vanguard of the Little Rock invasion on the North, was president of a bank which was a rival of the Little Rock institution which Mr. McCain headed. Mr. Reyburn was chosen by northern bankers to head a group of stores previously dominated by the Claflin institution. Under Mr. Reyburn's sagacious leadership, the Associated Dry Goods Company and its constituent stores have experienced a large measure of prosperity.

HOLD KEY POSITIONS

Others in the scattered ex-Little Rock colony, all of whom were close friends in the southern city, include Mr. McCain's brother, W. R. McCain, who is vice president and secretary of the Aetna Life Insurance Company at Hartford. Two others of the group are also in Hartford—F. C. Hatfield is vice president of the Phoenix and Charles E. Miller is vice president of the National Fire Insurance Company.

M. L. Bell, formerl of Little Rick, is general counsel and executive vice president of the Rock Island. Hugh Nell is vice president and secretary of the Southern Pacific. E. M. Allen is executive vice president of the National Surety Company. Hugh D. Hart is first vice president of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company at Philadelphia. C. P. Perrie is president of James McCreery's New York Department Store. Moreover, several others are in key positions in banks in St. Louis.

I asked several members of the group why the rest of the country had shown such appreciation of Little Rock men.

The composite explanation is that the city is small enough to give men diversified experience, and because it is the largest city in the state, the capital, the chief railroad center, and a city with long standing traditions, it gave its sons experience in the types of problems that arise in great metropolitan centers.

SOUTH IS PROLIFIC

The South as a whole has been prolific in yielding business leaders to the North in recent years. Percy Johnson, president of the Chemical Bank and Trust Company, is from Kentucky, and John Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, is from Tennessee.

With the industrial renaissance of the South, the district south of the Mason and Dixon line in the coming decade will doubtless make a stronger bid to hold its most enterprising citizens. There has been in recent years some migration of Northern business men to the South to open factories and to establish branch offices.

Of course, the South is not the only section that has furnished outstanding New Yorkers. New York is a national center, not a local place, and its foremost business and financial executives include natives from all parts of the country.

MAN-POWER NEEDED

As the responsibilities of business become larger, mergers become more and more a question of manpower. Large capitalists are always making a diligent search for executives who measure up to the new responsibilities, and the quest frequently goes to smaller cities, where as a rule men get a more all-round experience. In large urban centers, men who start at the bottom frequently drift into highly specialized departments of an institution, and do not get an opportunity to view the problems of the business as a whole—which incidentally is the task of the major executives.

Sir Josiah Stamp, British economist, director of the Bank of England and railroad president, has been called the Owen D. Young, of England. Like Mr. Young, Sir Josiah combines business acumen with an extraordinary sense of social responsibility and scholarship. In commenting on the Young reparations pact in a recent speech, Sir Josiah remarked: "The advantages of the scheme which has been agreed upon are so great as to outweigh any deficiencies in details. Those who do not take a serious view of the situation of the civilized world in relation to a common standard of value might not see anything in the Bank of International Settlements, but a reparations institution with potentialties for certain encouragement on existing interests. But those who regard the use of gold as lying at the root of most other problems will see in this proposal possibilities of the highest ultimate importance to world peace."

Evidently, Sir Josiah sees in the new bank an entering wedge for a monetary esperanto, a common medium for international exchange.

CROSS-COUNTRY AIR SERVICE TOMORROW

Transcontinental's Planes Ready to Embark on Coast-to-Coast Flights

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP.)—Business history records few more daring ventures than that which culminates Monday when the Transcontinental Air Transport's big planes, one on each side of America, take to the air with full passenger loads to inaugurate ocean-to-ocean service.

More than $3,000,000 has been spent by the transport company before a cent of return is obtained, and huge additional sums have been laid out by the co-operating railroads, the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe. Moreover, the promoters are coldly calculating on taking regular and steady loss, running to large daily totals, for at least a year in operation before business develops on which expenses can be paid.

In spite of that outlook, and before a public plane completes the scheduled continental jump, so certain are transport executives of the public demand for the flying journey that negotiations have already been opened for the acquisition of more and bigger planes to augment the service. Paul A. Henderson, operating vice president of T. A. T., hurried back to Washington this week from a dress rehearsal flight over the route, and has set the wheels turning for the enlargement.

"Really, our transcontinental flying service starts Sunday," he said, "when the Pennsylvania passenger train pulls out of New York at 6:05 p. m., with the passengers who transfer to our ship leaving Port Columbus at 8:15 a. m., Monday. At 8:45 a. m., the eastbound plane departs from Los Angeles. Capacity at the start is limited to 10 passengers per day, and the last notice I have estimates that about 200 advance bookings have been made. Some of them run clear ahead until October, so that we are not yet guaranteed loads for present equipment.

SPEED WITH COMFORT

"We can't tell yet how heavy the travel will be, but it is certain that speed and comfort will appeal to Americans. At present the fare is high, just short of $350, but it can be cut when we get volume, which we hope to do rather quickly. To show one advantage, on the trial trip, we dropped down from the high air to the transfer station at Kingman, Ariz., with our passengers cool and comfortable, and found a ground temperature of 111 degrees, through which train riders have to roll for hours.

Everything is as ritzy as possible in our arrangements, from the interior decorations of the tri-motored wasp cabin planes to the landing stations and grounds, because at the inception the appeal is confined rather sharply to people who pay for and demand luxury. When the speed and safety is demonstrated, we can cut down rates and handle numbers. At the start, it will cost us $1.50 a mile to fly these big planes. This cost will come down, perhaps come down fast, and will be put under attack from two directions.

"First, we shall have planes of larger capacity, and that is what our present negotiations contemplate. Next, we shall have more planes. The beginning operation has much the expense character that the New York Central would have if it got all its four track line through New York to Chicago, with signals, stations, and equipment, only to use it for a single train a day. As we run the number of planes up, the cost per mile will drop, and we can follow it down with the rate. At that, we don't expect the line to earn for its first year."

AUTO SALES ANALYSIS

NEW YORK, July 6.—Registration in 18 leading cities of eight-cylinder cars priced above $1,000, in the first four months of 1929, showed an increase of 82 per cent over the same period of the last year, while registration of six-cylinder cars priced above $1,000, in the same period declined 8 per cent as compared with same months of 1928, according to a compilation made by Studebaker Corporation.

Registration of eights above $1,000 totaled 17,239 for the first four months against 9,492 in the same period of the previous year. Registration of sixes above $1,000 were 49,165, against 53,178 in first four months of 1928. To test reliability of this compilation, Studebaker compared registration of eights and sixes above $1,000 in eight leading states.

Average increase in registration of eights over same four months of previous year was 90 per cent as compared with a decrease of 13 percent in registration of sixes on the same basis. As a final test. 10 counties, none of which contained a metropolitan city, were selected by Studebaker and registrations compared on the above basis. Six-cylinder car registrations showed an increase of 13 per cent, while registrations of eights increased 315 per cent.

Consols of 1930 Falling Due Next Year

WASHINGTON, July 6.—A big but almost forgotten installment of the national debt of the United States falls due in 1930, and will call for a lot of administrative and banking attention shortly. This part, officially listed as "consols of 1930," amounts to about $592,000,000, carries but two per cent interest, is all owned by national banks, and has the circulation privilege. That is, national banks owning the bonds can deposit them with the Treasury, and have issued against them, dollar for dollar, national bank notes. The privilege is practically always utilized to its full extent, since the owning banks draw the interest on the bonds, and in addition earn current interest rates on the notes issued against the securities.

This loan is the last existent portion of the nation's Civil War obligations, which once were extant to many times the total of the remaining consols. So far there has been no intimation of what the government's policy toward them will be, but in the financial world the question is one of growing importance. Unless the securities are renewed in some form, most of the national bank note circulation will be automatically withdrawn.

TEXTILE MILLS CURTAIL

DURHAM, S. C., July 6.—A general suspension of work in the Carolina textile mills for a period of 10 days or more is expected to be fully developed by next week. A part of the suspension may be attributed to the annual vacation that most southern mills give to their employes, and a part is due to the hope that a general suspension will improve the tone of the market.

This applies to the spinning and weaving mills only, but the hosiery mills are affected to some extent also, and some of them, if not all, will close some of their departments. One hosiery mill official said they would keep just enough machines running to be able to say they had not closed down. This mill and probably most of the others have enough orders on hand to operate for several weeks yet, but orders have been coming so slowly the past few weeks they think it would be wise policy to conserve them as much as possible.

Most mills are working on orders for fall delivery and a few days suspension will not cause any serious delay in deliveries. Full fashioned departments are not affected, the th · mills here making that class of goods having orders for several months ahead. It is believed that much the same situation prevails at Burlington also and in other places where there are full fashioned mills.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

GAIN IN SALES REPORTED BY DUN'S

Mercantile Agency Sees Bright Outlook for Second Half of Year

Retail trade has shown some improvement, with department store sales in considerable volume, R. G. Dun & Co. say in their weekly review of business conditions in the Pittsburgh district.

There has been a fairly good demand for men's and women's wearing apparel, shoes and sporting goods. The dry goods trade is quieter, orders for fall devilery not being very large as yet. Hardware, lumber and building materials are moving in a fair way, although building as a whole is not as heavy as a year ago. There is a moderate demand for groceries and provisions, with prices averaging rather low.

A slight recession in industrial operations is noted, although the decrease is considerably smaller than is usual at this period of the year, and business continues to hold up exceptionally well with the steel mills.

FIRST HALF GOOD

The first half of the year has been generally satisfactory from the standpoint of both production and distribution with the majority of the larger producers. Prospects for the remainder of the year are viewed optimistically.

Production and distribution of plate glass continue to hold up very well, but production of window glass has been at a lower rate, and the demand is still rather slow, although early improvement is anticipated.

Manufacturers of electrical and radio equipment continue to operate at a very fair rate. There is some improvement in demand for sanitary and heating equipment and further improvement is looked for before long. There has been a further increase in the production of crude oil, and a few slight reductions have been reported in the prices paid for certain grades of Pennsylvania crude.

COAL UNCHANGED

The bituminous coal situation continues about the same as last week, with production somewhat greater than it was a year ago, but with comparatively little improvement in demand. Prices of Western Pennsylvania grades of run-of-mine coal are quoted, per net ton, as follows: Steam coal, $1.25 to $1.75; coking coal, $1.50 to $1.75; gas coal, $1.65 to $1.75; steam slack, 80c to 90c; and gas slack, $1.00 to $1.10.

Jersey Suggests Oil Muddle Solution

NEW YORK, July 6.—In discussing the various measures for the conservation of petroleum resources, many of which have proven abortive, an article in Standard Oil Company of New Jersey's magazine, The Lamp, points to proration and the unit plan for the development of new pools as definite steps in progress toward this end. It mentions efforts along this line by operators in more recently discovered pools.

"Proration and unit development offer a practical solution for the problem of overproduction," the article says. "It is recognized that this solution will not in any way affect operations in existing fields, but the overproduction of 1931, if any, will come from the pools not yet developed or discovered. If common operation of these potential pools can be created so that they can be developed in an orderly, economical and efficient manner, increased recoveries will be obtained, development costs will be reduced, unnecessary drilling and storage costs will be eliminated and both consumer and producer will benefit to the extent of unnumbered millions of dollars."

REPUBLIC'S NET SETS RECORD

NEW YORK, July 6.—Indications are that earnings of the Republic Iron and Steel Company for three months ended June 30 will exceed those of the first quarter. This would mean the second quarter's returns will establish a new high since the first quarter's net income of $2,877,127 after all charges represented peak profits for any quarter on record. In the June quarter of 1928 Republic reported net income of $1,053,855. Profits for the three months ended March 31, 1929, included operations of Trumbull Steel and Steel & Tubes Co., while those for the second quarter of 1928 included Trumbull.

Republic's earnings for six months ended June 30, 1929, are therefore likely to be in excess of $5,800,000. In the corresponding period of 1928, net income, including Trumbull operations from April on, amounted to $1,541,187, while those for Republic alone in the same period of 1927 were $2,032,537. The six months' earnings will be materially larger than the full year's operations in 1928, including Trumbull from April, but not taking into account any returns from Steel & Tubes, when net income was $4,642,450, equal, after preferred dividends, to $4.13 a share on 690,891 common shares.

STEEL OUTPUT MAINTAINED AT PEAK

Reduction of Bookings Found Not to Affect Current Operations

By B. E. V. LUTY.

Reports are in circulation outside the steel industry of a material decrease in the flow of routine orders by manufacturing consumers, but producers themselves admit only a small decrease. The exact bearing upon the future may easily be misapprehended.

For several months manufacturing consumers have been doubtful whether they would receive adequate deliveries and have been constantly exerting pressure upon mills for better deliveries, while they have been placing orders in certain lines which with the sold up condition of mills would involve deliveries quite a distance in the future, up to six or eight weeks in extreme cases. Consumers, seeing the delivery situation easing off, might temporarily decrease their buying without affecting the rate of steel receipts in the long run.

According to seasoned observers of steel, the best criterion is the rate of steel consumption if it can be observed, for actual buying may vary from time to time without the changes being necessarily significant. Observation indicates that there is no decrease in steel consumption at present and none in prospect before approximately the end of August, with three exceptions only.

MOTOR MAKING OFF

Recently the automobile industry slowed down, but by less rather than more the usual seasonal percentage. This has released no more than about 5 per cent of the steel making capacity, and making the assumption, though of course it is not a safe one, that automobile production in the whole second half of this year will bear the average relationship to the first half; the decrease for the second half as compared with the first half will also represent about 5 per cent of the steel capacity.

A second slowing down is in the agricultural implement industry, but it is small and the implement industry in general consumes much less steel than the automobile industry.

A third slowing down is in rail production. In other years the annual rail orders have been practically completed by July 1, a slowing down occurring during June. This year, on account of the recent scarcity of steel, some deliveries were extended for a few weeks beyond July 1 and there have been supplementary orders whereby it is now predicted that rail production will be well maintained until late in August. The slowing down then will represent in the neighborhood of 5 per cent of the total steel capacity, but only a rough estimate can now be made.

JULY NEVER BETTER

The steel industry never passed the midyear date in such favorable condition and with such favorable prospects, at least since the war, and it is interesting to note that so strong was the old seasonal influence that even in 1916 conditions were not regarded as good on July 1. Two months before it had been remarked 'the edge is off the market" and when on August 1 the Carnegie Steel Company announced certain price advances there was criticism in some quarters along the line that it looked like an effort to bolster the situation. Two or three weeks proved that the Carnegie Steel Company was right, the situation becoming stronger than ever.

Despite the strong situation now visible there is ground for doubt whether steel can altogether continue its remarkable pace of the last six months, or really the last year. Production has been altogether exceptional, relative to the general trend line in steel made by the course of the six years up to the middle of last year. That has has been true of industry in general, but there is this very important point, that steel has run much beyond general industry.

A comparison between the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production, including manufacturing and mining, shows the fiscal year just ended to have been exceptionally active, and May (June not yet reported upon) the highest month in all time. The board's index is based upon the 1923-4-5 average as 100, and showed 123 for May. Constructing a corresponding index for steel ingot production, May stood at 148, or 20 per cent above the former relation to industry in general.

NEW USES FOUND

Of course steel is going into new uses and expanding in old uses, but it can hardly be taken for granted that a year ago the jump it took was a permanent one. There are specific reasons for doubt. The fiscal year comparison is justified by various statistics, rather than calendar year comparisons. If anything, fiscal years are more likely to be separate entities than calendar years, despite the disposition to make annual prognostications as of January 1, instead of July 1.

There has been exceptional activity in line pipe for natural gas lines, which promises to continue for some time, but, obviously, not indefinitely. There has been a big bulge in the buying of automobiles, which seems to be a matter of style and following the example of neighbors. While fabricated structural steel business has increased other building operations have fallen off, which raises some question.

The agricultural implement industry has had a remarkable period of 12 months, but must now face the new crop prospects, which are not especially promising. Finally, while the railroads are maintaining their capital expenditures, year by year they have been dropping off in locomotive, freight car and rail expenditures and increasing outlays in other directions, which involve much less steel per dollar of expenditure.

Opinion as to the future is certainly divided and may be grouped roughly into two categories. One class holds, in substance, that there is just now a material decrease in steel business, but that the industry will come back strong in the near future, say in two or three months. The other class holds that there is virtually no lull, that there will be a phenomenally active summer and that tapering off will then occur for perhaps quite a period of time.

Western Public to Run Gas in Fall

by GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WITHIN a year of the time of its organization the Western Public Service Corporation will have built up a complete system for the production, transportation and distribution of natural gas. The company was incorporated October 6, 1928, and distribution of gas will be started this fall. In spite of the organization's brief existence, a large production has been developed and the construction of pipe lines is well under way.

Western Public Service is a holding company organized by the Crawford interests, the Ohio Oil Company and the Prairie Oil and Gas Company to supply natural gas to Salt Lake City, Ogden and nearby communities in Utah.

The Mountain Fuel Supply Company, its principal subsidiary, has developed a flow of 365,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day from 11 wells. This production may be expanded later by the completion of five additional wells now being drilled.

Gas Area Large

THE company holds a large area of proven and prospective gas lands in Sweetwater County, Wyo.; Moffatt County, Col., and Daggett County, which competent geologists have stated will furnish an ample supply of gas.

An additional supply of 75,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily will also be available from wells operated by other companies in the South Baxter Basin field. This will make it possible for Western Public Service to supply 440,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day to its customers.

The same subsidiary which holds the production will also own and operate the gathering lines from the various gas fields to the junction point on the main line at Green River, Wyo. Construction of these lines was started in February and the work is progressing rapidly.

Uninta Pipe Line

THE gas will be transported from Green River Junction to Salt Lake City by another subsidiary, the Uninta Pipe Line Company. This unit will also operate a branch line which will reach part of the distance to Ogden. Work on the Uninta line was started in January and a large force of men is now engaged in ditching and laying the pipe. Construction is being pushed so that the line can be placed in operation to meet the autumn demand for gas.

A third subsidiary, the Wasatch Gas Company, will complete the delivery of gas to the city of Ogden. Franchises have been obtained in towns in the valley between Salt Lake City and Ogden. These communities will be served by the Wasatch Gas Company. Work on the Ogden line was started in January.

Distribution in both Salt Lake City and Odgen will be secured through the Utah Gas and Coke Company and the Odgen Gas Company. These companies operate artificial gas plants. Control was purchased from the Insull interests in December, 1928. The systems will be converted to the use of natural gas and they will be greatly enlarged. The two companies are serving 24,000 consumers, but the present expansion program is expected to increase this number.

Capital Structure

THE interest in the two distributing companies, formerly under Insull management, represents almost complete ownership. Over 99 per cent of the common stock of the organizations is held.

The capital structure of Western Public Service is very simple. Out of an authorized issue of 2,000,000 shares of no par capital stock, 1,666,666 shares were outstanding on June 1. The remainder will be held in the treasury subject to disposition by the board of directors.

A competent management is assured for the company through the fact that those in control have long been identified with the natural gas industry. The Crawfords are also active in the management of Lone Star Gas and Columbia Gas and Electric.

POWER OUTPUT AT RECORD

NEW YORK, July 6.—Continued high records in the activity of industry and trade are shown by the statistics of the output of the country's electric light and power plants as reported by the United States Geological Survey. According to a statement issued by the Statistical Research Department of the National Electric Light Association.

The production of electricity during May by all the agencies which contribute to the country's supply, as given by the survey, was 8,093,373,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 13½ per cent over the same month of last year.

According to these figures, the electrical index of industry and trade, prepared by the National Electric Light Association, indicates that business in May was 12.8 per cent above the normal for that month, as measured by the trends of the past 10 years. This is a gain of nearly 1 per cent over the figure for April, which, in turn, stood at the highest figures since the great industrial activity of the years 1919-1920.

As measured by the output of electricity, business was extraordinarily active in the entire region east of the Mississippi. On the Pacific Coast, industry and trade are also substantially above last year's levels. A slight recession in mining activity is, however, indicated by the fact that the Rocky Mountain region, as a whole, showed an increase in output of only 4 per cent above last year.

NEW BUILDING DECLINES

CHICAGO, July 6.—New building in the United States for the first six months of the year was valued at about $3,265,000,000 according to a summary today by the Indiana Limestone Company. This figure is based on reports from several hundred cities and towns.

President A. E. Dickinson said that while the volume for six months had been slightly under the total for the same period last year, there is a splendid outlook for the next six months.

"High money rates have adversely affected certain types of building," he said. "The apparent decrease in speculation in securities should release funds for sound investment.

"According to figures based on preliminary reports for the month of June, new construction for the month had a value of approximately $560,000,000.

"Residential building has suffered more than any other type. This is particularly true of apartment houses and the small home division.

"Public works, public utilities, commercial, industrial and educational construction constituted about 53 per cent of all construction work the first six months of the year.

"New York and New Jersey showed sharp recoveries from a rather slow start early in the year. Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia and Virginia recorded large totals. New England states were spotty at times showing only a slight decline from last year, however.

"The Northwest has been a bright spot on the construction map since the advent of favorable weather.

"The Middle West, which got off to a bad start because of severe weather conditions, has come back very favorably. Only a slight recession is shown from last year. Chicago, the hub of the section, has totaled a daily average of about $1,500,000. A stimulating influence to the industry in this section is the completion of the $10,000,000 World's Fair Fund. Indications of construction activity along this line are already seen in certain parts of the city.

"Of the 10 leading cities New York heads the list in valuation of building permits, with Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles, Boston, Seattle, Milwaukee, Baltimore and San Francisco following in the order named."

GRIGSBY TAKES LONG STRIDE FORWARD

Production Record Places Company in Front Rank Of Radio Industry

CHICAGO, July 7.—In the 13 months that Grigsby-Grunow Company has been manufacturing complete radio receivers, the company has produced and sold some 800,000 Majestic sets. This achievement, in less than a year, places the company in the front rank of radio manufacturers.

In the fiscal year ended May 31, last, which practically covers the company's radio-manufacturing activities, Grigsby-Grunow had total sales of $49,200,000 and net profits in excess of $5,300,000, equivalent to better than $12 a share on 437,040 shares of capital stock soon to be outstanding. This compares with sales of $5,814,886 and net income of $612,954 in the previous fiscal year, or $1.42 a share on the same share basis.

Grigsby-Grunow began the manufacture of radios in May, 1928. The company had been making battery eliminators and other radio parts, but discontinued the manufacture of battery eliminators, its chief product, January 1, 1928. At the time it began to make complete sets, the company had a good-sized dealer organization and managing personnel.

The company was organized in 1921 as Grigsby-Grunow-Hinds Company. For four years it manufactured automotive accessories of which the principal one was a windshield visor. Then in 1925 the company switched to the manufacture of the Majestic battery eliminator for use with radio sets and eventually produced other radio parts including the power unit.

MASS PRODUCTION

During each of the three years between 1925 and 1928, the company made a complete radio receiver for experimental purposes. It was not until the spring of 1928, however, that the time was considered opportune by the management for the mass production of sets. During the late fall of 1927 and the early months of the following year a set of satisfactory quality had been perfected which was subject to manufacture in large volume.

When the company had fully decided to go into the manufacture of radio sets, the officers laid plans to engage in the manufacture of radios with sufficient volume to obtain low-cost production. This would enable the company to produce a set which would retail at a much lower price than the price which prevailed at the time for "all-electric" sets. A large plant which was just being vacated was leased and equipped for a production of 2,500 sets a day.

The wisdom of the management was demonstrated by the fact that the line of radios was confined to two cabinet models, both of which used the same chassis and power unit. Most of the large companies at the time offered several models with a wide price range, which prohibited production on a large scale.

When the company placed its first Majestic set on the market practically all of the "all-electric" sets were selling above $200. Grigsby-Grunow offered an "all-electric" set with dynamic speaker for $137.50 with another model at $167.50. These prices are still maintained.

BEHIND ON ORDERS

The company was deluged with orders. Productive capacity of the plant averaged 2,000 sets a day during the first four months and demand was many times that amount. Consequently the problem of increasing production became acute. It was in this direction that the particular ability of W. C. Grunow, vice president and treasurer, was manifested. Under his personal direction output was increased from 2,000 sets daily in June, 1928, to 4,000 sets in the spring of 1929.

The Grigsby-Grunow plants now comprise three large, modern factories. One is devoted to the manufacture of radio chassis and power units, one to cabinets and speakers, and the third to tubes. Altogether, the three factories have 70,000 square feet of floor space and employ 9,000 workers.

The plants are equipped with modern labor-saving machinery, many of the machines and methods used having been developed by the company's engineers. The factories now have a maximum capacity of 7,000 sets daily and the tube plant is designed for a production of 40,000 tubes a day.

Company now has a distributing organization of 55 distributors and 12,600 dealers in all parts of the country. An independent company is being organized in England which will maufacture radios under the trademark "Majestic" for the British and continental markets.

Big Paint Merger Rumored Under Way

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP.)—Financial observes saw in the election of W. R. Burwell yesterday as a director in the Devoe & Raynolds Company an eventual consolidation of interests in the paint industry, representing resources of $58,000,000.

Mr. Burwell in an associate of Cyrus S. Eaton, financier, and is president of Continental Shares Inc., the investment trust sponsored by Otis & Co. Mr. Eaton is a director of the Otis Company as well as of the Sherwin-Williams Paint Company.

The Devoe & Raynolds Company and the Sherwin-Williams Company are among the world's largest dealers in paints and varnishes.

Week's Financing At Low Point For Year

NEW YORK, July 6.—New financing in stocks and bonds during the past week aggregated $16,124,000, so far the smallest weekly amount of the year. Of this $10,791,000 was in new bonds and $5,333,000 in new stocks. In the preceding week new stocks and bonds totaled $144,758,500, of which $85,916,000 was in bonds and $58,842,500 in stocks. In the 1928 week new bonds aggregated $17,198,600.

From January 1 to date new bond financing totals $1,892,989,808, against $3,372,924,690 in the 1928 period. New stock issues total $1,691,678,914 since January 1.

WOODS AGENCY CONFERENCE

Three hundred representatives of the Edward A. Woods Company and their families left yesterday for Bedford Springs, for the thirtieth annual educational conference of that organization. The principal towns within a radius of 200 miles of Pittsburgh are represented.

Activities opened last night with a reception to Wm. M. Duff, president. The conference will adjourn next Tuesday.

H. K. Beegle, a veteran of the organization, is chairman of today's meeting, with a program arranged by W. J. Cummins. W. W. Klingman, vice president of the parent Equitable organization, and F. W. Fuller will speak.

Dr. S. S. Ruebener will speak on "Life Insurance—America's First Investment." Other addresses will be made by Paul F. Clark and John Marshall Holcombe, Jr.

Courtney Barber, E. E. Johnson and C. B. Metzger will be in charge of the final session on Tuesday.

The social program is in charge of the following committee: A. Bodycombe, J. M. Pfeil, A. A. McNells, E. W. Travis, Miss E. K. Barrett and H. M. Welch.

GLASS DEMAND SLOW

Because of midyear inventories and the natural slowing up on account of the holiday, the market for flat glass was inclined to be below normal this week. However, underlying indications are good, and there seems to be no reason why market conditions in flat glass should not continue to be good, according to the American Glass Review.

Current demand for plate glass continues to be maintained nicely. Quite a number of orders came in before July 4, causing manufacturers to feel elated over the prospects. Requirements of automobile producers are expected to decline as curtailment of automobile production schedules continues. Demand from other users of plate glass has improved and is expected to take up most, if not all, of the slack due to decline in specifications for automobile producers.

Ahead of the flat glass industry are the big buying weeks of the year, as far as building requirements are concerned. September, October and November have been the biggest months for sales of flat glass for building purposes, and no change in this is expected, although, of course, demand may not be in so great a volume as last year. The volume of business to be done in the three months remains to be seen.

Window glass is in somewhat different position than plate glass because demand has not equaled production. Stocks in distributors' hands probably are ample for regular requirements. Factory stocks also are ample. The current price reduction is not expected to cause any great rush of orders. There are two reasons for this belief. The first is that stocks are ample and well assorted, and the second is that the reduction is not large enough to encourage any speculative buying.

There will be some falling off in production of flat glass. Several units are closing down or will close down shortly, but the production curve undoubtedly will go up again sharply by September 1.

CARD SLIDE MAY COST PILOT HIS JOB

MANY an old-timer who was a star in some sport or other long ago, if asked how his game in its modern state compares with the standards that prevailed in his day, will tell you, while registering disgust, that he has too much respect for the past to mention it in the same breath with the present. "There is no comparison," he will declare. "These fellows of today are better business men and get a great deal more money, but they couldn't hold a candle to the old boys in ability. We used to think only of practicing and improving ourselves. Nowadays the main concern of the topliners is how they can get more money. The game has gone back terribly."

Joe Tinker

These expressions come chiefly from old fighters and former baseball stars. "Most of the boxers of today are jokes," declared old Joe Choynski one day while he was boxing instructor at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association and a member of this city's first boxing commission.

"THE only argument that is offered by those who claim the fight game is better is that everything else in the world has improved and that boxing, therefore, must also have come forward," Joe continued. "That doesn't follow, at all.

"It is true that we've got electric lights, telephones, radio, aviation and a lot of other things. That the world has seen advancement and improvement in those lines is not to be denied. But have we got any one in the fine arts who can be ranged as superior to the old masters—Mozart, Beethoven, Raphael, Michelangelo and others? Any one better in music, painting or sculpture? Certainly not. Then how can it be argued that the boxers of the present have advanced beyond those of the past? They have not advanced. They are far below the old standards."

HOWEVER, an exception to the general rule has bobbed up in the person of Joe Tinker, once famous shortstop, and later manager of the Reds, Chicago Feds and Cubs. Tinker doesn't attempt to take anything away from the present-day ball players. On the contrary, he is frank to admit that he believes the game is improving.

When Jack Kieran asked him what side he took in the argument as to the relative merits of the modern diamond heroes and the old-timers, Joe replied: "I think ball players are improving. Why shouldn't they? Practically everything else improves, doesn't it? Why should ball players get worse?"

Frank Chance

TINKER also gives some interesting information on a subject that frequently is a topic at modern fanning bees around the big league circuits—the whereabouts of the surviving members of the famous old champion Cubs who won four pennants and two world championships under the leadership of the late Frank Chance. "What has become of the old Cubs?" repeated Joe. "Well, Evers, as you know, is still in the National League as part of the management of the Braves. Chance is dead, and so are Pat Moran, Tom Needham, Harry Steinfeldt and King Cole.

"THREE-FINGERED BROWN has a good job with an oil company in Lawrenceville, Ill. Johnny Kling has a thriving billiard and bowling establishment in Kansas City. Archer is buying hogs for a slaughter house in the Chicago stockyard district. Jimmy Sheckard is in business at Columbia, Pa.; Circus Solly Hofman has a haberdashery, and I read recently that Frank Schulte had quit working and was very sick. I've lost track of Shorty Slagle.

"Ed Reulbach is working for a New York piano firm. I don't know whether he plays them or moves them. Orvie Overall is an appraiser for a bank in California. Jack Pfiester has a job in the county road department out Cincinnati way. Heinie Zimmerman is around New York somewhere, but I haven't seen him in years. I'm glad to say that most of the old Cubs are doing right well."

IT LOOKED for a time as if the big baseball show was to have another bespectacled regular player, following in the footsteps of Chick Hafey, of the Cards, but in this case an infielder, such as George Toporcer, the former Redbird.

Max Bishop, second baseman of the surging Athletics, has been experiencing so much trouble with his eyes that it was feared he would have to resort to the use of glasses or drop out of the lineup. However, a noted eye specialist of Philadelphia failed to discover any defect of vision, and reported the ailment as trifling and only temporary.

Max Bishop

NEEDLESS to say the specialist's report caused Connie Mack and his pennant chasers to heave the well-known sigh of relief. The loss of Bishop's services, or his being forced to play under the handicap of wearing spectacles, might have interfered seriously with their flag chances. They are riding out in front with the comfortable lead of nine and a half games, but a break in the infield might soon lead to the cutting down or the wiping out of that margin. As it is, the A's are left sitting pretty. They must begin a hard road trip through the West today, but the consistency of the club's work to date gives promise that it will continue to do as well abroad as at home. The Mackmen have won 39 of their last 48 games.

THE chances that the Pirates will be able to keep going at a winning pace on the road are just as encouraging as in the case of the Athletics. The Bucs wind up their home stay with today's game against the Reds and will open a 15-game series in the East tomorrow, starting at Brooklyn.

If the Robins, Braves and Phillies run true to form they may make considerable trouble for the locals, so that the Eastern cruise will not be a smooth one, but at that there is every ground for the

KOLP SLATED TO OPPOSE SWETONIC

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The gent who challenged Hack Wilson and got away with it will defy our Pirates this afternoon. Ray Kolp and his Red mates will take on the first-place Buccos in a single game, which will mark the last contest at the Oakland Orchard for more than two weeks.

"I see by the papers where I'm all used up," said Ray rather cheerfully this morning to the Sun-Telegraph, but the truth of the matter is Friend Hack did not land a single tap on yours truly when he rushed our dugout. Anyhow I feel great and you probably will note that I do not look like a fellow who has been in a scrap."

Kolp, by the way, won a 3 to 2 triumph over the Freebooters one week ago today while operating on Fogarty Knoll against Native Son Steve Swetonic, who has been picked to swap punches with Kolp again this afternoon. One week ago Steve pitched a corking game, but he was on the sour end at the finish.

REDS RODE HACK

The Cincinnati pitcher who was reported in fisticuffs states that no hard blows were struck when Sturdy Hack detoured from the baseline to dive into the Red dugout in Chicago. The visiting trench, by the way, is unusually close to first base and the practise of riding the various players as they sprint down the line is a favorite trick of the "jockeys" on the bench. The players, for the most part, take the riding, but Wilson is an impulsive lad and apparently the Rhinelanders were able to stir him up. Hack is said to have finished second while in the arms of the enemy.

Pete Donohue also is O. K., although he may have some little marks as a result of his runin with Wilson," continued Kolp. "But Pete had arranged to return to Cincinnati from Chicago and that is the reason why he did not come to Pittsburgh with the others."

The Reds are struggling along without the services of Hughey Critz, who is generally regarded as the best second baseman in baseball. Hughey was in a collision with Big Riggs Stephenson in the Chicago series and it is likely he will be lost for at least a month. Meantime, Clark Pittenger is playing the keystone bag.

DANGEROUS CLUB

The Rhinelanders are still in last place, yet they are no setup for any club, even with the skillful Critz missing from the fold. The Bushwhackers, therefore, are going into action with no over-confidence in

Chicago Owners To Give Hack Support

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP.)—Hack Wilson, Cub outfielder, was justified in attacking Ray Kolp, of the Cincinnati Reds, during Thursday afternoon's baseball game and the Cubs will back him to the limit, President William L. Veeck said last night.

"We caution our players against unmanly tactics on the playing field, but in Wilson's case, it was an exception," Veeck said. "Kolp called him vile names and Hack just couldn't stand them. He jumped off the field and went into the Cincinnati dugout to stop it. Any man would have done the same thing.

"Wilson, like the rest of he baseball players, takes plenty of insults but there is a limit to what any human being must or can endure. We are back of him and intend to fight his case to the limit if necessary. He is a gentleman and a conscientious baseball player and has enough red blood in him to resist vile insults such as Kolp hurled at him.

JUNIOR LOOP ATTENDANCE GROWS

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP.)—Turnstiles at American League parks, all but rusty for three years because of Yankee domination of the pennant race, are clicking merrily again and the once half-starved club treasuries are becoming fat with gold.

Interest in the race this season is so keen, President E. S. Barnard, of the junior circuit, reports, that despite poor weather and numerous postponements of Saturday and Sunday games, the total attendance may exceed that of 1928 by more than a million.

"The change in leadership has been one of the biggest causes for the interest and larger gates," Barnard said. "For three seasons New York was out in front. This year we find Philadelphia leading but with New York and St. Louis hanging on tenaciously and Detroit also having a chance.

"With Philadelphia playing away from home for a few weeks, starting today, there is an excellent opportunity for both St. Louis and Detroit to narrow the gap existing between them and the league leaders."

CARDS DROP TENTH

NEW YORK, July 6.—(INS.)—Word that St. Louis has adopted the famous "blues" as the city anthem is expected momentarily.

For the old town along the Mississippi is doing no little wailing these days now that the collapse of the Cardinals has added to its baseball miseries.

Last year's National League champions were smacked by the Phillies yesterday and in being smacked ran their string of defeats to 10. This leaves them just three games north of the soaring Robins in fourth place. It is reported that Cincinnati has moved over on the basement sofa to make room for the Cards if they fail to find some

SLOVAK, SWISS ATHLETES IN MEETS HERE

Competition is continuing today in the Swiss and Slovak athletic meets which got under way in the Pittsburgh district yesterday.

Athletes, including hundreds of boys, girls and women, are taking part in the closing competitive events of the National Slovak Sokol Gymnastic Festival at the Homestead High School athletic grounds. The program includes mass and individual demonstrations in calisthenics, free-hand drills, pyramid drills, apparatus work, races, jumping, etc. The closing event on today's program will be a festival and distribution of prizes at the Slovak Sokol Hall in Homestead. The event is in preparation for the international Sokol exhibition in Europe, to which teams are sent from all over the world.

FORCED INDOORS BY RAIN

A portion of yesterday's program was staged in the Carnegie Library Hall at Munhall, due to the rain, although the athletes took to the field during the afternoon.

The festival closes tomorrow afternoon with more than 1,000 men, women and children expected to participate en masse in grand Sokol drills and exhibitions.

Final contests also are being staged at the fourteenth tournament of the Swiss-American Athletic Union in Allegheny Turners' Grove, Perrysville, with 200 athletes from all sections of the country participating.

Field events are being staged throughout the day, with a program of gymnastic events, wrestling and drills. The tournament closes tonight with a concert, dance and awarding of prizes.

PICNIC CARDED TOMORROW

The program opened yesterday, the initial events being staged in the gymnasium, due to inclement weather during the morning. Many of the field events were held outdoors during the afternoon.

The thousand visitors will be guests at a basket picnic tomorrow at the park. The program will be under the direction of the Lincoln Turn-Verein and all Swiss societies of Pittsburgh and East Pittsburgh.

YANKEE CREW GAINS FINAL

HENLEY, England, July 6.—(INS.)—The rowing team of Browne and Nichols School, of Cambridge, Mass., defeated the powerful Trinity College eight by a quarter of a boat length in the Thames Cup race of the Henley Regatta today.

The English crew was the one that defeated the sturdy Columbia University 150-pound crew in a gruelling contest in a near gale on Thames River yesterday.

Browne and Nichol's time for the one mile 550 yards course was seven minutes 20 seconds, only 14 seconds slower than the eight-year-old record the crews had to row against a slight breeze.

The American led at the start and were even at the half-mile mark. At the three-quarters the overseas oarsmen were again ahead, but their opponents drew up and again both were even at the mile. Towards the end of the contest the Americans spurted and made a strong finish.

In the other event in the semifinals the Thames Rowing Club, holders of the Thames Cup, defeated Quinton by a boat length in seven minutes 27 seconds.

Browne and Nichols meets the Thames Rowing Club crew in the final for the Thames Cup at 3:45 this afternoon.

The Leander Rowing Club won the historic grand challenge cup, defeating the Thames Rowing Club by two lengths in 7 minutes flat.

HACK TARGET FOR KIDDERS

It isn't at all likely that Prexy Heydler will hand out summary punishment to Hack Wilson. The muscular outfielder is called on to take a lot of riding from the various clubs, but, to his credit, be it stated that he generally conducts himself well. Earl Smith has been "on" Hack for several years, but the wisecracks of the former Pirate are so humorous that Hack laughs instead of showing scowls.

Wilson's physique is such that he might be able to get a decision over Gus Sonnenberg, so that the other athletes should be cautious about a personal combat with the prowling Bear. Doubtless some hot shafts were aimed at Hack when he rushed the enemy dugout. It is much better, however, to leave the game at the ball lot. The oldtimers often fought, but they seldom carried their grudges off the field.

Smith's riding of Wilson often was done when Hack was at the plate. On more than one occasion, Wilson socked the apple a mile to get square with Earl, but the colorful catcher wouldn't cease. When Earl left the Pirates to join the Cardinals last year he hooked up with a club that was destined to win the flag.

The Cardinals came in to Chicago, en route to the East for a single game. The Redbirds were out in

BOWEN FAILS TO SET NEW '300' MARK

DENVER, July 6.—(AP.)—The forty-first running of the National A. A. U. track and field games came to a close yesterday with the Los Angeles Athletic Club taking home the relay championships and Kenneth Doherty of the Cadillac Athletic Club of Detroit, Mich., retaining the decathlon championship with 7,784.68 points, a new American record.

The Los Angeles club's 440-yard team of Milton Maurer, Charley Paddock, Maurice Guyer and Frank Wykoff, created a new world's record for that event on a track with two turns, the time being 41 9-10 seconds. The old record was 42-4-10 seconds.

SET NEW RECORDS

A new A. A. U. Meet record of one minute, 26 4-10 seconds for the half mile relay was set by the Los Angeles team, the personnel of which was the same as that in the 440. The old record of one minute 27 4-10 seconds, held by the New York Athletic Club, had stood since 1921.

The New York A. C. 'S one mile quartet clipped 6-10 seconds from the former A. A. U. mark of 3 minutes 17 6-10 seconds, made in 1926 by the Illinois A. C., in the winning team were Jackson Scholz, Johnny Kerr, Howard Jones and Frank Cuhel.

Doherty's decathlon point total was the highest ever made in this country. The highest total previously scored was 7,574.42, made in 1927 at Lincoln, Neb., by Fait Elkins, of the University of Nebraska.

Doherty trailed Wilson Charles, Haskell Indian, for the first half of the decathlon, but Charles, suffering with an ankle injury received in the high jump, could not maintain the grueling pace in the afternoon and dropped to third position in the final standing.

KENNEDY SECOND

V. Kennedy, Warrensburg (Mo.) Teachers' College, was second with 7,362.003 points, and Charles had 7,240.035.

Los Angeles scored 16 points in the relays. The Denver and New York clubs tied for second place with 8 points; the Illinois A. C. had 7 points, and the Boston and Newark clubs 5 each.

The Boston club won the two-mile relay title in 1 minute 54 seconds, E. B. Blake, Arnold Noyes, S. H. Martin and Leo Lermond being the runners.

The Illinois club won the four-mile title in 18 minutes 37 seconds, with Harry Grubb, Dave Abbott, Ray Conger and Harold White doing the running.

BOWEN, BRACEY FAIL

Claude Bracey led a picked field of sprinters across the line in a special 80-yard dash, but in doing the distance in 8 1-10 seconds failed by the fraction to equal the world's record.

R. F. Bowen, Pittsburgh star, who on Thursday shattered the A. A. U. record for 440 yards, failed in an attempt to set a new mark yesterday in the 300-yard race, the present record for which is held by Bernie Wefers. Bowen, Northrup, of the University of Wyoming, and Halstead, of the Los Angeles A. C., ran, with Bowen winning in 31 6-10 seconds, 1 3-10 slower than Wefer's mark.

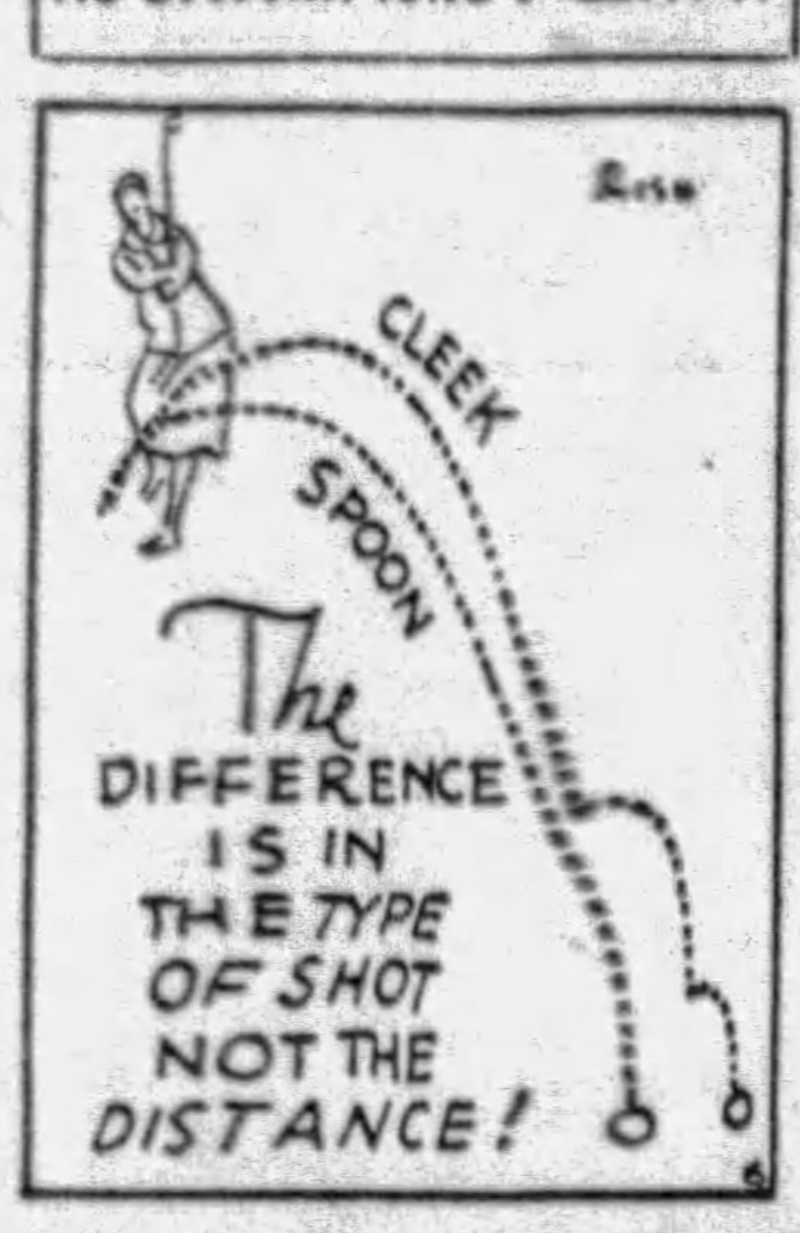
GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT



CLEEK
SPOON
The DIFFERENCE IS IN THE TYPE OF SHOT NOT THE DISTANCE!

Answered By

LAURIE AYTON

Always a consistent place winner in the big tournaments—Famed for his accuracy and steadiness under fire.

So far as distance goes both of these clubs are about equal, either of them will give the average golfer between 165 and 180 yards. However, the cleek gets much of its distance by the roll and run-up method, while the spoon gets most of its distance via the air route. When playing a fairly long shot dead to the green use the spoon, because as it gives a great amount of backspin, it will stop the ball quickly. For the long run-up shot the cleek is an excellent club to use and I find that many average players can control it better than a regular midiron.

STAR ALL-ROUND CARD AT BOWL

With Tony Herrera and Phil Goldstein appearing on top and Jackie Rodgers and Dan Billick clashing in another 10-round battle, both of them return engagements, and with an eight-round semi-final between Young Saylor and Leo Kyburski and a six-round opening bout, the Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock, is prepared to stage its best all-round show since it opened its doors, next Monday night.

Herrera lost on a foul to Goldstein in three rounds at the Bowl recently, with Goldstein outscoring the Mexican star as far as the battle went. Rodgers and Billick fought a sensational battle in Motor Square Garden last Christmas and have defied all attempts to rematch them until now.

Saylor is one of the cleverest and Kyburski one of the most rugged 150-pounders in the district.

The card has been completed for the show to be held at the race track at Junction Park, Pa., next Thursday night. Jackie Rodgers, Negro bantamweight, meets Pancho Dencio, Filipino, of Cleveland, in the 10-round main bout; Nick Polis is paired with Frankie Shuck, and Maxie Brown with Frank Monroe, in six-rounders, and Ted Yarocz meets Bob Collura, and George Compton is signed with Red Hartley in four-rounders.

Willie Davies boxes Luis Carpemtiere, Toledo Filipino, again at Johnstown Monday night. Davies' stablemate, Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, is anxious to box Dick Ramies again in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, where the pair fought a vicious battle on the night of the Fourth.

Herman Folias, Ambridge boxer, who has been going so well around New York under the management of Lou Brown, is home for a visit with his folks, his first in seven months.

COURT FAVORS HUDKINS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—(AP.)—An order temporarily restraining the State Athletic Commission from disposing of $13,000, the fine imposed on Ace Hudkins, Nebraska middleweight fighter, was issued yesterday by Superior Judge E. P. Shortall.

The commission was summoned to show cause, on July 12, why the order should not be made peranment. Members of the commission are William Hanlon, of Sacramento, chairman; James Woods, of Los Angeles, and Charles F. Traung, of San Francisco.

Purses of Hudkins and Charley Belanger, Canadian light-heavyweight, were held up after their 10-round fight here June 28, because it was claimed they "didn't fight."

At a commission meeting last Wednesday, $13,000 of Hudkins' guarantee of $15,000 was forfeited, the balance being allowed him for training expenses. Belanger was allowed $1,000 for expenses, and the rest of his money, amounting to about $1,800, was held up by the commission.

Chairman Hanlon issued a statement that the fines were imposed because "it has been very clearly shown that neither of the contestants put forth their best effors."

Home of Macks To Get Extra Seats

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—(INS.)—That John D. Shibe, vice president of the league-leading Athletics, believes in his ball club was revealed here today when it was announced that he had contracted for the construction of 700 additional box seats at Shibe Park, the home of the White Elephants.

FRITZ MERCUR LOSES IN CLAY COURT PLAY

INDIANAPOLIS, July 6.—(AP.)—Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., the highest ranking tennis player now in the United States, joined the list of mighty who have fallen in the national clay court singles championship tournament here when he was defeated yesterday by J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J. The scores were 7-5, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Hall, who won through a superior service and driving game, entered the semi-final round. While he was upsetting Mercur, who is the country's seventh ranking player, Emmett Pare, of Chicago, Western champion, was creating something of a surprise himself by defeating Herbert Bowman, of New York City, to also enter the semi-finals. Pare won 7-5, 7-5, 6-2.

RAIN HALTS PLAY

Rain drove the other two quarter-final matches off the courts before they got well under way, but play was resumed later. The players did not have time to end the matches before darkness set in, however. Berkeley Bell, Austin, Tex., had two sets on Julius Seligson, New York City, in one of the matches, while Bryant M. Grant, Atlanta, Ga., led Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, Cal., two sets to one. The matches will be completed today.

Two quarter-final matches in the doubles were also postponed until today because of the rain. One will be between D. K. Murray and Clifford Sutter, both of New Orleans, and Bell and Louis Thalheimer, of Chicago. The other will be between Wray Brown, St. Louis, and Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, and Gledhill and Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Cal.

Mercur and Hall, and Ben Gorchakoff and Arthur Kussman, both of Los Angeles, went into the semi-final round yesterday.

Hall and Mercur engaged in a driving game in their singles contest, and the former's steadiness and ability to get points when they were needed, settled the match. Hall, who is the fifteenth ranking player in the United States, used a severe chop stroke on occasion to catch Mercur flat-footed.

PARE PLAYS WELL

Pare, who is outranked in the national rating by Bowman, played his customary game of feeding the ball to his opponents either until it was netted or driven out of bounds or he was given the opportunity to make a kill. Bowman attempted to meet the midwestern star at his own style and did it so successfully that the first two sets were forced into extra games. The final set, however, proved easier for Pare. The Chicagoan's opponent in the semi-finals today will be the winner of the Grant-Gledhill match.

WILSON TARGET FOR KIDDERS

front of the Cubs by a couple of games and after the single contest the two teams boarded the same train for the Atlantic seaboard. It so happened that the Chicago players were on the two rear Pullman's, just behind the Cardinals. On the way to the diner, Smith ran afoul of Wilson.

"We sure got you fellows just where you belong on this train," shouted Earl. "You're right behind the Cardinals and that's where you're going to stay." And poor Hack didn't have any comeback.

HAILED IN COURT

Wilson was hailed into court in Chicago last year for striking a fan who was abusing him. Hack, it seems, had competent witnesses to show that the fellow had called him vile names before he retaliated with a punch. The judge hearing the case apparently was a baseball fan. He knew just how many homers Hack had made that year and in the previous race. Eventually the man of the law gave the plaintiff a raking over for razzing a star ball-player and Hack was discharged.

RACES CLOSE AT EBENSBURG

EBENSBURG, Pa., July 6. — The most successful racing meeting ever offered in this state comes to a close here this afternoon with the running of a sparkling program, headed by the Loretta purse, a mile and 70 yard affair.

Immortal, a double winner at the meeting, rules a favorite in the wagering. Right now, Immortal seems to have a shade on anything performing at this meeting and if handled intelligently today, should make it three consecutive purses.

Other probable winners are Lucky Fox, Mattie B., and Goldpiece. The day's best bets are Appellate and Michael B.

At the conclusion of today's racing, many of the horsemen will ship to Cumberland, Md., where they will rest up their charges for the fall meeting, which opens there on August 26.

VETERANS SHOW WAY IN A. A. U. RELAYS

BY 'Pete' Bowen

University of Pittsburgh Sprint Star and Intercollegiate and A. A. U. 440-Yard Champion. Written Especially for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Pete Bowen

DENVER, July 6.—The closing day of the National A. A. U. championships brought out a great victory in the ancient battle of age vs. youth—in favor of age. Charley Paddock, fastest human running second on the sprint team of the Los Angeles A. C., literally ran away from his field and gave his team the margin to win in the 440 relay. The grand old man of the track, Pat MacDonald, the New York policeman and veteran of many years, showed the way in both heavy weight events, the 56-pound throw for distance and the 56-pound throw for height.

Bernie Wefers, although not competing himself, certainly showed that he was a real champion. My attempt to break his record for 300 yards was an advertised feature and Wefer himself started the race. The competition provided was weak and I fell far short of the record of 30 3-5 seconds. My time was 31 1-10 seconds.

PRAISES SCHOLZ

Of the veterans, however, the greatest of them all was Jackson Scholz, winner of the 200-meter Olympic championship in 1924.

Scholz, as he warmed up, looked frail and old, but when he stepped out in his leg of the half-mile relay, he ran his club into second place from away back in the ruck.

Then, at the last moment, the New York A. C. was forced to use a substitute in the mile relay and Jackson proved to be the sub, running the first quarter of his long career and probably the last race of his life.

He stepped out and ran the first leg of the relay and gave his team a three-yard lead. His time must have been fast because in winning, his team established a new championship record of 4:17 2-5 seconds.

Denver is to be commended for the way in which it put across this meet. We have been treated with the greatest courtesy possible and have access to everything in Denver excep the jail and the mint.

STARS GET TRIP

Today we are being taken on a 250-mile trip through the Rockies with a trout dinner thrown in as an added attraction.

It was announced at the close of the meet that the athletes, including myself, who are touring Europe this summer will leave July 20, which means tall hustling getting back from Vancouver and Seattle, where we are to run next week.

MRS. EVERETT W. VA. CHAMP

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 6.—(AP.)—West Virginia has a new woman golf champion, Mrs. H. D. Everett, Charleston, having won the title by vanquishing Mrs. Angus MacDonald, also of Charleston, 4 up, in the final of the annual state tourney here yesterday. Mrs. MacDonald was state champion in 1919.

The 1928 titleholder, Miss Fritzi Stifel, of Wheeling, did not defend the honor, as she is sojourning abroad.

The victory was a comparatively easy one for Mrs. Everett, who was well up on her game. Mrs. Everett took the lead on the third hole and maintained it until the end. She was always well in front of Mrs. MacDonald from the tee, and invariably followed with a long second shot that put her on the green or within easy shooting distance.

Dan Howley Denies Yarns of Friction

ST. LOUIS, July 6.—(INS.)—Reports that friction between Daniel P. Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, of the American League, and Vice President L. C. McEvoy has brought about a breach between Howley and P. D. C. Ball, owner of the Browns, were denied by Howley yesterday.

Howley said that since the beginning of the season there had been stories that he would be dropped when his contract expires and that there has been friction between Ball and himself. He said, "As far as I know, there is nothing to it. Mr. Ball and I have never had any trouble."

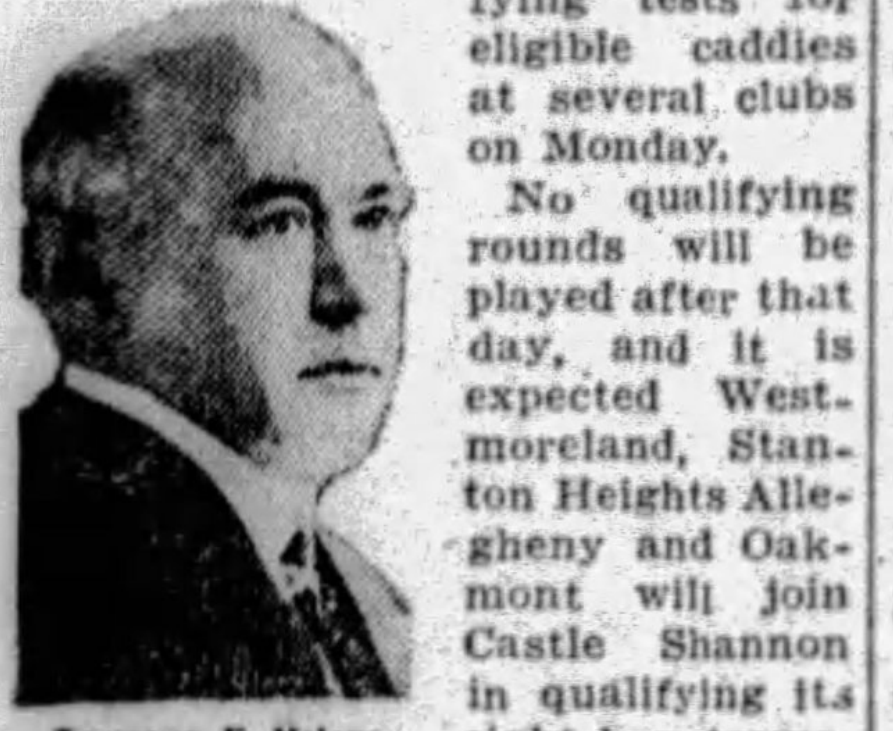
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

'JUNIOR EVENT FINE THING' --MALONE

By VERN SWA. .SFAGER

With the entry list well over the 600 mark, and additional entries expected in every mail today to wind up the individual total, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's second annual Western Pennsylvania junior amateur tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, which is to be played Thursday of next week on the Schenley municipal links, appears to have reached a point close to the competition itself. The only remaining preliminary activity will mark the qualifying tests for eligible caddies at several clubs on Monday.



James F. Malone

No qualifying rounds will be played after that day, and it is expected Westmoreland, Stanton Heights Allegheny and Oakmont will join Castle Shannon in qualifying its eight-boy teams.

Caddie-master Frank Beidnek at Castle Shannon expects a large field to compete at nine holes on Monday.

No individual entries will be accepted from today until the tourney that do not bear the post-mark of yesterday July 5, when they closed, excepting that they are included in a caddie-qualifying round yet to be played.

Sixteen country clubs in Western Pennsylvania have qualified teams for the special team championship fight, and that competition is expected to wax keen.

MALONE BOOSTS EVENT

But the most interesting thing of the tournament for the day is a statement from James F. Malone, president of city council, who certainly is interested in golf from its beginning to its ending—he plays the game himself. Let us listen in for a moment on Malone:

"Those who indulge the game of golf and who respect its ancient traditions are not only promoting the health and happiness of the people, but are insuring a more moral and sturdy manhood for the future.

"The inadequacy of golfing facilities in the City of Pittsburgh is to be deplored, and it is hoped a way may be found to correct this condition as the city acquires more territory which may be suitable for golf course construction. Meanwhile, the County Commissioners are to be commended for meeting this condition by the construction of two magnificent courses in the new county parks.

"The inauguration of the West Penn junior amateur golf championship matches by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph last year, and which is to be renewed on July 11, is a wholesome evidence of the interest that is being taken in clean sports by such public-spirited men as William Randolph Hearst, and great good is bound to result from such laudable enterprises.

"I hope to avail myself of your kind invitation to be present and witness the inspiring sight of these hundreds of young golfers as they start out from the first tee at the popular Schenley Park course, and I wish you every success on this occasion."

That's the right spirit! It appears that everyone is behind the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's movement to encourage the junior golfer and to give to the city future good sportsmen.

Tomorrow the prize list will be announced, and if you are to be one of the competitors you had better take a squint at it—it's really worth while. Of course, you do know that the William Randolph Hearst trophy is the big prize for the low scorer in the tournament and that the team championship plaque will be held by the club the winning team represents; but there are others as well that will interest you.

STAGE IS SET

The stage is virtually set for the tournament. Pairings and starting times, lacking only those pairings for the boys who play on that day, will be announced in Monday's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

John Jay Burke, city office manager for the Allegheny County parks and former U. S. G. A. public links committeeman, will act in the capacity of honorary director of the tournament and will strike the first ball. It's likely to be real early in the morning when he hits it, too, for the actual playing field should number close to 400, which will necessitate an early start.

The Schenley Park Club family will also give the boys assistance. Al McBride, professional; his assistants, William Earl Super and Charley (Chuck) Onoretta; Andy Petrolia, caddie-master; Eddie Kunold, superintendent of the clubhouse; John Kauffmann, greenkeeper; Tom Keefe, time clerk, and Frank Petrolia—they'll all give a big hand in helping make the event a bigger success than last year's inaugural affair.

Don't forget that Mayor Kline and City Council have indorsed the tournament, that County Commissioner E. V. Babcock has thoroughly approved it, that Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang is enthusiastic over it, that Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen think it's the best thing that ever happened to junior golf—and that some real scores are expected to be returned on Thursday.

AMATEUR AFFAIR

The tournament is strictly an amateur affair, and it will include in its field junior golfers 18 years of age and under who are not attending institutions of learning above high school grades. The caddies who are playing in the event are all under 16 years of age and maintain an amateur status.

United States Golf Association rules will govern the competition. Any boy who fails to replace his divots will immediately be disqualified. Cheating in any way, shape or form will not be tolerated for a moment, and for that reason "spotters" will be placed at convenient places about the course. Al McBride will settle all disputes on the rules of the game, and it would be well for all entrants to "read up" on them.

The boys will tee off in foursomes, and they will keep each other's card. No boy keeping another boy's card is expected to take the word officially of the boy he is scoring for—it is up to him to keep a count, and an accurate one, too. Learn the rules—if you don't you may be cheated, or you may hurt someone else's chances of winning a prize.

In the case of the smaller boys playing who are not so familiar with the rules, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph would appreciate volunteers to escort the boys around and score for them.

ALL PUTTS MUST BE HOLED. The competition is at 18 holes medal play, without handicap.

Correct Baseball Scoring

(Watch for this instructive daily feature in correct baseball scoring if you are interested in our national pastime. It will take you through representative plays which may come up any day at the ball yard.)

PLAY.

Two men are out. Douthit is on first and Delker on second. Frisch crashes one against the scoreboard. Douthit and Delker race home and Frisch slides safely into third base, the ball being relayed, Richbourg to McGuire to Bell. Sisler calls for the ball at first and it is tossed over to him by Bell and the attention of the umpire is called to the fact that Frisch had missed the bag. The umpire agrees.

What goes in the box score and summary?

ANSWER.

BULLETIN.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 6. — (AP.) — Henri Cochet, of France, won the British tennis championship today by defeating his countryman, Jean Borotra, in the final match. Cochet overwhelmed the bounding Basque to win in straight sets by scores of 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 6.—(AP.)—A large crowd of tired but determined tennis fans waited outside the courts at Wimbledon this morning for the final matches there today. The French aces, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, were matched against each other.

Many of the crowd had waited since 9 p. m. yesterday. At dawn today the queues were so long many arriving considered it hopeless and not worth their while to wait.

People near the start of the lines sold their places for a pound each (about $5) while the scalpers were trying to get 10 to 15 sterling for center court seats ($50 to $75).

It was the fifth time in the last two years two Frenchmen were fighting it out in the men's singles. Cochet was favorite over Borotra today, but an upset would not be a surprise, for the Basque has been playing a great game in the last two weeks. His ground strokes have greatly improved and his all court game is steadier than ever, with his enthusiasm and fighting spirit undiminished.

The second match today was between the American youngsters, Allison and Van Ryn, against the Anglo-Scottish pair, Gregory and Collins. The Americans have a great chance if their team play holds up, but if it doesn't and they weaken for a moment the Britons probably will defeat them.

The women's singles championship was decided yesterday when Helen Wills defeated Helen Jacobs in straight sets in the final.

FIELDS, DUNDEE BOUT BOOSTED

DETROIT, July 6.—"Jack Dempsey considers the Dundee-Fields world welterweight championship fight the best and most evenly matched welterweight contest in a decade."

Leonard Sacks, speaking. Sacks is Dempsey's secretary and hopped over to Detroit at Dempsey's suggestion to take a look at Floyd Fitzsimmons' new bowl at the State Fair Grounds and close contracts with both Dundee and Fields for a big Chicago show in Dempsey's fight club there this fall.

"Fitz' arena is the finest outdoor structure that money could build," said Sacks. "The designer certainly knew his onions. Every man who buys a ticket, whether it be a ringside seat or general admission, will have a clear view of the ring, with no posts or structural work to cut him off. Fitz told me he could seat 32,000 fans. I believe there will be more than that number trying to get in.

"I think that in this arena, which can be double-decked, Fitz has an ideal spot for a world heavyweight championship match.

"Detroit is ripe for such an event and if Dempsey is to be a contestant, nothing would please him better than to exhibit his wares in this city.

"I am leaving today for Los Angeles to convey to Dempsey an offer made by Fitzsimmons that I am not, at this time, at liberty to disclose. It is really the largest flat guarantee that has ever been made for a heavyweight title shot. Fitzsimmons is not at liberty to disclose the names of his backers, but making my own deductions, I think they are men of international reputation in the automobile industry.

"It is Fitzsimmons' idea to get Dempsey as the referee for the Fields-Dundee match. Fitz is prepared to offer Dempsey a sum of money larger than a referee ever received. I am certain that if Jack is not in the ring as the third man for the championship fight July 25, he will certainly be a spectator."

INDIANS VICTORS

In the only other major league game of the day the Indians staged a five-run rally in the well known seventh to nose out the White Sox, 11 to 10.

Today's feature engagement in the National finds New York playing host to their most bothersome enemy, Brooklyn. The two clubs play a single game and then turn to staving off a wholesale invasion of the West. The Giants, positive that they belong higher than third place, and unable to secure it by battling the eastern weaker sisters, are downright impatient for the stronger western outfits to arrive. The Reds come first, then the Cubs, Cardinals and Pirates.

Bruce Wins Verdict Over Joe Schlocker

ERIE, July 6. — (AP.) — Sammy Bruce, of Buffalo, was given a referee's decision here last night in a 10-round main bout with Joe Schlocker, of Philadelphia. It was a slow battle, with the judges disagreeing on the result.

Billy Jones, Philadelphia, won by a technical knockout over Benny Ross, Buffalo, in a slashing semi-final. Ross was down three times for counts of nine, and the fight was stopped in the ninth round.

their makeups. The Buccos' margin over the runnerup Cubs is so slim they do not wish to take chances.

Yesterday was an off date for the Pirates, and the period of relaxation found the home athletes in a thankful frame of mind. The Pittsburghers spent the holiday in various ways. The Reds also enjoyed themselves in Pittsburgh, as did the majority of Joe McCarthy's Cubs, who had a layover in the city, en route to Boston.

Manager Bush's players are in good shape for the grind that impends. True, Pie Traynor is not in the best of physical condition, but Pie can be a notch or two out of whack and then spot some of his diamond brethren a few plays. Lloyd Waner's bad hand is improving, it being the idea to keep the little fellow in action.

The Pirates will start their second invasion of the East, Sunday, in Brooklyn. From Brooklyn they move to Philadelphia, then to Boston, the Giants to be met in New York after the Boston battles are concluded.

Spiked Leg Keeps Critz in Hospital

Condition of the limb made it impossible to determine the extent of Critz's injuries and it was feared an operation may be necessary. Critz was hurt both below and above the knee four days ago when Riggs Stephenson of the Chicago Cubs slid into him during a game.

confidence that the Bushmen will give a good account of themselves. Like the Athletics, they have yet to lose three games in succession, spelling uncommon consistency. Of their last 17 series they have been worsted in only one. Their road outlook is brighter than that of the Cubs with Hack Wilson out for some time as a result of his fistic exhibition in Chicago Thursday.

IT'S from bad to worse for the sliding Cardinals. Even the Phillies are trampling on them now. Yesterday's defeat was the tenth in succession for the Cards, skipping a tie game with the Cubs, and from being first-place occupants they have tumbled until they are now only a single victory above the .500 mark.

If there isn't a change for the better soon, Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey may be expected to take drastic measures, and insurance rates on Manager Billy Southworth's head will be prohibitively high. The plight of the club, by the way, isn't much of a boost for the St. Louis club's chain-store system. The Card bosses own half a dozen farms, yet they seem unable to get a bit of help from any of them.

Tommy Loughran

SCORNING the reputed deadly punch of James J. Braddock, Tommy Loughran believes there isn't the slightest danger that he will lose his light-heavyweight title to the Jerseyman when they meet on July 18. Loughran concedes that Braddock has a punch, but insists that his own advantage in experience will enable him to retain his title.

"Braddock has not had sufficient experience to defeat me," Tommy is quoted. "I am not saying this in boastfulness. I'm merely stating facts. It takes time and a lot of experience to acquire all the tricks of the trade, the polish and generalship that go with championship fighting. Braddock has not had time to acquire these qualities and I am confident that he cannot defeat me without them."

HELEN WILLS TO COMPLETE COURSE

WIMBLEDON, July 6.—Helen Wills, brilliant American tennis star who successfully defended her championship in the Wimbledon tennis tournament yesterday, is going back to college after her coming marriage.

She is going back to learn more about art because she doesn't like housework and she is afraid if she stays around the house all the time she is going to have to learn how to wield a frying pan.

And she prefers wielding brushes or a tennis racket.

For a few minutes, the "Queen of the Courts" took her mind off this mecca of the tennis world today and told International News Service of her plans for the future and the reasons behind them.

"I cannot cook a thing and I know absolutely nothing about housework," she said. "Neither do I intend to learn. There are so many things to do which are more enjoyable."

But Helen obviously was not referring to tennis, for she continued:

"I would far, far rather be a great artist than a great tennis player. I am going to keep on studying painting. I do a good deal of other work besides practicing tennis—landscapes and some portraits, although I have not done much in oils as yet.

"I have left the university once, but I did not finish my three years' course, and I should like to. So I think I will go back.

"I may be married before then, but that won't make any difference. It doesn't these days, does it? I intend to go on with everything just the same when I am married—my tennis and my painting, and I want to take up golf as well."

As usual, Helen was reticent to reveal the date of her marriage, but intimated it "might" take place this fall.

THOMAS DOWNS HOMEWOOD, 7-3

Homewood, first half champions in the Inter-County League and a team which has hardly lost enough ball games this season to make it worth while tabulating them, ran into a surprise last evening in the form of the J. L. Thomas City League nine. The City Loopers won by 7 to 3, Sammy Leon pitching a steady game and benig touched for only four safe hits. The score:

HOLLYWOOD TRAFFIC HALTS FOR EXTRA, BUT NOT FOR PROMINENT STAR

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, By Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 6.

A MOTOR infested thoroughfare separates either half of Fox' Hollywood studio. There's a pedestrian lane marked in white paint across the street and cars are supposed to stop when one is crossing in this safety zone. But it's a gamble if they will.

A woman, attired in ill fitting costume and wearing makeup, hesitated on the curb, desirous to cross the street but fearful to attempt it. Car after car whizzed past. An extra girl joined her on the curb. She wore abbreviated Follies costume, much lip rouge and ditto sunburned powder. Without hesitation, she started across the safety lane. Automobiles came to a grinding stop on either side. Appreciative eyes stared at the Follies beauty. The other girl, in ill fitting costume, followed the path finder closely. An assistant director met them at the gates on the other side.

"About time you got here," he grouched at the Follies beauty. Then, turning quickly, he addressed the other woman ingratiatingly: "Good afternoon, Miss Ulric."

Lionel Barrymore gets a great kick out of directing. He arrived on the set by the dawn's early light—hair slicked, tie at the correct angle. As the day progresses and the emoting gets more emoting, Barrymore's hair porcupines and his tie rides as it wills. At this penning, he is putting Jack Gilbert, Katherine Dale Owen, Hedda Hopper and others through their paces in "Olympia." Seems in the flick, Katherine has one of those warm sessions with Jack. This was completed. Thereupon Miss Owen, before rehearsing her next scene, asked Mr. Barrymore:

Lionel Barrymore

"What should my attitude be now?"

Lionel jerked his fingers through his hair and after due deliberation deducted: "Well, I would say your attitude should be relaxed. Decidedly relaxed!"

Says Chic Sales Is "Purty Funny"

VIRGINIA SALES' parents and an elderly couple from the small town whence Miss Sales hails, are visiting her in Hollywood. They accompanied her to a flick comedy starring her W. K. Brother, "Chic," who is known to his friends as Charlie. After the show, Chic asked them what they thought of the picture.

"Well, Charlie," drawled his elderly friend, "I thought it was purty good, but a coupla times there it was all I could do to keep from laughin'!"

SCREENALITIES: CARMELITA GERAGHTY chucking a buffet breakfast-tennis party 'tother morn at the Chateau Elysee. LILA LEE in a green sports ensemble. BENJAMIN GLAZER and KENNETH M'KENNA, VIRGINIA VALLI and CHARLIE FARRELL, MR. and MRS. JOHN ROBERTSON, IRENE MYER and DAVID SELZNICK, JAMES CREELMAN, LILI DAMITI and slews of others. When MAURICE CHEVALIER and his wife first came to the colony, Mrs. Chevalier spoke little or no English. A witty soul confided the thing to do when she visited people was to admire their home thusly: "It is lousy." She did, with beaming emphasis—until a pal really told her what she was saying! GEORGE BANCROFT preparing to work in an outloud, yclept "The Mighty," with ESTHER RALSTON and DOROTHY REVIER the fems in the reel. Um, George continues he-man with a vengeance.

One Fatal Crash In Air Picture

ACCORDING to a statement from the Caddo office, numerous stories have reached the public prints erroneously crediting many airplane accidents and deaths in Southern California to the filming of "Hell's Angels," the $2,000,000 sky celluloider. It is only fair, under the circumstances, to allow Caddo an opportunity to speak.

This company declares that "during the 18 months filming of air scenes" for the picture, there was only one fatal accident. This was the German bomber crash in which Mechanic Phil Jones was killed after Pilot Al Wilson escaped from the falling ship in his parachute. Al Johnson and Phil Phillips, fliers in the picture, were fatally hurt in a previous crash, which occurred while the pilots were transporting planes from one city to another.

The ever increasing "stunt" air mortality list is a distressing business. Fatalists on the outside looking in may accept it with an inexpensive sigh, but the victims left behind aren't quite so lucky.

WARREN YEAST PLANT SOLD

YOUNGSTOWN, July 6.—The Recovery Realty Company, this city, has purchased from the Fleischmann Company, Cincinnati, a plant west of Warren, built by the Ward Baking Company, to manufacture yeast and vitamins. The Recovery Company is headed by L. A. Beeghley, president of the Standard Slag Company.

The plant represents an original investment of close to $1,000,000, and has been idle for several years. It was never used by the Ward Company, and was sold shortly after it was built to the Fleischmann interests.

Davistown, Scene Of Storm, Rebuilt

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 6.—Flattened by the tornado of May 2, a new village is rising out of the ruins of Davistown, eight miles east of here. Damage estimated at close to $500,000 was done when 20 homes and a general store were scattered.

The store of I. L. Sparks & Son, which firm bore the brunt of the loss, has been rebuilt and opened yesterday. Nearly every house has been replaced.

Fake Physicians Won't Do Since Talk Advent

Actors could play doctors in silent pictures, but in the talkies, where the character medical men are required to speak lines, it takes genuine medicos to provide the proper realism, film directors are discovering.

For hospital sequences in "Lummox," Herbert Brenon's all-dialogue production based on Fannie Hurst's novel, the director tested a number of experienced actors for a physician's role. They looked like doctors, but they didn't talk like doctors, Brenon decided, so he finally drafted a bona fide member of the profession for the part.

Dr. Geoffrey Grace, head of the United Artists studios' emergency hospital, was persuaded to play a doctor and train a corps of nurses for scenes in "Lummox." Afterwards it deveoped that Dr. Gracel was an actor in his youth and had worked in other talking pictures, including George Fitzmaurice's "The Locked Door" for United Artists, during his association with the studios.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 6.

We really ought to have celebrated the fifth to celebrate the small amount of people that lost their lives on the fourth. They must be getting harmless powder.

An American ambassador to England has only really two duties. One is to introduce daughters of prominent Republican leaders to King George, and the other one is to make a speech on the Fourth of July, that will make England think we are not celebrating us licking them on that date.

Charley Dawes did mighty fine his speech really made it look like England had won.

Yours, WILL.

Mrs. Papriska and her husband, Michael Papriska, for themselves and on behalf of their four children, Anna, 14, Paul, 11, Mary, 9 and Helen, 6, asked damages aggregating $250,000 for personal injuries in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court against the Columbia Natural Gas Company.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 6.—The Harrison county court today has under consideration a recommendation by Sheriff Wilford B. Grimm that all field deputies be garbed in distinctive police uniforms, and steps are being taken to make the change in other counties.

Norma Talmadge Admits Fear Of "Mike"

Norma Talmadge, the star of "Tin Pan Alley," being filmed at the United Artists studios, admits that the first time she spoke into the microphone she was frightened. Now, after several weeks of steady production, she minds it no more tnan the rugs and chairs in her sets.

"There is something about the instrument," she explained, "that inspires you with fear. I've often heard people speak of radio paralysis when they appeared for the first time in front of the microphone.

"I always smiled, because I could not conceive it possible. I know better now. My first speech in Tin Pan Alley was an easily remembered one, but the moment I became conscious that it was being recorded I forget the tines. Time, of course, remedies everthing, and I recovered."

"Tin Pan Alley" marks Miss Talmadge's debut in talking pictures. Playing opposite her is Gilbert Roland. Others in the cast are John Wray, Lilyan Tashman, Roscoe Karns and Mary Doran.

NEW YORK, July 6.

Lines to an Oilcan

YOU say "forget" who once begged love, remember?
You have been false, who vowed eternal truth.
Of all our burning love not one small ember

You say "forget" . . . I shall forget, and often,
Each time a new seductive mouth I press;
When gazing on me, blue or brown eyes soften—
I shall forget your fleeting tenderness.

You say "forget"—when brawny laddies beckon,
When other fingers play across my brow;
Each time a new love spreads its nets, I reckon
That I'll forget you honey boy—And How!
—Florence Hunt Rogone.

Gag

JUST before the second act was revealed at the Earl Carroll Theater the other evening, Al Jolson unfolded this one to a group of first-nighters. Jolson told of the time when Paul Revere was making his famous ride and how Paul warned a Jewish lady that the Redcoats were coming.

"So ull right," was her nonchalant retort. "Come in de house and have a cop of tea.

"Dun't worry," she replied. "I'll make murr tea!"

Simile

Frank Neville's: As useless as a deaf and dumb "yes" man with a stiff neck in Hollywood.

The Retort Proper

Mayor James J. Walker, who "knows all the answers" anyway, was being discussed again. They told of the time he made his tour of the old country and how in England the London reporters asked him: "Why is it, sir, that you are so careless about being prompt. Why aren't you prompt like our own Lord Mayor?"

"What else," replied Walker, "has he got to do but be prompt?"

Kidding A Kidder

Broadway Philosophy

As N. N. Dorfman would have you believe it: The most courteous box-office treasurers are those with flops in their theaters . . . You can tell the real Broadwayite by the fact that he would rather be known as a wit than a good father to his children . . . A good, clean love story always makes a fine Broadway drama providing the lines are saucy enough, and a chorus girl is a modern Eve who can't figure out why censors are narrowminded.

Quit, Now!

"Dear Soandso," writes a person known as Fred Allen, "the wife of a Master of Ceremonies in Glasgo, is suing for divorce. She argues that her husband is too mean to buy her a ticket to his theater and that she is sick and tired of sitting with the orchestra and holding a trombone just to see the presentations."

Observation

PERHAPS no other theatrical impresario is abused so much as Florenz Ziegfeld, of whom you probably have heard. At any rate, the records show that Ziegfeld has taken more below-the-belt wallops than any other producer and usually rewarded his antagonists with a bonus for annoying him. Take the time when Eddie Cantor and Ziggie tiffed over a "breach of contract." The producer went to Equity about it for a while, but the following season he hired Cantor at a higher wage.

Then Ethel Shutta and George Olsen decided to get married one night just before the premiere curtain lifted, leaving the cast flat, and again, when "Whoopee" was in dress rehearsal, Miss Shutta complained hotly about something and bawled Ziegfeld out before the company. Did Ziegfeld fire her? He raised her salary $100.

The most recent agony was when Ruby Keeler left Ziegfeld flat in Pittsburgh to join Al Jolson in Hollywood, and what happened? Ziegfeld now stars her in "Show Girl."

Haw!

Then Portland Hoffa of "The Little Show" offers this as the saddest story she ever heard. It concerns the floorwalker who lost his job in one of the Woolworth stores. It appears that his work was satisfactory, his appearance was excellent and he had charm, so Miss Hoffa asked the manager why the floorwalker was discharged. "He certainly seems to be an asset to your firm," said Portland.

"Yes," replied the manager, "I hated to lose him, but what could I do? He had so much acid in his blood that when he passed the jewelry counter everything turned black!"

Have a Flip Quip

"DEAR UU. UU.: The playgoer's motto in New York appears to be: 'Run, do not walk, and choosee your nearest sexhit.' But what I started out to tell you about was the collegiate who wouldn't even get a hat for his cornet!—Izzy Elinson."

How Embarrassing

One of the evening drama defenders attending the opening of "Bomboola" at the Royale last Wednesday night spent a large portion of the second act on the sidewalk in front of the theater instead of in his seat, with the result that two numbers programed but not presented during the performance were panned as no good. The show probably will get back its production costs in a damage suit. One of the morning drama defenders pulled the same stunt a year ago, rapping the amateur Gilbert and Sullivan troupe from Baltimore for omitting a number from the score. As a matter of fact, the number was sung, the reviewer being on the sidewalk at the time.

Sotto Voce

W. W. Winans: Very interesting.
Geoffrey Lampert (Jasper, Ind.): Try the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph or Louisville Herald-Post.
Anna Carter: It doesn't rhyme.

Always Belittlin'

ONE of the better exchanges of repartee ever eavesdropped along Broadway concerued Arthur Caesar, now a Hollywood favorite, and Arthur Kober, a Main Stem ditto. The duel of wit took place some time ago in a rendezvous for fast-thinkers.

Caesar decided to annoy Kober, who is an expert press agent.

"What are you, anyway?" opened up Caesar, "A mere press agent! Somebody lays an egg and you cackle!"

The brighter remark came the next day, however, when a paragrapher recorded the word tiff. A clown said to him: "I see you came not to praise Caesar, but to berry him."

Armies Recruited For Screen Comedy

Miniature British and German armies, each composed of 500 men, were "recruited" in Hollywood for the war scenes in "Three Live Ghosts," comedy-drama success of the New York and London stage, which is being filmed as an all-talking picture at United Artists studios.

Recruiting the German "army" was different in the days of the silent pictures. Five hundred men in German uniforms wouldn't do. "Three Live Ghosts," being an all-talking picture, the German "army" must speak German. Engaging recruits for the British "army" was comparatively easy.

Thornton Freeland, director of "Three Live Ghosts," commissioned his two assistants, Roger Heman and Sidney Levee, to recruit the army and prepare the battle scenes. Trenches had to be dug, barbed wire entanglements set up, and explosives planted.

Notables among the two armies recruited by Heman and Levee incuded a former general, three colonels, eleven majors, three captains and one lieutenant of the German army; and a colonel, a lieutenant colonel, five majors, fourteen captains, eight lieutenants and three sub-lieutenants, who had seen service with the British forces in the World War.

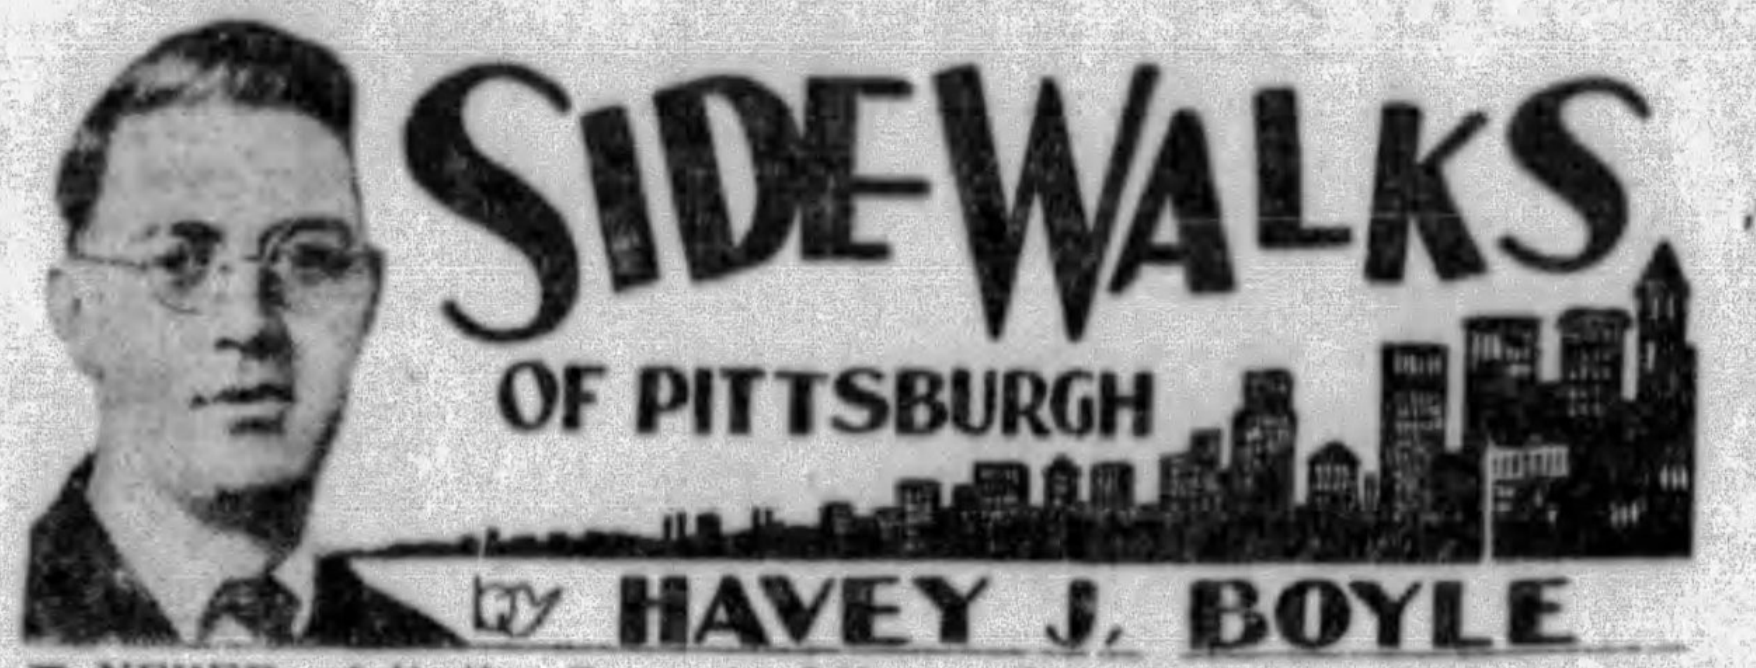
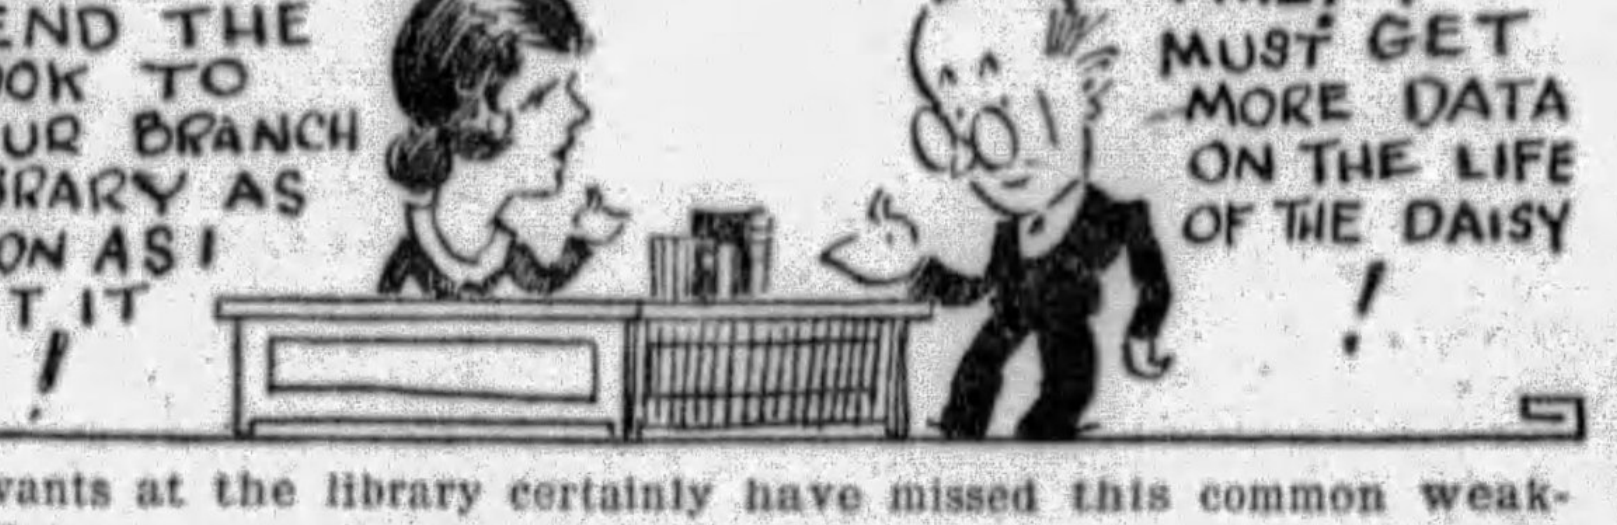
SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



by HAVEY J. BOYLE

I NEVER visit the Carnegie Library but that I marvel at the courtesy and attention of the women who handle the books. On the facade of the building are the potent words: "Free to the people" and it is refreshing to note there are no stringe attached to that splendid sentence.

It is a failing of many men and women who must deal with the public to blame the public generally because one or two freakish customers happen to act rudely or stupidly, but the public servants at the library certainly have missed this common weakness.



I WILL SEND THE BOOK TO YOUR BRANCH LIBRARY AS SOON AS I GET IT !
FINE! I MUST GET MORE DATA ON THE LIFE OF THE DAISY !

It may come from the fact that there is a strong bond between persons who like to read or it may be that the librarians are especially trained in understanding the whims of the public, not always easy to understand.

That more persons do not avail themselves of one of the city's richest prizes is no fault of the women in charge of the Oakland institution who certainly strive, with the aid of their books, to increase human happiness enlightenment and understanding.

The library is well patronized by the students of Pitt and Tech, but there are not quite enough men and boys of the mills, who, were they to learn the amusement and entertainment to be derived at no cost at the library, would make Andrew Carnegie's dream, when he donated the library, come closer to a reality.

This is virtually the only preacher-strain in this column—the desire to tell all and sundry the fun in such pastime as reading.

In Oakland, we have one of the best collections in the country, and while it is far from being neglected, there are too few millmen, the backbone of the town, making regular visits.

The structural iron workers employed at a dizzy height on the steel skeleton of the Pitt Cathedral of Learning never fail to hesitate in their work to observe an airplane overhead. What puzzles the structural iron workers is why anyone would be crazy enough to trust himself to an airplane.

OF THE daredevils in sports and industry, automobile racers seem to come out on the short end. The purses are not unusual, relatively, and the hazard is great. The toll among them is heavy, but Western Pennsylvania, which stages several during the summer months never looks for entries among the speed boys.

Across from the Pennsylvania Railroad Station in Penn avenue there are a number of ruins of buildings razed by the company for improvements. A small fire broke out in the ruins the other day and the firemen, with the usual clang and clatter, approached the scene. A hose was played on a smouldering pile of debris and in about a moment a tramp emerged from somewhere, soaking wet, and with a look of mingled curiosity and mild indignation. The firemen jokingly apologized for disturbing the tramp's slumber.

JUDGING from activity in the Penn avenue section that Pennsylvania improvement is soon to come, although for as long as I can remember two things have been on tap for Pittsburgh: A new Pennsylvania station and a new postoffice. As to the latter, everyone still has his fingers crossed.

Brookline's Prize Winning Singer on Air Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

TWO brilliant speakers . . . the return of Virginia Kendrick, prize winning Brookline singer to local broadcasting. . . . Jesse Crawford on the air with a mighty organ . . . patriotic band music for Commander Byrd and his expedition . . . a drama full of pathos . . . fun . . . humor . . . tears . . . all the human emotions may be stirred tonight by offerings from local stations.

For the first time since she won the Federation of Music Clubs' high honor at Boston, Virginia Kendrick, Brookline contralto, will sing over a Pittsburgh microphone tonight at 6:01 during the KDKA Pipes O' Pan. Listeners look forward to hearing the voice that won a unanimous decision of prominent judges at Boston and of getting a radio impression of the 22-year-old girl who turned down an opera contract and European tour under Z. Rosing for her radio work in Pittsburgh.

"Safety and the Worker" is the subject of a talk by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis at 7:15 o'clock over WCAE. Ogden Mills, under secretary of the Treasury, will discuss "The New Small Size Currency" over WJAS at 10 p. m.

Nathaniel Shilkret's Orchestra will be heard on the General Electric Hour, WCAE at 9, in place of the usual Damrosch Symphony.

"Barbara Fritchie," the play that gave Julia Marlowe an opportunity to become one of America's great actresses, will be presented through KDKA at 10.

Jesse Crawford, organist, will be heard from WCAE at 11 and five minutes later KDKA will go on the air with a special patriotic program by the Westinghouse Band for Commander Byrd and his expedition.

FIRM TREND IN BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Commercial transactions during the last week of June, as reflected by check payments, declined from the preceding week but were larger than in the corresponding week of 1928, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce. Activity in steel plants, while lower than during the previous week, showed a considerably higher rate of operation than for the same week of last year. The output of bituminous coal likewise declined from the preceding week but was greater than a year ago. The production of crude petroleum for the latest reported week showed gains over both prior periods.

The general level of wholesale prices showed a further fractional gain over the preceding week and was slightly lower than a year ago. Iron and steel prices continued to decline, although exceeding last year's level. Bond prices, reflecting the higher rates of interest, declined from the average of the previous week and continued below last year's level. Business failures were slightly less than in the previous week and only a fraction above the total for the corresponding week of 1928.

Receipts of cotton were slightly larger than during either the previous week or the corresponding period of last year. Receipts of cattle likewise showed a gain over both prior periods. Hog receipts, on the other hand, were smaller than for either the previous week or the corresponding period of last year. Wheat receipts showed a substantial gain from both prior periods.

Higher Earnings Seen for Gobel

NEW YORK, July 6.—Net income of Adolf Gobel, Inc. for the current year will reach approximately $4 a share on 404,357 common capital shares outstanding, in the opinion of those in close touch with company affairs.

Based on reported gross sales of consolidated companies for first quarter of $12,343,000, with sales estimated to run at that level, and probably higher for the second and third quarters, and allowing the usual percentage of profit, the year's net should be about $1,650,000. In 1928 net income was $244,506.

U. S. Shipowners Gain in Tonnage

WASHINGTON, July 6. — Private American shipowners for the first time in 10 years were placed definitely in the majority in the foreign trade of the United States during the second quarter of this year, the department of commerce announced. The privately owned fleet now in overseas foreign trade is close to 1,900,000 tons against 600,000 tons in 1923.

During the same period the government began with a tonnage of about 1,400,000.

Bankers Prepare To Make Whoopee

Pittsburgh's investment bankers will discard their accustomed dignity at the annual outing of the Bond Club at the Pittsburgh Field Club on Monday, July 15. A very complete program of events has been prepared by the outing committee and it is planned to have something of interest every minute of the day from 10 a. m. to midnight.

The golf committee has arranged an interesting series of matches for which prizes will be given. The swimming pool will be available to members of the Bond Club all day and there will be other sports and features for the benefit of those who do not play golf.

No one ever heard of a man in the bond business driving a lowly Ford, but at least three holders of lucky numbers will take away samples of the choice vintage of Henry's coupes.

A special edition of the "Gall Street Journal," containing the latest news of the outing and comments upon the happenings in the Bond Club during the past year, will be distributed at the dinner.

Luncheon will be at 1 p. m. and dinner at 7 p. m. The party will end at midnight.

SCHOOL THRIFT PROGRESSES

WASHINGTON, July 6.—During the school year which recently came to a close, great progress was made in the development of thrift education. The past school year marked the real beginning of thrift as a part of the school curriculum. This is not to minimize the value of previous efforts. The school savings bank has been a recognized part of school work in many systems for a number of years. Here and there, also, efforts have been made a give thrift a place among the common branches of study.

Something over a year ago, however, a definite course of thrift study was completed through the co-operation of the American Society for Thrift. Arthur H. Chamberlain, educational director of that organization, now reports that during the first year of the introduction of the thrift course of study it found its place in school systems in 18 states and the territory of Hawaii. Of these states, three are in the East; eight in the Central section; three in the South; two in the West and two on the Pacific Coast. There were 37 cities in these states where the course of study was prominently used, Chamberlain reports, in addition to which there were numerous counties in which it was adopted.

To those who are not familiar with these activities, a word of explanation will prove of interest. The first steps toward the introduction of thrift into the American school system were taken at the meeting of the National Education Association in Oakland, Cal., in 1915. Committees of educators were then appointed to canvass the whole situation and a number of years were required for research. Still further time was needed by the educational committees to translate their data into definite classroom lessons. The task was brought to a close early last year. Since then two editions of the Outline Study Course in Thrift have been published; the third is now in preparation.

COPPER PRICES HOLD FIRM

NEW YORK, July 6.—Trading in non-ferrous metals was below the average in volume in the past week. Prices for the major items, however, held an even course, with copper, zinc and tin firm, Engineering and Mining Journal reports. Lead was unsettled on a recession in London quotations. Actual consumption of metals continues on a high plane and important buying is expected to develop soon.

Domestic sales of copper went through on the unchanged basis of 18 cents a pound, delivered Connecticut Valley, with custom smelters taking most of the business. Demand for copper from aboard is at about the same rate as that for June, or slighty less than 1,000 long tons a day. Copper Exporters, Inc., quote 18.30 cents, c.i.f. usual European ports.

Zinc is firm at 6.70 to 6.80 cents, East St. Louis. It develops that a fair demand set in just before the close of June.

Sales of lead during the week were well distributed among the various groups of consumers, with cable manufacturers and users of corroding lead placing the bulk of the business. Prices underwent no change, although the tone was somewhat easier in sympathy with London.

Speculative buying in London featured business in tin. In New York the price advanced to 45 1-8 cents. The calling of another meeting of world's leading tin producers, which, according to reports, is to be held in London Juy 11, had a bullish influence on the market.

L. P. Fisher to Join Warner Aircraft

DETROIT, July 6.—Announcement of appointment of Lawrence P. Fisher, president of Cadillac division, General Motors Corporation, to the board of directors of Warner Aircraft Corporation, is expected to be made in a few days. Other members of Warner's board include Charles Bohn, president Bohn Aluminum Corporation, and W. B. Stout, head of airplane division, Ford Motor Company.

Trade Order Against Johnson, Johnson

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Johnson & Johnson, manufacturers of medicinal and surgical supplies, of New Brunswick, N. J., have been ordered by the Federal Trade Commission to discontinue maintenance of the re-sale prices of one of their products, Johnson's toilet and baby powder.

EXPECT STEEL TO RECOVER IN SOUTH

Sloss Sheffield Optimistic About Southern Market; Prices Must Take Jump

NEW YORK, July 6.—Although the pig iron situation in the South where Sloss Sheffield Steel and Iron Company's activities are centered, continued unfavorable and prices showed a further declining tendency, it is understood that the company during the first six months of this year experienced earnings substantially in excess of preferred dividend requirements for the period, and no doubt is entertained by interests close to the company as to continuance of preferred distributions, even if any decided improvement in pig iron prices fails to materialize in near future.

The fact that common dividend requirements were not fully earned in the first quarter and pig iron prices were low, with the general pig iron situation unsatisfactory, is believed to have prompted directors of Sloss Sheffield in May to omit payment on the common stock, usually declared at that time for distribution in June.

Aside from being the largest producer of merchant pig iron, from which it derives the major portion of its earning power, Sloss Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. is the lowest-cost producer. Improvements to plants and other economies have steadily reduced production costs in recent years. These reductions are said to have amounted to as much as 25 per cent in the last five years.

LOW PRICE LEVELS

Although business done by the company in the first half was on a fairly large scale, prices for pig iron in the Birmingham district declined to lower levels than those prevailing in 1928—when the average composite price of basic and foundry pig iron throughout the country at large reached the lowest figures that have obtained since 1915. Some improvement in quotations has occurred in certain other sections of the country during recent months, but the price of No. 2 foundry pig iron at Birmingham showed no betterment and is currently quoted around $15 per ton, compared with an average for 1928 of around $16.

The company does not make public its earnings results at quarterly or semi-annual periods, but confines reports to annual publication. Lower production costs, brought about through economies and betterments in plants, enabled the company to offset low prices in the year 1928, and earnings in excess of the $6 annual dividend requirements on the common were shown. Net income for 1928 was equivalent to $6.11 a share on the 100,000 shares of $100 par value common stock, after deducting preferred dividends. In 1927 net profits were equivalent to $6.82 a share on the common; in 1926 to $16.38; in 1925 to $15.10, and in 1924, to $10.47. Sloss Sheffield has never shown a deficit from operation in any annual period in its 28 years of existence.

The company's entire funded debt, amounting to $5,380,000 on December 31, 1928, will be retired at maturity on August 1 next. While it is understood the directorate has made plans for this step, the manner in which it will be accomplished is not forthcoming at this time. The funded debt consists of $3,277,000 of 6 per cent gold notes dated August 1, 1919, and $2,103,000 purchase-money lien 6 per cent notes dated August 1, 1924.

Sloss Sheffield's balance sheet as of December 31, 1928, displayed current assets of $3,963,411, against which there were current liabilities of $2,003,718, leaving net working capital of $1,959,633. Cash amounted to $684,447, securities owned, $504,557. Profit and loss surplus was $9,116,957.

TEXAS COMPANY IN GAS DEAL

NEW YORK, July 6.—The Texas Company and other large petroleum producers and distributors have formed a combination in the state of Texas to pool their natural gas resources.

Other companies in the combination besides the Texas Company are the Phillips Petroleum Company, Skelly Oil Company and the Columbian Carbon Company. The name of the new company will be the Central States Natural Gas Company.

The corporation will acquire natural gas rights and natural gas wells on 132,000 acres of land in the Texas Panhandle from the Texas, Phillips, Skelly and Columbian Carbon companies. It has been learned officially that the same interests involved plan the construction of a natural gas pipe line from the Texas Panhandle to points in Nebraska, Iowa and other areas.

Associated Leases Power to D. L. & W.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP.)—The Associated Gas and Electric System has entered into a long term contract to supply the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad with power for sections of the road which are to be electrified. It was estimated that between 6,000,000 and 10,000,000 kilowatt hours annually will be delivered by the Associated system to the railroad substations to be erected at Denville and Bernardsville, N. J., to meet initial requirements. An extension of the Lackawanna's electrification through to Port Morris later will increase the kilowatt consumption.

BUGS BAER Says

TROUSERS MAKE THE MAN

Bugs Baer

AMBASSADOR CHARLEY DAWES' stalwart refusal to wear short pants has been received with scientific silence in interscholastic circles.

Dawes is the hero of a thousand vetoes. He has led his shock troops over the trackless wastes of the speaker's platform in the Senate.

He belonged to the indomitable minority which refused to take yes for an answer. They have thwarted him, they have curtailed his authority. They have shortened his speeches and abbreviated his power.

But they have never bobbed his trousers.

We have seen many ambassadorial knees twinkling in the diplomatic sunlight. Some of these knees looked like grapefruit, some looked like the gear clutch of a flivver.

Most of them were baggy and none of them were beautiful.

Dawes is right in his refusal to wear silkies. It is too late in life for a veteran like Dawes to compete with Ann Pennington.

The one article of sartorial diet which Charley refuses to indorse is not the short pants. It's the silk stockings.

Our ambassador to England represents over a hundred million people of America.

Even if he has bow legs he still represents some of them.

If Charley were smart he would wear firemen's boots while in England.

Nobody knows when a fireman's sox are down.

If we had an ambassador to Scotland, we guess he would have to wear kilts. They would look beautiful on Bill Taft.

After a lifetime of sensible clothing, Charley would never become accustomed to short trousers.

We have been wearing long trousers in this country for over 100 years now. Sometimes, they have been threadbare, sometimes there have been patches on the seat.

But now, we are accustomed to wearing them long. And we agree with Dawes. When he goes forth to Europe he goes as an American diplomat and not as an American marble champion.

Clothes make the man. And this proverb includes the trousers.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT

Department Store Buying Indicates Our Prosperity

Pittsburgh's prosperity is sufficiently indicated in the Federal Reserve Bank report showing that our department stores in May did business representing an increase of 4.4 per cent more than in May of a year ago. By comparison with other cities the ability of our people to buy is shown strikingly, the increase in Cleveland for the month having been only 1.8 per cent, while Chicago showed a decrease of 2.5 per cent and Philadelphia a loss of 5.4 per cent of the business done in May, 1928.

Pittsburgh is going right along, the steel business holding up excellently, operations being near capacity and orders also maintaining a level that is expected to keep mills at their present rate of production at least through July and August. Improvement projects are keeping many persons employed. All of this is reflected in mercantile activity, of course. When the stores are busy it is the best indication in the world that their patrons also are.

There is plenty of reason for being a Pittsburgh booster.

Washington's European Warning Still Timely

Full of light and meaning to the American people and no less full of timely warning to their government should be the flareups in both France and Germany that have followed the war debts settlement.

In France Uncle Sam today is denounced as "Uncle Shylock" and in Germany widespread interest is shown in the report of a European scheme "to form a league of debtor nations against the United States." Age long enmities seem for the moment to be buried under an avalanche of bitterness against men and things American.

European history is only repeating itself and Washington's warning against the Europe of his day is as timely now as the day it was given.

"Europe has a set of primary interests," says Washington in the farewell address, "which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves, by artificial ties, in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics, or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities.

"Our detached and distant situation invites and enables us to pursue a different course.

"Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalship, humor or caprice?"

By following the same counsels the United States will keep out of the League of Nations World Court and refuse to underwrite any European settlements of war debts among themselves.

And by keeping up the national defense on land and sea and in the air the United States will be in a position to deal effectively with any league of debtor nations that may be formed against this country.

For those Americans who may have forgotten the warning of the farewell address the more recent warnings from Paris and Berlin should serve as a stern reminder that Europe is still Europe and the warnings of the father of his country still stand.

Learning Self-Reliance

It Must Begin Young.

A New York father sent two daughters to travel, alone, in Europe. He said he wanted them to learn to be "self-reliant, courageous and fearless."

One of the daughters was killed in an automobile accident in Austria.

Previously this daughter, driving an automobile near Ravenna, in Italy, struck and killed an Italian, 70 years old, riding a bicycle.

Investigation showed that the daughter was not all to blame, the man killed having ridden his bicycle from behind a wagon against the car

The sad tragedy emphasizes the fact that education in self-reliance must begin very young; five years is a good age to start, 10 years is too late.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I KNEW a woman who moved from Fifty-seventh street, New York, to One Hundred and Sixty-fifth street, and "nearly died from homesickness."

Instead of greeting such a chicken-livered exhibition with the snickers and snoots it deserved, her friends promptly rallied round and said how terrible it must be for poor dear Mae to leave the street where she'd been born and "go way off where she didn't know a soul."

I know another woman who has wrecked the lives of two daughters and a son by insisting that they stay in the Dear Old Home with Momma and Poppa. In their early 20's these young people were all anxious to branch out for themselves, but every time they suggested going Momma threw a fit and made them feel that they were making the mistake of their lives if they left the maternal roof. Their natural timidity, coupled with her yelps, did the trick. The three of them are now well in their 30's and have about as much initiative left as a bunch of old tooth brushes.

Is this mother criticized because of her selfishness? I should say not! She is both envied and praised for her feat in "keeping the family together."

"HOME, SWEET HOME"—WHAT ATROCITIES HAVE BEEN COMMITTED IN THY NAME!

If there's any institution that needs a lot of debunking it's Home Sweet Home.

Some homes ARE sweet. Some homes ARE centers of healthy, happy life. But countless homes are breeders of laziness and cowardice, smugness and intolerance. Their very comfort and protection is a menace to the young life within them, once childhood is passed.

HOME MAY BE A HEAVENLY HAVEN WHILE YOU'RE A YOUNGSTER, BUT, SAVE FOR OCCASIONAL VISITS, ALMOST ANY OTHER PLACE IS BETTER FOR YOU AFTER YOU'RE 20.

The distress and indignation which parents feel at the thought of their children leaving home isn't love—although they honestly think it is. It is selfishness—one of the veil products of an artificial way of living. A sparrow has a healthier attitude toward its young than such parents—it boosts them out of the nest when the time has come to fly.

As for homesickness, instead of scorning it as we would any other form of cowardice, we have made a virtue of it. Fine natures are expected to be homesick as they are expected to be patriotic or honest or pure. Homesick humans always get a sympathetic hand from bystanders. They shouldn't. An indulgence in homesickness, save to a moderate degree, is as silly and selfish as an indulgence in any other childish hangover.

A WOMAN WHO CAN'T MOVE FROM FIFTY-SEVENTH TO ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FIFTH STREET WITHOUT "DYING FROM HOMESICKNESS" ISN'T A SUFFERING SOUL—SHE'S A GREAT BIG CRY BABY. . . AND A HOME THAT CRAMPS HUMAN DEVELOPMENT ISN'T SWEET, IT'S SEPTIC.

Bible Passages

Jesus Heals

(St. Mark 1: 29-42)

AND forthwith when they were come out of the synagogue, they entered into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John.

But Simon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever, and anon they tell him of her.

And at even, when the sun did set, they brought unto him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with devils.

And he healed many that were sick of divers diseases, and cast out many devils; and suffered not the devils to speak, because they knew him.

And in the morning, rising up a great while before day, he went out, and departed into a solitary place, and there prayed.

And Simon and they that were with him followed after him.

And when they had found him, they said unto him, All men seek for thee.

And he said unto them, Let us go into the next towns, that I may preach there also: for therefore came I forth.

And he preached in their synagogues throughout all Galilee, and cast out devils.

And there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeling down to him, and saying unto him, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

And Jesus, moved with compassion, put forth his hand, and touched him, and saith unto him, I will; be thou clean.

And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleansed.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a young Scotchman that went out into the world to make his fortune. His dad told him that he might get some of the family dough when it came time if he showed plenty signs of thrift. So when the boy came back after two years he had a terrible long whisker.

His dad says to him, "Donald, lad, why do ye let the whiskers grow so long?"

"Well father," says Donald, "ye give me your blessing and good advice, and they lasted fine. I came home with money in the bank. But that blade ye gave me in the safety razor had been sore used before I got it, and it wore out a year ago."

Isn't It So?

THE PINCH HITTER

By Herbert Kaufman

HE'S tall and gangly and rawboned, with the little puckers about his eyes that men ALWAYS gather from years of squinting at the sun.

Range-riding left that memento and it gave his skin the indelible bronze that ALSO marks the prairie man.

Ill health snatched him from horseback and drove him to town, to begin his business career with a sheaf of overdue accounts and herd balance-sheet strays to the cashier's window.

And since then, he has steadily collected responsibilities and honors, until his office wall in the Harvester Building is covered with sealed and beribboned parchments, attesting Alex Legge's unique talent for hard-nut cracking; a habit acquired in the stress of reaper competition, and fortified by subsequent experience in the service of his company and country.

No corporation executive has spent less time in the swivel chair or more hours on trains and ocean liners.

HE knows Europe's grain fields, their productive capacity and transportation facilities as well as his own personally conducted farms.

And there isn't a wheat, corn or cotton area in the United States or Canada whose soil peculiarities, traffic resources, yield or climatic problems are beyond his instant memory reach.

Call any district on the continent and he'll name its best farmers, describe their properties and analyze their respective failures and success.

There hasn't been a drought in the past 25 years which didn't find him scooting to the spot, prepared to inaugurate relief measures and lend a shoulder to local finance.

He has waged relentless war on rural usury—against agricultural inefficiency—and fought the EXPLOITATION of the farmer by exorhitant implement dealers, just as bitterly as he battled WASTE and PROFITEERING when vice chairman of the Federal War Board.

THE Expeditionary Forces may largely thank him for the high quality and continuous supply of munitions and military equipment.

The spotlights of Washington blazed oftener on Barney Baruch and Charlie Schwab, but the steel mills and forging plants will tell you who was the REAL factor behind the guns and scenes of that memorable struggle with tardy clocks and bewildered systems.

He saws more wood and says less about it than any notable captain of industry or emergency.

He plays all the instruments of efficiency with equal technique and performs without notes, graphs or charts.

HE relinquishes one of the most remunerative jobs on earth to serve a pressing national necessity at $12,000 a year.

And not a penny of the half billion which Congress has appropriated to improve agricultural method and marketing will be cheated of its deserts while he controls the "hows" and "wheres" of disbursement.

Mr. Hoover again disappoints the Little Jack Horners of his party.

"There ain't going to be no plums" for special interests or anybody else, except the designated beneficiaries of this particular pie, so long as Alexander Legge regulates the apportionment.

That's what comes of sending an ENGINEER and SQUARE-DEALER to the White House.

"Minds of a feather WILL flock together." And here's ANOTHER presidential appointment to prove it.

NEWTONIAN GRAVITATION

By Archibald Henderson

THE beginning of an understanding of the general relativity theory may be found in a comparison of the law of universal gravitation, according to Newton and according to Einstein. Such comparison illustrates the striking and fundamental differences between the Newtonian and the Einsteinian mechanics. One of the greatest of all scientific discoveries was that of the law of gravitation; and in Westminster Abbey, where Newton lies buried, his monument bears a notable eulogy to him "who by a vigor of mind almost divine, the motions and figures of planets, the paths of comets, and the tides of the seas, first demonstrated."

Yet is should be made clear that Newton was unable to explain gravitation, although he formulated the remarkably simple law of its operation. In a letter to Bentley, Newton says: "Gravity must be caused by some agent acting constantly according to certain laws; but whether this agent is material or immaterial I have left to the consideration of my readers." The natural philosopher of today—Einstein, De Sitter or Eddington—is as little able to explain that "agent acting constantly according to certain laws" as was Newton. Gravitation is the unexplained mystery of the ages, the baffling riddle of the universe.

One always speaks with bated breath and extravagant admiration of Newton. It is generally conceded that one of the greatest achievements in all science was the formulation of the law of universal gravitation. In virtually all cases it gives satisfactory results. Why, then, may we ask, is Newton's law not established for all time?

We know that the mathematics employed cannot be shaken. The astronomical observations are fully established within the inevitable limits of error. If the planets are driven by forces, then Newton's explanation is satisfactory. But we do not know that the planets are driven by forces. Some other explanation is possible, as Einstein has seen; and perhaps others will see after him. Perhaps there is no such thing as "force," in the Newtonian; and perhaps time and space, instead of being absolute and independent, are inextricably united.

We must remember, always, that we derive our conception of attractive force from muscular sensations. Such a conception clearly loses its clear meaning when applied to dead matter. The flaw in Newton's assumption of attractive forces is happily revealed by the famous physicist, Neumann:

"Let us suppose an explorer to narrate to us his experience in yonder mysterious ocean. He had succeeded in gaining access to it, and a remarkable sight had greeted his eyes. In the middle of the sea he had observed two floating icebergs, a larger and a smaller one, at a considerable distance from one another. Out of the interior of the larger one, a voice had resounded, issuing the following command in a peremptory tone: "Ten feet nearer" The little iceberg had immediately carried out the order, approaching 10 feet nearer the larger one. Again, the larger gave out the order: "Six feet nearer!" The other had again immediately executed it. And in this manner order after order had echoed out; and the little iceberg had continually been in motion, eager to put every command immediately and implicitly into action."

Should we consign such a report to the realm of fables, asks Neumann? We certainly should. And yet these are precisely the ideas which underlie Newton's law of universal gravitation. I quote Neumann again:

"In cosmic space such commands are continually resounding, proceeding from each of the heavenly bodies—from the sun, planets, moon and comets. Every single body in space hearkens to the order which the other bodies give it, always striving to carry them out punctiliously. Our earth would dash through space in a straight line if she were not controlled and guided by the voice of command, issuing from moment to moment, from the sun, in which the instructions of the remaining cosmic bodies are less audibly mingled.

"Newton talks explicitly of a mutual attractive force, existing between cosmic. But we must be deceived by such terms. This mutual influence consists in one body dealing out orders, and the other obeying them."

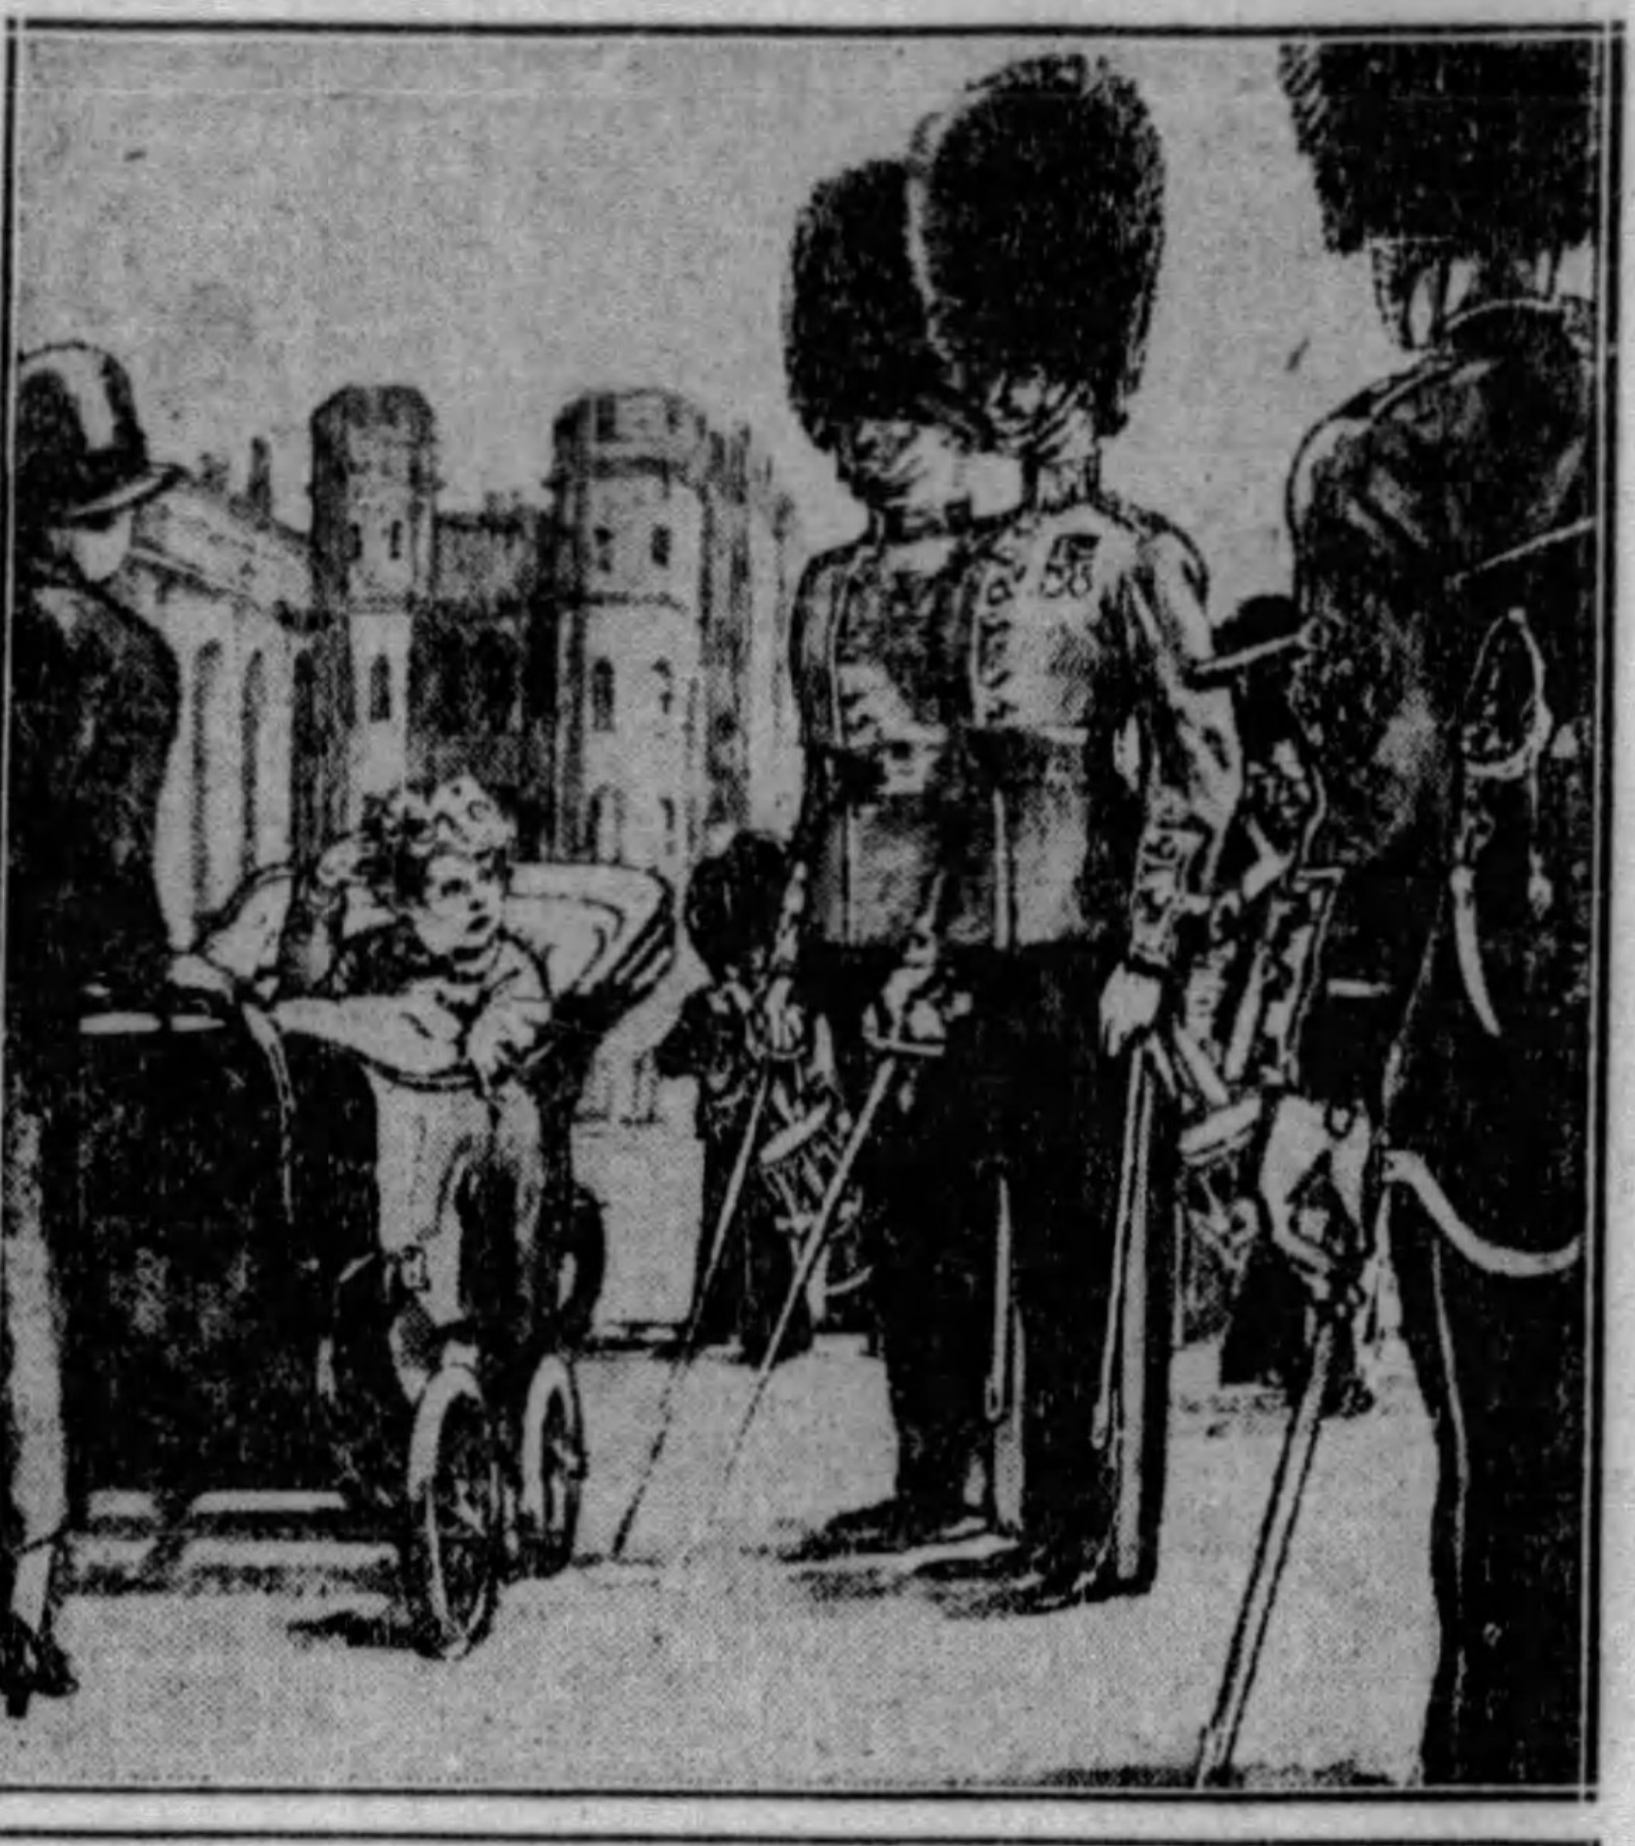
Our Royal Baby

Interesting Bringing Up.



THE LITTLE PRINCESS SALUTES

This picture shows the baby Princess Elizabeth, daughter of Princess Mary, granddaughter of King George and Queen Mary, returning the salute of British officers.

Seeing the little Princess, three years old, moving along in her perambulator, instantly they salute her, solemnly, as you see in this picture.

On her side, quite calmly, never doubting her own little importance, she returns the salute as she has been taught to do, holding her hand, palm outward, at the side of her head, as her grandfather does over and over again.

This is an interesting picture, taking you suddenly back to ancient times. The King no longer RULES. A laboring man, MacDonald, will write the speech that King George or his Queen will make from the throne. Whatever Ramsay MacDonald WRITES, the King will READ. MacDonald is Prime Minister.

This little Princess has some faint chance of being Queen some day. If her uncles all died she would be Queen.

And she is saluted as though she WERE a Queen.

In addition to being a charming little girl, she is adored by the British public, very fond of its royalty.

The question for a student of education is, "WHAT WILL BE THE EFFECT ON THIS CHILDISH MIND?"

What chance will a child under these conditions have of growing up normally?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 6.—One of the stories, unconfirmed, but labeled "absolutely true," which has been convulsing the drawing rooms for many weeks refuses to die. Several newspapers and a tabloid or so have been trying to smoke it out, but a society lady who is the central figure denies it vehemently.

It has proved extremely embarrassing as you shall see. The lady has been frequently in the limelight as a result of her sly efforts to publicize herself. Not particularly beautiful or talented, she married a gentleman whose family name is illustrious. This enhances her value as "copy."

As the story goes, a polished gentleman called to secure her consent to take a blindfold test in a cigaret advertising hoop-la. The lady with becoming reluctance finally agreed to join the other "celebrities" who had submitted to the foolishness.

An appointment was made to make the test in her own drawing room, the subtle suggestion made that this would furnish a far more aristocratic background than the set scenery of a studio. The lady donned an imperial gown and a few rare jewels.

She arranged to sit in a throne-like chair with a famous painting hanging back of her. No detail that would prove photographically impressive was overlooked. The "committee" in braided afternoon coats and the delegation of photographers arrived with great eclat.

The lady was securely blindfolded and while a silken-voiced gentleman gave her one cigaret after another to light, puff and name there was dirty work at the cross roads. Two of the committee and a photographer tiptoed out of the room and up the grand stairway.

They plundered her bedroom of all jewels she was not wearing, took a large sum of money, much silverware and several paintings. Then with the easily-acquired swag, they were joined by the others for a fast sneak to a waiting auto. The lady was still trying to decide which cigaret was which.

Several actresses in recent years have tried to achieve the professional distinction of being known by a single name. But the idea didn't spark and most of them immediately faded from the picture. Imported stars with single names from Europe also fail to click. Only those who have won enormous theatrical fame are privileged to be known in the manner of Bernhardt and Mansfield, it seems.

A columnist has no trouble, however, in becoming known by a single name. As quick as that he is hailed as "sap," "boob" or "nut."

Boxing has gone Four Hundred. One of the Biddles manages a pug. The weekly fights at the Garden have a row or so of debutantes flowered in orchids who screech with delight in watching swings from the ankle. Three boxing instructors have opened studios on Madison avenue to teach aristocratic young bloods. And almost every dawn some society squirt is trundled feet up out of a night club after nurturing the silly conceit that a few boxing lessons entitle him to get fresh with a gorilla.

The waiting lines at New York movie houses now have entertainers like those entertaining about the lobbies of London theaters. In New York they are mostly singers and seedy magicians, but one Sunday recently two acrobats appeared in spangled tights for a series of flip flops and collected quite a sum.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

PERHAPS you have a daughter whom you have guarded against harm in every way.

Wouldn't you feel like thrashing a man who in any way endeavored to damage her character or reputation?

Notwithstanding, how do you treat the daughters of others?

Do you give them the same consideration and the same degree of respect that you think should be shown your own daughter?

The fathers of these other girls love them as much as you love your girl.

If these girls conduct themselves properly, they are entitled to the same courtesy and gentlemanly conduct as your daughter has the right to demand from the men she meets.

Even if these girls act foolish and a little indiscreet, still you should protect them from their own folly, even as you would want your own daughter protected.

As a father you should do what you can to have them realize what chances they are taking and try to have them exercise better control.
